

LBJ Thinks Nation Is Behind Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson sees growing support for his determination to keep U.S. forces in Vietnam until an honorable settlement is reached.

The President told a hastily called news conference Thursday "there is hardly anyone who feels that there ought to be unilateral withdrawal. I think that fewer feel that way today than yesterday—or the period behind us."

Johnson also said there has been no change in U. S. objectives in Vietnam, conceded the war "tests the patience and understanding of each of us" and expressed hope "all of my countrymen and our friends in the world will recognize what we are doing and why we are doing it."

The President also used the occasion to defend the administration's record so far in pushing "Great Society" legislation through this year's Congress, to deny reports the war will boost his budget $5 billion and to voice cautious optimism about nuclear nonproliferation talks underway.

And he said of his daughter Luci Nugent's pregnancy: "I am very happy for Luci and Pat. I am very fond of little children."

While declining direct comment, the chief executive referred to this week's signing by 16 Senate critics of his Vietnam policies of a statement warning North Vietnam not to be misled into thinking such dissent indicates support for unilateral withdrawal by U.S. troops.

That came when he was asked if he felt it paradoxical that recent public opinion polls show his popularity rising amid steady congressional criticism of his Vietnam policies.

Noting there were only 18 votes in the House earlier this year on a resolution to stop the bombing of North Vietnam, Johnson added: "The other expression I have seen is the 16 in the letter saying, 'Don't be misled North Vietnam.'"

He held open prospects the United States may ask the United Nations to take up the Vietnam issues, but added he didn't know when such action could come.

Johnson declined to speculate on whether the war appeared to be broadening in scope or on reported massive North Vietnamese troop buildups near the demilitarized zone between the two Vietnams.

He expressed regret at the House's defeat Wednesday of his rent supplement proposal, a key feature of his "Great Society" program. But he noted initial success on three other special funds for urban summer projects, model cities and the federal Teacher Corps.

Speaking of the four programs, he added: "We lost the $10 million out of a total budget of $175 billion. I wouldn't say that is a very big loss, although we do think it ought to be restored."

The President declined comment on his 1968 re-election plans, said he still wants a six per cent income tax surcharge imposed this year and indicated he may try to help Democrats raise money to pay off party debts with some personal appearances, probably this June.

Plane Explodes In Ross County

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—A military plane was reported to have exploded in the air over a rural Ross County area shortly after noon Friday. There was no immediate report of casualties.

Sheriff's deputies who went to the scene found only a big hole in the ground with flame coming from it, and saw another plane circling above.

They said a witness had reported seeing one of the planes explode in the air.

Rainfall Hampers Search for Body

11-year-old Linda Phillips.

The bodies of the other four members of the Phillips family who drowned in a tragic automobile accident Tuesday have been recovered.

Only the father, Vester Phillips, 31, survived the accident. Able to escape from the auto after it plunged into the creek, he made it safely to shore.

Shortly before noon Thursday the body of Gary Phillips was recovered about 125 yards down stream from the bridge where the accident occurred.

GRAVESIDE services for the deceased members of the family will be held 11 a. m. at Lithopolis Cemetery.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said today investigation of the accident termed one of the most tragic in Pickaway County, was virtually concluded. He indicated recovery of the fifth body will end the probe.

Mrs. Ruby Phillips, 36, was driving the car when it plunged into the creek. Authorities were told by her husband that she was learning to drive.

Her body and those of two of her children were recovered shortly after the accident.

NYC Freight Train Derails 16 Cars

Miss USA Contestants Scoff and Scorn Twiggy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Twiggy's boyish figure would be lost among the 51 curvaceous beauties at the Miss USA pageant.

And the girls here have some definite ideas on how the supermodel would fare as a contestant.

"She wouldn't quite make it here," snapped Judianne Magnusson of Phoenix, Arizona's contestant, "Why, she has no shape."

Turned up noses and cries of "She's too skinny" accompanied the mere mention of the big-eyed Briton's name.

None of the girls here would trade in their looks for the more famous — and more profitable — looks of Twiggy.

Would Twiggy make it to the finals Saturday?

"Never!" was the solemn judgment of Jean Galata, New Jersey's entry in the 16th annual Miss USA contest. "I think a woman should look like a woman."

said 36-24-36 Kathleen Solt of Jefferson, Iowa. "She's just not womanly," threw in Sandra Baldwin of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Even the dream of a top modeling career couldn't sway the lasses from their staunch disapproval.

Some were willing to make minor concessions. "She's got a cute face," said Nancy Giuliano of Woonsocket, R.I. "But she looks unnatural."

"I'd like to have her eyes," said Miss Massachusetts, Pamela Procter of Marblehead.

"And I like her nose," offered Ohio's 36-23-35 blonde, Phyllis Smith of Caldwell.

New York's Wendy Cox, who was recently forced to drop out of her prelaw studies at the University of Miami because of a skiing accident, said she has heard that the photographer in New York doesn't think Twiggy is so hot either.

"I was in one photographer's studio in New York where they had darts thrown into her picture," the slender blonde said.

Federal Funds Withheld on Construction

Discrimination Policy To Be Enforced in Ohio

CLEVELAND (AP) — The federal government is withholding funds on $43.8 million worth of construction projects in the Cleveland-Akron area in a new get-tough policy of enforcing federal requirements on employment of Negroes and other minorities.

The announcement was made in Cleveland Thursday by Vincent C. Macaluso, assistant director, Office of Federal Contract Compliance, Washington. He said similar action on another $60 million worth is under consideration in the immediate Cleveland area.

In Columbus, the State of Ohio was ordered Wednesday a U. S. district court to contract for construction with firms guaranteeing to obtain workers "only from sources that will reasonably insure equal job opportunities."

The order signed by Judge Joseph P. Kinneary prevents the state from signing contracts for a new $12.8 million federal medical science building at Ohio State University until builders act to end alleged discrimination.

Gov. James A. Rhodes' office said officials had been assured that a delay in signing the contracts would not endanger a federal contribution of about $6 million for the project.

Macaluso noted all contracts involving federal funds have a section in which contractors must assure minority employment.

"It's like any other clause of the contract," he said. "If they can't fulfill the contract, they shouldn't bid jobs."

"If they want to do business with the federal government, they are just going to have to get minority persons on the jobs. It is the contractors who sign the contracts and recruit the labor force."

The Building Trades Employers' Association, representing four major construction firms here, had no comment.

U.S. Marines Invade South Half of DMZ

City-Suburb Tension Seen In House Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The licking the Johnson administration took in the House on the issue of rent supplements may have resulted partly from city-suburb tensions with racial overtones.

A study of two roll calls taken Wednesday suggests this possibility.

The House voted 231 to 171 to eliminate from an appropriation bill $10 million to carry forward the rent supplement program. But then it refused 213 to 193 to cut off funds for model cities projects.

Both undertakings are controversial parts of Johnson's "Great Society" program. Republicans voted heavily against both.

The rent supplement program is not designed to help poor people pay for their present lodgings. It is intended to encourage private, nonprofit enterprise to get into a field now left to public housing.

Church, labor union or other groups willing to build low-cost housing if it could break even would receive an advance guarantee of economically feasible rents. The government would undertake to make up the difference between what a tenant could pay—based on not more than 25 per cent of his income—and a reasonable rent.

In discussion of the program the suggestion has been made, more or less openly, that it would result in the transplanting of inner-city—which often means Negro—families into new low-cost housing in the suburbs.

Thirty-six House members, 22 Republicans and 14 Democrats, who voted against funds for rent supplements voted a short time later for funds for model cities—the proposal to carry on massive rehabilitation projects in selected large slum areas. These projects presumably would not send slum dwellers to the suburbs.

There were a few witches in the other direction.

Of the 36 who were willing to support model cities efforts but not rent supplements, at least 22 represent districts with substantial suburban constituencies. Some other members from both parties representing suburbs, however, voted for the supplements.

U.S. 'Hopeful' On Pacification

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top American officials are counting on new U. S. military direction to get the important pacification program moving in Vietnam and to prod the South Vietnamese into doing more.

President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara discussed Thursday the recent shift of the U. S. part of the pacification effort from civilian to military control.

"We believe that in that way we will get more efficient work in pacification from the South Vietnamese themselves," Johnson told a White House news conference.

At a Pentagon news conference earlier, McNamara said pacification progress "has been very slow indeed."

With the recent change in control, McNamara said, "I am hopeful that the next six months will see more improvement than has been evident in the past six months."

The defense secretary said chief responsibility for bringing peace to the Vietnamese countryside and providing security to peasants must be assigned to the South Vietnamese.

The Vietnamese want it that way, McNamara said, and recognize it is their responsibility — "that they are best qualified to carry it out."

McNamara said Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky has assigned roughly half his South Vietnamese regular army 150 battalions to pacification.

Pickets Are Picketed

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — A group of Oberlin College students picketed two Navy recruiters Thursday as a protest against the Vietnam war. They in turn were picketed by fellow students supporting the war.

Estimates of the number peace pickets ranged from 12 to 200; of the counterpickets, 50 to 75.

Several Oberlin Merchants, at American Legion urging, lined the business district with flags in support of U. S. policy.

The peace picketing had been planned for more than a week in order to avoid charges of "coercive demonstrating" that were leveled against student protesters last February.

During a protest then, demonstrators attempted to block access to three Air Force recruiters and several minor scuffles resulted.

College President Robert K. Carr told demonstration leaders earlier this week he would not tolerate a coercive demonstration and would consider expelling any student who participated in one.

"I expect to see a much greater effort and a much greater participation by the South Vietnamese in the pacification process over the next several months," the Pentagon chief said.

Many U. S. military men in Vietnam and here have complained privately that the South Vietnamese have not been doing their part.

Some American officers are concerned the United States may assume the main combat role in pacification following Gen. William C. Westmoreland's takeover of direction over the American pacification advisory role.

This would mean, in effect, that U. S. forces would shoulder not only their current main mission of conducting search-and-destroy operations against Communist North Vietnamese and Viet Cong regulars — but also would take on the job of breaking the guerrilla hold on the countryside and protecting Vietnamese rural development teams.

If this happens, U. S. officers say, the United States might have to pump in another 250,000 or more men above the 470,000 currently planned buildup level.

Court Grants Death Stay For Keaton

The Ohio Supreme Court Thursday granted a stay of execution to Cleo Vernon Keaton, convicted slayer of Maurice Francis of Williamsport.

Keaton had been sentenced to die in the electric chair June 21. The execution date was set after an appeal filed by his attorney Emanuel Nadlin of Dayton, was turned down by the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

He was convicted by a Pickaway County Common Pleas Jury in November of 1965. The murder occurred north of the village of Williamsport in March of 1965.

Charges on which Keaton was convicted were murder in the first degree and murder while in the perpetration of a robbery.

The court order granting the stay was signed by Chief Justice Kingsley Taft.

Market Takes Another Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—The over all stock market took another loss early Friday afternoon but silver and other mining issues were very strong on news that the U. S. Treasury had taken emergency action to halt the run on its remaining stock of silver.

The rally of silver stocks paralleled a big advance of silver on the commodity future markets.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 4.90 to 472.44.

8-Year-Old Hurls Tot to His Death

NEW YORK (AP) — An 8-year-old boy, who police said spoke proudly of shaking down money from younger children, has been charged with throwing a 4-year-old off a roof to his death because he could offer him only a potato chip.

Detective Edward Farrell said a potato chip was found tightly clutched in the hand of Javier Segarra.

The boy charged with hurling him from the roof was not identified. He was booked on juvenile delinquency with a specification of homicide.

Escalation Charges Will Likely Follow

SAIGON (AP)—Striking at North Vietnamese troops menacing the northern part of South Vietnam, 5,500 U. S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops have invaded the southern half of the demilitarized zone. They reported killing 162 of the enemy in the first 24 hours of fighting.

Twelve Marines were reported killed and 202 wounded in the initial phase of the operation, named Hickory, which kicked off at dawn Thursday.

Marine officers in Da Nang announced a Marine landing force lost 16 men killed and more than 40 wounded today under fire from North Vietnamese artillery. Communist mortars wounded 14 Marines manuevering within the zone.

The U. S. Command reported hard fighting elsewhere in South Vietnam Thursday, with at least 228 other Communists killed. And a relief force reached a platoon of the U. S. 4th Infantry Division that was overrun in the central highlands and found 22 of the American soldiers dead and seven wounded.

The allied penetration of the demilitarized zone took the ground war to the doorstep of North Vietnam for the first time. It was certain to bring charges from abroad that the United States was again escalating the war.

One high U. S. official in Saigon pointed out that "the North Vietnamese have been in the demilitarized zone for a long, long time."

"Why it should be considered as sanctuary for one side only, I don't understand," he said.

The invasion by helicopter, amphibious landing craft and on foot was preceded by a heavy bombardment of both the southern and northern halves of the zone by Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers and Navy ships.

One Navy Skyhawk was shot down just north of the zone Thursday, and the Navy also announced the loss of a Crusader jet over North Vietnam Wednesday, due to unknown causes. Both pilots are missing.

A total of 544 U. S. combat planes now have been reported lost over North Vietnam.

The invasion force made three main thrusts into the demilitarized zone. AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the forward Marine headquarters at Dong Ha that the objective appeared to be to trap elements of two North Vietnamese regiments—possibly 5,000 troops—between the allied troops inside the zone and some 5,000 Leathernicks sweeping northward from Con Thien, the Marine outpost 2,000 yards south of the zone.

Helicopters landed one battalion of Marines on the south bank of the Ben Hai River, where it runs into the South China Sea at the eastern end of the zone. Landing craft brought support units ashore.

Other helicopters brought a second Leatherneck battalion to a landing zone near the southern bank of the river north of Con Thien, which is 15 miles inland.

Six battalions of South Vietnamese troops moved overland through the three-mile-wide southern half of the zone to the international bridge across the Ben Hai and began fanning out to the east and west.

Military sources said it was not planned to cross into North Vietnam' half of the zone. Lengel reported the fighting tapered off today, but the Leatherneck battalion that landed north of Con Thien found huge stocks of North Vietnamese munitions and other supplies.

Accompanying the South Vietnamese and the Marines were civil policemen to aid in evacuating the hardy civilians who have stuck to their paddies inside the frequently shelled and bombed zone. Some sources estimated as many as 11,000 refugees might have to be evacuated.

Cook Loses His Battle With Seagram

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook admitted today he had lost his battle with Seagram distillers, and that "with reluctance, we are granting the Seagram increase."

At the same time Cook said that to cover increases granted distillers, prices would go up on other brands, putting the state's present 28 per cent markup to 30 per cent allowed by law, the profits to go to education.

However, he said the price increases, first since 1959, would be offset by an increase from 10 to 12½ per cent in the discount rate to permit holders, "which should prevent any transfer of the increase to patrons buying drinks on permit premises."

The increases for Seagram products will include 13 cents a fifth and 12 cents per pint on Seven Crown, the fastest selling blend in state stores; Calvert Extra 12 cents a fifth and 8 cents per pint; Four Roses 13 cents a fifth and 8 cents per pint; Canadian V.O. 8 cents a fifth and 4 cents a pint; Chivas Regal 48 cents a fifth and 25 cents a 10th; 100 Pipers 12 cents a fifth and seven cents a 10th.

City-Suburb Tension Seen In House Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The licking the Johnson administration took in the House on the issue of rent supplements may have resulted partly from city-suburb tensions with racial overtones.

A study of two roll calls taken Wednesday suggests this possibility.

The House voted 231 to 171 to eliminate from an appropriation bill $10 million to carry forward the rent supplement program. But then it refused 213 to 193 to cut off funds for model cities projects.

Both undertakings are controversial parts of Johnson's "Great Society" program. Republicans voted heavily against both.

College President Robert K. Carr told demonstration leaders earlier this week he would not tolerate a coercive demonstration and would consider expelling any student who participated in one.

Escalation Charges Will Likely Follow

SAIGON (AP)—Striking at North Vietnamese troops menacing the northern part of South Vietnam, 5,500 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops have invaded the southern half of the demilitarized zone. They reported killing 162 of the enemy in the first 24 hours of fighting.

Twelve Marines were reported killed and 202 wounded in the initial phase of the operation, named Hickory, which kicked off at dawn Thursday.

Marine officers in Da Nang announced a Marine landing force lost 16 men killed and more than 40 wounded today under fire from North Vietnamese artillery. Communist mortars wounded 14 Marines maneuvering within the zone.

The U.S. Command reported hard fighting elsewhere in South Vietnam Thursday, with at least 228 other Communists killed. And a relief force reached a plateau of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division that was overrun in the central highlands and found 22 of the American soldiers dead and seven wounded.

The allied penetration of the demilitarized zone took the ground war to the doorstep of North Vietnam for the first time. It was certain to bring charges from abroad that the United States was again escalating the war.

One high U.S. official in Saigon pointed out that "the North Vietnamese have been in the demilitarized zone for a long, long time."

"Why it should be considered as sanctuary for one side only, I don't understand," he said.

The invasion by helicopter, amphibious landing craft and on foot was preceded by a heavy bombardment of both the southern and northern halves of the zone by Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers and Navy ships.

One Navy Skyhawk was shot down just north of the zone Thursday, and the Navy also announced the loss of a Crusader jet over North Vietnam Wednesday, due to unknown causes. Both pilots are missing.

A total of 544 U.S. combat planes now have been reported lost over North Vietnam.

The invasion force made three main thrusts into the demilitarized zone. AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the forward Marine headquarters at Dong Ha that the objective appeared to be to trap elements of two North Vietnamese regiments—possibly 5,000 troops—between the allied troops inside the zone and some 5,000 Leathernicks sweeping northward from Con Thien, the Marine outpost 2,000 yards south of the zone.

Helicopters landed one battalion of Marines on the south bank of the Ben Hai River, where it runs into the South China Sea at the eastern end of the zone. Landing craft brought support units ashore.

Other helicopters brought a second Leathernick battalion to a landing zone near the southern bank of the river north of Con Thien, which is 15 miles inland.

Six battalions of South Vietnamese troops moved overland through the three-mile-wide southern half of the zone to the international bridge across the Ben Hai and began fanning out to the east and west.

Military sources said it was not planned to cross into North Vietnam half of the zone. Lengel reported the fighting tapered off today, but the Leathernick battalion that landed north of Con Thien found huge stocks of North Vietnamese munitions and other supplies.

Accompanying the South Vietnamese and the Marines were civil policemen to aid in evacuating the hardy civilians who have stuck to their paddyfields inside the frequently shelled and bombed zone. Some sources estimated as many as 11,000 refugees might have to be evacuated.

Court Grants Death Stay For Keaton

The Ohio Supreme Court Thursday granted a stay of execution to Cleo Vernon Keaton, convicted slayer of Maurice Francis of Williamsport.

Keaton had been sentenced to die in the electric chair June 21. The execution date was set after an appeal filed by his attorney Emanuel Nadlin of Dayton, was turned down by the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

He was convicted by a Pickaway County Common Pleas Jury in November of 1965. The murder occurred north of the village of Williamsport in March of 1965.

Charges on which Keaton was convicted were murder in the first degree and murder while in the perpetration of a robbery.

Market Takes Another Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—The overall stock market took another loss early Friday afternoon but silver and other mining issues were very strong on news that the U.S. Treasury had taken emergency action to halt the run on its remaining stock of silver.

The rally of silver stocks paralleled a big advance of silver on the commodity future markets.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.2 at 324.1 with industrials off 2.2, rails off .3 and utilities off .4.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 4.90 to 472.44.

8-Year-Old Hurls Tot to His Death

NEW YORK (AP)—An 8-year-old boy, who police said spoke proudly of shaking down money from younger children, has been charged with throwing a 4-year-old off a roof to his death because he could offer him only a potato chip.

Detective Edward Farrell said a potato chip was found tightly clutched in the hand of Javier Segarra.

The boy charged with hurling him from the roof was not identified. He was booked on juvenile delinquency with a specification of homicide.

COMBINED AIRPORT EFFORT — David Sealock (right), Circleville Sertoma Club president, hands Dr. Robert Liggett of the Circleville Jaycees a check pledged to aid a Pickaway County airport program. Sertoma also has moved to offer full support toward enlisting additional pledges for airport construction. Dr. Liggett today said it is most gratifying to have another service club join his organization in efforts to establish an aviation facility here. Approximately $3,300 has been pledged to date.

Man Cited After Mishap

Roy D. Downing, 26, Clarksburg, injured when his car crashed into a parked school bus at 2:15 a. m. today near Routes 207 and 22, has been cited to appear in Circleville Municipal Court.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff James Lockard has charged Downing with leaving the scene of an accident, failure to heed a stop sign and reckless operation.

Downing apparently lost control of his car after speeding through the intersection and hit the Westfall school bus, according to Lockard.

Although it was heavily damaged, he drove his car to Atlanta and from there to Clarksburg. In Clarksburg, he was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the mishap.

Deputy Lockard was able to follow the trail of the damaged vehicle left to Clarksburg. He questioned Downing at the hospital.

Airman Charged With Assault Following Fracas

Charges of assault with a deadly weapon, disorderly conduct and malicious destruction of property have been filed against Roger Eugene Parker, a 21-year-old Lockbourne airman.

The charges were filed as a result of an apparent fight investigated by Circleville Police early Thursday morning at Odra Restaurant.

Officers were called to the restaurant by Mrs. Ruby Hagi. When Sgt. Roderick List and Patrolman Arthur Finley entered they said that the airman was standing at one end of the restaurant with a large butcher knife in his hand.

He did not drop the weapon until Patrolman Finley drew his service revolver.

Also cited as a result of the altercation was James Cassidy, Jr., 22, Route 3. He was cited for disorderly conduct.

On Joys of Life Under Red Rule

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro says money will be abolished in Cuba some day. Everything will be free.

"Money is the vile intermediary between man and the product he creates," the Cuban prime minister said in a Havana speech Thursday night monitored in Miami.

"The day will come when the man who produces a potato will deliver it and receive nothing, and will get all he needs—without money," Castro said.

"That is communism."

Ohio Boys Town Gets New Director

CLEVELAND (AP)—A former Columbiana County welfare director, Mathew Curry, 55, will become executive director of Ohio Boys Town here July 1.

Curry, assistant superintendent of Cleveland Boys School for nine years, will replace David Reutenik who is moving to an administrative post in Detroit. Reutenik had directed Ohio Boys Town, a privately sponsored home since it was founded in 1957 to aid youngsters having difficulties adjusting to family life.

What Is Wife Worth?

CHRISTOPHER MINICLIER
NEW YORK (AP) — What is a wife worth?
"She is priceless," many a happily married man might respond.
A survey released Tuesday, attempts to be a bit more exact. If your wife is an average American housewife she is worth $8,300 a year, based on a wage survey of 12 occupational duties she performs.
An awesome thing for her to keep in mind when she asks for a new fur coat.
However, if her husband is an ambassador she is worth more — not because she works longer hours or fulfills more roles, but because the extra job she does assume pays more.
These conclusions are drawn in an article appearing in the first edition of Envoy, a new monthly magazine published in New York for the diplomatic and consular community.
Envoy enlisted the aid of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. economists, the Chase Manhattan Bank, and the Restaurant & Hotelmen's Agency to compile a table of hours worked in different tasks and wages which would be paid for these tasks.

The average American housewife served 44.5 hours a week as a nursemaid, 13.1 hours a week as a cook, 17.5 hours as a housekeeper and lesser periods as a dietitian, food buyer, dishwasher, laundress, seamstress, practical nurse, maintenance man, gardener and chauffeur, the study said.
Her highest salaried role are dietitian, seamstress and cook at $2.50 an hour each. But she works only 15.6 hours a week at these tasks. Her major role is nursemaid, 44.5 hours out of a 99.6-hour work week, pays only $1.25 an hour.
The survey concluded that a housewife does not serve as a compensable hostess.

Turning to the ambassador's wife, the survey deleted the roles of dishwasher, laundress, seamstress, maintenance man, gardener and chauffeur — on the theory the ambassador's wife would have domestic help. It was assumed she would do a substantial amount of entertaining, $3.57 an hour for a hostess.
The survey concluded that the ambassador's wife worked only 92.2 hours a week, but earned $8,700 a year, thanks largely to her hostess role.
The least-valued woman in the survey was the diplomatic attaché's wife. Assigned a hostess salary of only $2.15 an hour and deprived of the payrolls of dishwasher, laundress and seamstress, she would earn only $8,000 a year for 94.5 hours a week.
The survey noted that education, common sense, and discretion were among the less financially measurable, but vital attributes of any wife.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — William McChesney Martin, a man whose conscience and long memory impels him to say what intelligent men know should be said but fear to hear, has spoken bluntly again.
Once again Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has warned the stock market community of "disquieting" similarities between large-scale speculation now and certain conditions that preceded the 1929 crash.
Typically, Martin expressed his concern at a celebration that, judging from the program, was intended to be a gala rather than critical affair. It was the observance of the New York Stock Exchange's 175th anniversary.
Martin has made similar statements before that have offended the establishment. He has been accused of too much caution by some, of too much bluntness by others. But even those who disagree have been seen applauding later.
Martin's concern now is with investment companies — mutual funds, pension funds, big portfolios. Many of the "institution" are now openly speculating rather than investing. Their in-out trading is causing wide price changes.
"In effect, they set a target on a growth stock, attain that target, unload, and then seek other opportunities for quick capital gains," he told the brokers and others assembled.

Some of this "poisonous" activity, Martin feels, may have results similar to pooling, now outlawed, which preceded the big crash.
Pooling was rigging. Several traders created deceptive activity in a stock, lanted bullish rumors, otherwise encouraged buying, and then sold out at big profits.
Funds, by their great buying power, can quite legitimately have a big effect on prices. If several funds buy the same stock, as they often do, this power is multiplied. The biggest danger, though, is that they might sell together — as they do.
Such selling has occurred often in the past year. In one instance one-quarter of a firm's shares were sold in a few hours at a loss of $19 a share. And another company considered delisting its stock to avoid such action by funds.
Curiously, this problem has been discussed and studied but never brought to a decision.
The Securities and Exchange Commission barely dealt with the situation in its recent studies. Manuel F. Cohen, SEC chairman, concedes "institutional concentration" has an effect. But what, he asks, "Until we know more than we do now, we will be handicapped in reaching intelligent judgments about developing situations promptly enough to take effective action in the public interest," he exclaimed at a security forum.

The New York Stock Exchange recognizes the situation but has done little more than wag a finger or tap a wrist. Its annual report for 1966 contains this admonition from Keith Funt, president: "For their part, some institutions probably will want to give more thought to the effect their transactions have on the companies in which they invest and on the rank and file of stockholders."
This rank and file, incidentally, is the more than 20 million stockholders about whom the exchange boasts in support of its "corporate democracy" theme.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
"Fear not that ye have died for naught.
The torch ye threw to us we caught. . ."
These lines by Poet W. R. Lillard in response to the poignant message of Colonel John McCrae's classic, "In Flanders Field" seem most applicable to the American Legion Auxiliary this year as we observe another Poppy Day here in Circleville, Saturday, May 20.
Our hearts are touched anew as we follow daily reports from the Vietnam area and scan the casualty reports concerning those courageous young Americans who have lost their lives in defense of our freedoms. And what memories are stirred for all of us!

Etched against the terrible conflict of our own times are the unforgettable figures of those who "Lie in Flanders Field" . . . those who made the supreme sacrifice on the beaches of Normandy or in the French, German and Italian Countryside . . . those who saw their last day's light in the steaming jungles of the Pacific fighting or in the frigid wastes of Korea . . . those whose final resting place was in the deep waters of our great oceans.
The American Legion Auxiliary's annual Poppy Day is a period of very special remembrance and all of you who help to make it a success in our community are helping to keep that pledge that " . . . we will keep true faith with you who lie asleep."
Americans everywhere join in expressing their deep gratitude to our war dead by wearing the bright red flower of remembrance on Poppy Day — a simple yet somber tribute to those who gave their lives that " . . . Freedom's light shall never die."

WHAT WOULD YOU do, if, just before a crucial approach you shot to the eighteenth green, you looked up—and found a full-grown hippopotamus looking at you? That's one of the unusual hazards that confronts players on the sporty nine-hole golf course in Lusaka, Zambia. Furthermore, there's a local rule at the club, often needed, that allows a player to lift his ball out of a hippo's footprints without penalty.
A whole family of hippos have set up light housekeeping on the lake next to the course, and they seem to enjoy watching the golfers in action. The biggest hippo in the herd, nicknamed Jason, leaves particularly devastating footprints on the fairways—some times nine or ten inches deep.
QUICKIES:
One of those young beatniks with hair down to his shoulders took a job sweeping out a barber shop for fifty cents a day. Asked why he was willing to work for such ridiculously low wages, he explained, "I'm hiding out from my family. This is the last place in the world they'll look for me."
A lady explained to her local postmaster that she wanted to send a goldfish to her sister in London. "Regular mail?" she was asked. "No, no," she answered. "It's got to go air mail. This fish gets sea-sick."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

My daughter had her ears pierced without our permission by a man who is not a doctor. Our resentment is particularly great because we feel that this is a minor operation which deserved our written consent. In addition, my daughter, aged 16 developed an infection of the ears for which he disclaimed any responsibility. This was part of a package deal for the sale of earrings. Should there not be some control over these situations?

T.T. Massachusetts
Dear Mr. T.: Many teenagers like your daughter have their ears pierced without permission expecting to be chastised, but knowing full well that nothing can be done about the holes in their ears. I am certain that this attitude is part of the revolt against authority.
I feel that this is a minor operation that carries with it the risk of a certain number of infections. Any operation, no matter how slight, would not be performed in a hospital without the express permission of the parents of a minor.
There should be distinct legislation that would make this necessary if only to give parents the assurance that they might express an opinion about the wisdom of piercing ears.
Perhaps children would proceed with greater caution if they knew that another young girl in Massachusetts had developed a serious blood infection after having her ears pierced by a friend.
So serious was this condition that it took months before this girl was free from the many abscesses that had formed all over her body because she had developed a "staph" infection. Ears should be pierced only under the most sterile conditions.
My husband has a peptic ulcer of the stomach and is supposed to be on a bland diet. I have tried to get such a diet but cannot get it from anyone. What things can he eat that should be included in such a diet?
Mrs. C. D., Iowa
Dear Mrs. D.: It is almost difficult to believe that such a simple diet is not made available to you by the doctor who came to the conclusion that your husband had an ulcer of the stomach or intestines. Undoubtedly he prescribed the diet which is easily as impor-

'Bridge Building' Opposition

By John Chamberlain

Anyone who can see more than a year ahead in politics is a genius.
For example, it was less than three years ago that Lyndon Johnson was calling Barry Goldwater "a ranting, raving demagogue" for championing the hawk position on Vietnam. Who would have foreseen then that in 1967 Johnson would be bombing power plants in Haiphong, striking at airports close to the Red China border, and signaling to Moscow that he is ready for a long war by approving the recommissioning of a battleship that won't be ready to use its 16-inch guns against North Vietnam until late in 1968?
This major irony is accompanied by a lesser one. In 1964 Democrat Tom Dodd was running for the U. S. Senate in Connecticut on what might have been called a de facto bipartisan platform. As a hard anti-Communist he pitched his appeal not only to the Poles, the Hungarians, and other anti-appeasement minority groups who happened to be Democrats, but also to a large bloc of Young Americans for Freedom who were registered as Republicans. Dodd was opposed by John Davis Lodge, a former governor of the State and a former Ambassador to Spain. Lodge was anti-Communist himself, but Dodd was much the better known as the Communists' Number One U. S. opponent.
Now comes the irony. For two years Tom Dodd has been virtually silenced in the U. S. Senate because of the drain on his time and energy caused by the necessity for coping with the charges of financial malfeasance that have been made against him. Meanwhile John Davis Lodge, who couldn't make it to the Senate because of Dodd's superior reputation as an anti-Communist leader, has emerged as the most implacable anti-Communist in the State of Connecticut. It would be a most curious turn of affairs if he were some day elected Senator from Connecticut on a Dodd platform.

Vietnam, thinks it monstrous that the State Department is pushing for economic deals with Soviet Russia at a time when "American men are being killed and wounded by Soviet bullets and explosives fired from Soviet weapons delivered to Vietnam by Soviet ships and planes." His committee, which is backed by many businessmen as well as by such military authorities as Admiral Arleigh Burke, former Chief of Naval Operations, has just swung into action with a ringing call on Congress to "end existing trade and aid, direct or indirect, to the Soviet Union."
John Davis Lodge's CEASE is based in Washington. A parallel organization called the Businessman's Committee on Trade with Communist China, chaired by Mark Anton, is being set up on New York to combat the idea of making trade concessions to Peking while it is supporting the North Vietnamese. Mr. Anton has rounded up an impressive list of endorsers, including Clifford J. Backstrand, chairman of the Armstrong Cork Company of Lancaster, Pennsylvania; James J. Buckley, vice president of the Catawba Corporation (and incidentally brother of Bill Buckley, the New York Conservative leader and editor); Merritt D. Hill, chairman of the J. I. Case Company of Racine, Wisconsin; F. K. Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, Minnesota, and many other businessmen, mostly from small and medium-size business.

Altogether, it looks like tougher sledding in the near future for those who were gambling on the popularity of "bridge building" to the Communist East. This, in itself, is another ironic turn when one thinks back to a few weeks ago, when the Senate was approving the consular treaty with Russia.

Defenbaugh Firm Conceived In Pickaway 127 Years Ago

The Defenbaugh Funeral Home was conceived 127 years ago.
Peter Defenbaugh, coffin maker and cabinet builder, in addition to his funeral directing business, operated in the Village of Turlington until 1865. His operation started in 1840.
The funeral home business continued with Stephen Defenbaugh, also an undertaker and coffin maker, in 1865 at the Turlington location. A short time following 1900, Stephen and Harley Defenbaugh, father and son, operated under the partnership of S. Defenbaugh and Son.
In 1940, the business was moved to Circleville at its present location, 151 E. Main St. Partners in the firm at that time were William, Mary and Harold Defenbaugh.
Following the death of William Defenbaugh, a new partnership was formed July 1, 1961. This association consists of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, Charles Wellman and Jack Wise.
Plans for a new chapel and other improvements at the funeral home were made in 1959. But the program was interrupted by the death of William Defenbaugh.
This month the firm observed its 127th anniversary at the Circleville location. The new facilities have been completed in keeping with all family needs for the utmost in comfort and convenience.
The remodeling program was handled through J. B. Stout Co. and Associates, local contractor.

T.T. Massachusetts
Dear Mr. T.: Many teenagers like your daughter have their ears pierced without permission expecting to be chastised, but knowing full well that nothing can be done about the holes in their ears. I am certain that this attitude is part of the revolt against authority.

I feel that this is a minor operation that carries with it the risk of a certain number of infections. Any operation, no matter how slight, would not be performed in a hospital without the express permission of the parents of a minor.

There should be distinct legislation that would make this necessary if only to give parents the assurance that they might express an opinion about the wisdom of piercing ears.

Perhaps children would proceed with greater caution if they knew that another young girl in Massachusetts had developed a serious blood infection after having her ears pierced by a friend.

So serious was this condition that it took months before this girl was free from the many abscesses that had formed all over her body because she had developed a "staph" infection. Ears should be pierced only under the most sterile conditions.

My husband has a peptic ulcer of the stomach and is upposed to be on a bland diet. I have tried to get such a diet but cannot get it from anyone.

What things can be eat that should be included in such a diet?

Mrs. C. D., Iowa
Dear Mrs. D. It is almost difficult to believe that such a simple diet is not made available to you by the doctor who came to the conclusion that your husband had an ulcer of the stomach or intestines. Undoubtedly he prescribed the diet which is easily as impor-

'Bridge Building' Opposition

By John Chamberlain

Anyone who can see more than a year ahead in politics is a genius.

For example, it was less than three years ago that Lyndon Johnson was calling Barry Goldwater "a ranting, raving demagogue" for championing the hawk position on Vietnam. Who would have foreseen then that in 1967 Johnson would be bombing power plants in Haiphong, striking at airports close to the Red China border, and signaling to Moscow that he is ready for a long war by approving the recommissioning of a battleship that won't be ready to use its 16-inch guns against North Vietnam until late in 1968?

This major irony is accompanied by a lesser one. In 1964 Democrat Tom Dodd was running for the U. S. Senate in Connecticut on what might have been called a de facto bipartisan platform. As a hard anti-Communist he pitched his appeal not only to the Poles, the Hungarians, and other anti-appeasement minority groups who happened to be Democrats, but also to a large bloc of Young Americans for Freedom who were registered as Republicans. Dodd was opposed by John Davis Lodge, a former governor of the State and a former Ambassador to Spain. Lodge was anti-Communist himself, but Dodd was much the better known as the Communists' Number One U. S. opponent.

Now comes the irony. For two years Tom Dodd has been virtually silenced in the U. S. Senate because of the drain on his time and energy caused by the necessity for coping with the charges of financial malfeasance that have been made against him. Meanwhile John Davis Lodge, who couldn't make it to the Senate because of Dodd's superior reputation as an anti-Communist leader, has emerged as the most implacable anti-Communist in the State of Connecticut. It would be a most curious turn of affairs if he were some day elected Senator from Connecticut on a Dodd platform.

Lodge has been busy pushing the Presidential aspirations of Richard Nixon, who is quite anti-appeasement himself. But he has also found time to assume the chairmanship of an organization called CEASE, whose full name is the Committee to End Aid to the Soviet Enemy. CEASE hopes to pattern itself on the old Committee of One Million to Oppose Recognition of Red China, but it has posed for itself the fantastic goal of getting ten million Americans to sign its petition against dealing with Soviet Russia and the Communist satellites as long as they are arming the North Vietnamese. This is ten times the number of signatures that Senator Paul Douglas and his colleagues managed to round up to keep Mao Tse-tung out of the UN.

John Davis Lodge, who happens to be brother of Henry Cabot Lodge, the recently resigned Ambassador to South

Vietnam, thinks it monstrous that the State Department is pushing for economic deals with Soviet Russia at a time when "American men are being killed and wounded by Soviet bullets and explosives fired from Soviet weapons delivered to Vietnam by Soviet ships and planes." His committee, which is backed by many businessmen as well as by such military authorities as Admiral Arleigh Burke, former Chief of Naval Operations, has just swung into action with a ringing call on Congress to "end existing trade and aid, direct or indirect, to the Soviet Union."

John Davis Lodge's CEASE is based in Washington. A parallel organization called the Businessman's Committee on Trade with Communist China, chaired by Mark Anton, is being set up on New York to combat the idea of making trade concessions to Peking while it is supporting the North Vietnamese. Mr. Anton has rounded up an impressive list of endorsers, including Clifford J. Backstrand, chairman of the Armstrong Cork Company of Lancaster, Pennsylvania; James J. Buckley, vice president of the Catawba Corporation (and incidentally brother of Bill Buckley, the New York Conservative leader and editor); Merritt D. Hill, chairman of the J. I. Case Company of Racine, Wisconsin; F. K. Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, Minnesota, and many other businessmen, mostly from small and medium-size business.

Altogether, it looks like tough sledding in the near future for those who were gambling on the popularity of "bridge building" to the Communist East. This, in itself, is another ironic turn when one thinks back to a few weeks ago, when the Senate was approving the consular treaty with Russia.

UNHAPPY ROCKY—Rocky Colavito (right), hard-hitting idol of the Cleveland Indians fans, who recently expressed his displeasure at being platooned with Leon Wagner by Tribe manager Joe Adcock, chats with his former field boss Birdie Tebbets, now a New York Mets coach. Rocky contends the platooning deprives him of a chance to win back the pay cut he accepted this year.

Defenbaugh Firm Conceived In Pickaway 127 Years Ago

The Defenbaugh Funeral Home was conceived 127 years ago.

Peter Defenbaugh, coffin maker and cabinet builder, in addition to his funeral directing business, operated in the Village of Turlington until 1865. His operation started in 1840.

The funeral home business continued with Stephen Defenbaugh, also an undertaker and coffin maker, in 1865 at the Turlington location. A short time following 1900, Stephen and Harley Defenbaugh, father and son, operated under the partnership of S. Defenbaugh and Son.

In 1940, the business was moved to Circleville at its present location, 151 E. Main St. Partners in the firm at that time were William, Mary and Harold Defenbaugh.

Following the death of William Defenbaugh a new partnership was formed July 1, 1961. This association consists of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, Charles Wellman and Jack Wise.

Plans for a new chapel and other improvements at the funeral home were made in 1959. But the program was interrupted by the death of William Defenbaugh.

This month the firm observed its 127th anniversary at the Circleville location. The new facilities have been completed in keeping with all family needs for the utmost in comfort and convenience.

The remodeling program was handled through J. B. Stout Co. and Associates, local contractor.

A&W Drive-In Restaurant Observes 10th Anniversary

The A & W Drive-In at Route 2 will celebrate its 10th anniversary this year with free kiddie rides, tempting food and friendly service.

Founder Girard Edelblute, his wife Pauline and daughters Ginger Ann and Karen Jean came to Circleville in 1956. He answered the call here as pastor of a branch Sunday School.

After serving in the pastorate for one year, Edelblute started the A & W Drive-In business.

The operation was launched in a small 20 by 20 feet building which had been used by the church. It was later purchased from James Cook and the church moved into the property next door.

Today the church is located on Nicholas Drive. The new structure was recently dedicated.

Considerable growth has taken place since the drive-in opened. A new dining room seating 45 persons was added. This was followed by installation of a teleray service, the first such electronic device in Pick-away County.

The owner late installed a slot car track—termed the only factory built unit of this type in the area. He also purchased nearby property and now operates an A & W Trailer Park and Beauty Salon.

Mader Funeral Home Stems From Long Family Heritage

The Mader Funeral Home has been serving Circleville and vicinity for 54 years.

In 1913 Lincoln M. Mader opened the first home at Main and Scioto Sts. It was operated continuously by Mr. Mader until 1955 when management was assumed by Lincoln S. Mader, son of the founder.

The funeral home was then moved to its present location at 123 E. Mound St.

In 1965 the home was completely remodeled, enlarged and redecorated.

Plans for the summer of 1967 call for Jack Mader, son of the owner, to enter into the business. This will establish the third generation of Maders to be connected with service to the community.

The younger Mader is a graduate of the Cincinnati College of Embalming. He has been associated with the Deyo Funeral Home in Columbus.

Members of the present staff include Rosemary Mader, bookkeeper and receptionist; Dan Davis, head of the ambulance service and first assistant to the manager; and Ralph Beadle, a part-time employee.

Dr. Lutz Scheduled At EUB Service

Miss Barbara Ann Bowers Bride of James Hettinger

MRS. JAMES L. HETTINGER

Miss Barbara Ann Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Bowers of Laurelville was united in marriage to James L. Hettinger, son of Mrs. Willard Hettinger and the late Mr. Willard Hettinger, Adelphi, Saturday, May 6 at the Laurelville, Methodist Church.

The Rev. John Glick read the ceremony at 2:30 in the afternoon, preceded by a half-hour of organ music played by Mrs. Jean West.

Altar vases were filled with white mums, white stock and palm leaves.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose for her wedding day a gown of white silk organza fashioned in the dome bell silhouette. The molded bodice, enhanced with alencon lace, featured an oval neckline and long pointed sleeves. Motifs of lace enhanced the front of the skirt and an attached train flowed gracefully into chapel length. A forward plateau of matching organza and lace held her elbow length imported silk illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses surrounded by shattered white carnations atop a white Bible.

Miss Pam Skinner, Miss Carol West and Mrs. Larry Van Fossen were the attendants. The attendants wore floor length gowns of silk organza with the honor attendant in aqua and the bridesmaids in yellow. The dresses were fashioned in the A-line silhouette and the molded bodices featured an oval neckline and elbow length sleeves. A detachable floating panel flowed gracefully from the back of the dresses. Matching Dior bows held their circular illusion veils.

Mr. Larry Van Fossen served as best man. Guest were seated by Steve Hettinger, cousin of the groom and Bob Bowers, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Bowers, mother of the bride, was attired in a pink dress, matching coat with pink accessories and a corsage of shattered white and pink carnations.

Mrs. Hettinger, mother of the bridegroom, wore a light green dress. Her corsage was shattered white carnations.

A reception was held in the church basement with hostesses Judy Swackhammer, Becky McClelland, Sandy Axline, Harriet Bookwalter, and Barbara

CC League Of Logan Elm Holds Meeting

Mrs. Tom Congrove and Mrs. Ned Boldoser entertained the Logan Elm Child Conservation League Wednesday night in Mrs. Congrove's home.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. George Minshall. Plans were discussed for the June meeting which will be a "Luau" at the Holiday Inn in Chillicothe. At that time new officers will be installed.

On May 31, Mrs. Delbert Poling will be honored at a layette shower in the home of Mrs. Jerry Knece.

Following adjournment, games were played and refreshments were served to ten members.

Roundtown GC Meeting Held

The Roundtown Garden Club met for their latest meeting in the home of Mrs. William Blaney, Route 3. Mrs. Clyde Eakon was a guest of the club.

Mrs. Harold Pontious conducted the business meeting. Reports were read by Mrs. Robert Hettinger.

Plans were made for the group to attend the Solagua Garden Club Flower Show at Robtown, June 16.

Members brought arrangements of their own interpretation of "Gone Fishing". Mrs. Hettinger received first prize and Mrs. Richard Blaney won second.

A White Elephant sale was held with Mrs. William Blaney as auctioneer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

BPW Plan Meeting

The program for the May meeting of Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club is a Review of Fashions with emphasis on Minnesota Woolens.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the EUB Service Center, 310 E. Main St.

Sharing responsibility for the session is the finance committee: Miss Ruth Hulse, chairman; Mrs. Barbara Schrader, Miss Marie Wilken, Mrs. Harriet Kaylor and Mrs. Marvne Rhodes.

Members are being reminded that "May Days are Pay Days".

Jenkins.

Guests at the wedding and reception were from Laurelville, Adelphi, New Carlisle, Columbus, Circleville, Tarlton and Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowers were hosts for a rehearsal dinner at Pickaway Arms, Circleville, at which time the bride and bridegroom presented gifts to their attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Hettinger are making their home in Laurelville.

OAGC Plans Table Setting Program in Columbus

The Ohio Association of Garden Clubs welcomes all gardeners and homemakers to attend a demonstration on flower arranging and table settings by renowned lecturer and author, Mrs. Sylvia Hirsch of New Rochelle, New York.

It will be held Tuesday, May 23, at 1:30 p. m. on the Sixth Floor at Lazarus in Columbus. Mrs. Hirsch will show some of her own linens and accessories, as well as select items from the store to use in her demonstration entitled "Table Decor". She will explain what is appropriate for all types of meals from breakfast, luncheon, buffet and a formal dinner, along with suggested floral arrangements to compliment them. Tickets are available at the door.

The program is in conjunction with the Judges and Exhibitors School sponsored by the OAGC being held May 23, 24, 25 at the Southern Hotel on South High St., Columbus.

Information on plant identification by Prof. Victor Ries and "Recent Research of Pest Control" by Prof. James Caldwell, both of Agricultural Extension Department of Ohio State University, will be given Tuesday morning.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Hirsch will again lecture, on "Judging and Point Scoring of Table Settings" in the morning. The afternoon session will deal with the many perennials by Mrs. V. R. Frederick and roses by Mrs. William Pavey.

Thursday morning's program will explain the scoring and judging of flower shows by state chairmen Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner and Mrs. Paul Reed, along with a review of the latest annual flowers by Prof. Caldwell.

These exhibitors schools are made available to all interested persons, a garden club affiliation is not necessary. Any area gardener is welcome to attend. Further information is available from Mrs. Gilbert Cullen, 208 Chamberlain Dr., Marietta, Ohio.

Mrs. George Hirsch, is best known as author of "The Art of Table Settings and Flower Arrangement" published in 1962. A contributor to many national magazines and the New York Times, she has traveled all over the country giving lectures and teaching flower arranging. A National Council Master Flower Show Judge and Instructor, she has received many awards from horticultural societies. Adding dimension to her artistic flair, Mrs. Hirsch has also studied at the Julliard School of Music to develop her beautiful singing voice.

Localite Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner, is president of the Judges Council for Regions No. 8 and No. 9, O.A.G.C. and also the State Chairman, State and County Fairs Flower Shows, Ohio Association of Garden Clubs.

OAGC Plans Table Setting Program in Columbus

The Ohio Association of Garden Clubs welcomes all gardeners and homemakers to attend a demonstration on flower arranging and table settings by renowned lecturer and author, Mrs. Sylvia Hirsch of New Rochelle, New York.

It will be held Tuesday, May 23, at 1:30 p. m. on the Sixth Floor at Lazarus in Columbus. Mrs. Hirsch will show some of her own linens and accessories, as well as select items from the store to use in her demonstration entitled "Table Decor". She will explain what is appropriate for all types of meals from breakfast, luncheon, buffet and a formal dinner, along with suggested floral arrangements to compliment them. Tickets are available at the door.

The program is in conjunction with the Judges and Exhibitors School sponsored by the OAGC being held May 23, 24, 25 at the Southern Hotel on South High St., Columbus.

Information on plant identification by Prof. Victor Ries and "Recent Research of Pest Control" by Prof. James Caldwell, both of Agricultural Extension Department of Ohio State University, will be given Tuesday morning.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Hirsch will again lecture, on "Judging and Point Scoring of Table Settings" in the morning. The afternoon session will deal with the many perennials by Mrs. V. R. Frederick and roses by Mrs. William Pavey.

Thursday morning's program will explain the scoring and judging of flower shows by state chairman Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner and Mrs. Paul Reed, along with a review of the latest annual flowers by Prof. Caldwell.

These exhibitors schools are made available to all interested persons, a garden club affiliation is not necessary. Any area gardener is welcome to attend. Further information is available from Mrs. Gilbert Cullen, 208 Chamberlain Dr., Marietta, Ohio.

Mrs. George Hirsch, is best known as author of "The Art of Table Settings and Flower Arrangement" published in 1962. A contributor to many national magazines and the New York Times, she has traveled all over the country giving lectures and teaching flower arranging. A National Council Master Flower Show Judge and Instructor, she has received many awards from horticultural societies. Adding dimension to her artistic flair, Mrs. Hirsch has also studied at the Juilliard School of Music to develop her beautiful singing voice.

Localite Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner, is president of the Judges Council for Regions No. 8 and No. 9, O.A.G.C. and also the State Chairman, State and County Fairs Flower Shows, Ohio Association of Garden Clubs.

KEY EQUIPMENT — Heart of the Owens-Illinois box plant at Circleville is this 350-foot long corrugator on which corrugated board for shipping containers is made. The O-I plant south of here is the community's newest industry. It officially opened Sept. 20, 1965.

Owens-Illinois Newest Industry

The Owens-Illinois Corrugated Box plant south of Circleville represents this community's newest industry.

Considered one of the most modern in the world, the box plant was opened Sept. 20, 1965. The 192,000 square foot facility is located on a 40-acre site.

The O-I installation employs 190 persons. Monthly production is about 40 million square feet of corrugated board.

This corrugated board is converted into boxes to serve manufacturers in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Equipped with a 350 foot long 85-inch corrugator for the manufacture of A, B and C-flute corrugated board, the Circleville plant is one of 20 such facilities operated throughout the U. S. by the Owens-Illinois Forest Products Division.

Plant general manager is Clare F. Silkwood. His staff includes Conrad Hunter, sales manager; William O. Hall, production manager; and J. H. Whelan, administrative manager.

Perfect Sunday School Record

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Chester Snyder still remembers that first Sunday in 1906—it was the day he last missed Sunday School.

Snyder, now 75, has had a perfect attendance record since then, attending Sunday schools from New York to Texas.

At present, he is teacher and superintendent of the adult school at Baptist Tabernacle here.

Mosque Built Despite New Racial Laws

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Johannesburg's new Moslem mosque, built in contravention of government race law has been completed.

It stands on the edge of downtown Johannesburg in what is proclaimed a white area under the Group Areas Act. This means that all buildings in the area must be occupied by whites, although nonwhite labor is allowed there.

Hundreds of Moslems pray daily at the 50,000 Rands ($70,000) mosque, which has one minaret. It replaces the mosque which was built on the same site 50 years ago, long before the introduction of the Group Areas Act.

Work on the new structure began without the government being aware it was in a white area.

When it was half built the government realized this would mean nonwhites occupying the building, and declared it illegal. But because of government policy of no interference in religion, it was granted a reprieve and work was allowed to continue.

There's a great lesson in blowing bubbles. We're so sure we can blow the biggest bubble ever blown. And, for a second, we're sure we have.

Then the bubble is gone . . . with it our unreasoning self-confidence. So we content ourselves with blowing smaller bubbles — the biggest smaller bubbles we can . . . the kind of bubbles that last awhile!

The best time for your child to begin religious training is before he becomes conscious of his limitations. When he starts gradually to recognize the boundaries of his ability, he'll need real guidance and encouragement in devoting himself to goals which last awhile.

The rich, full, happy, useful life is not wasted on shallow dreams that are but for the moment. It is dedicated to doing one's best.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

Jesus' miracles are chiefly spiritual cures; He heals men who are spiritually deaf or spiritually blind, and raises to eternal life those who are spiritually dead. He used to say at the end of a discourse "he that hath ears to hear let him hear." in which He refers to spiritual hearing, that is capacity to grasp spiritual meanings. Christ said He was "the light of the world"; and the disciples were mirrors of this light. This light is spiritual knowledge; and "darkness" means absence of that knowledge, or a state of ignorance.

Civic Leader Dies in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Allen Gundershelter, 79, one of Columbus' longtime and leading merchants, died Thursday in St. Anthony Hospital. He was co-founder and former president of The Fashion Department Store and chairman of the board of the company at the time of his death.

He was one of the founders of Columbus Town Meeting and helped establish the Columbus Better Business Bureau, serving as its president for five years.

There's a great lesson in blowing bubbles. We're so sure we can blow the biggest bubble ever blown. And, for a second, we're sure we have.

Then the bubble is gone . . . with it our unreasoning self-confidence. So we content ourselves with blowing smaller bubbles — the biggest smaller bubbles we can . . . the kind of bubbles that last awhile!

The best time for your child to begin religious training is before he becomes conscious of his limitations. When he starts gradually to recognize the boundaries of his ability, he'll need real guidance and encouragement in devoting himself to goals which last awhile.

The rich, full, happy, useful life is not wasted on shallow dreams that are but for the moment. It is dedicated to doing one's best.

And, for centuries, it has been our Faith, taught and nurtured in our churches, which has inspired in men their best.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Strange Noises Lead To Trouble

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently moved into a new apartment. There, we shortly began hearing all sorts of weird noises which neither of us could identify. It sounded like a buzzing or a "beeping." It went off and on. Sometimes we didn't hear it for hours. Then it went on half the night. The noise seemed to be in the wall, but it didn't always come from the same direction. We tried to describe it to the manager, and he thought we were crazy.

My husband was out of town and I heard this noise again, so I called the manager and asked him to come up here and listen with me. He came, and we were just sitting on my bed listening when his wife suddenly barged in (She has a pass key.)

Now I wouldn't have her husband on a silver platter, much less a bed, but she confronted me as tho I should apologize. Did she have a right to barge into my apartment like that I assure you we were only listening.

MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: She did not. But now that you know what she thinks of her husband, the next time you invite him up to your apartment to "listen," invite her up to "look."

DEAR ABBY: A week ago my 10-year-old son found an American Express credit card. I telephoned the person whose name was on the card, and a lady answered the phone. She said it belonged to her son who goes to a nearby college.

Instead of offering me a small reward, she asked me to MAIL the card back to her. These people could easily stop by here and pick up the card as they live only a short distance from us. In fact, I asked her to do so but she insisted I mail it back to her. I refused.

Abby, isn't a reward due my son if so, how much Am wrong to refuse to mail the credit card back to her She has my name and address.

HONEST

DEAR HONEST: It would seem that a reward was in order, but since none was offered in advance, you can't "demand" one. Mail the card back to the owner. Honesty is its own reward.

DEAR ABBY: Many of our friends enjoy dinner out and a striptease show. My husband thinks there is something wrong with me because I refuse to go to places like that.

I just can't bring myself to sit with my husband and other people while some nude does a striptease dance. I don't care if other people enjoy it — that's their business, but if my husband wants to see that sort of thing he can go without me.

I am not ugly and I have a pretty good figure for a woman of my age, so I don't think I am jealous.

Please say you understand my feelings so I won't feel so alone.

SHY

DEAR SHY: I understand — and you are NOT alone.

No Cuban Vegetables

boniato, yuca, calabaza . . .

Vegetables such as these, unknown to most Americans, are being grown in Florida by Cuban exiles who used to eat them at home. More than 1,000 acres of such crops are under cultivation near Miami.

Malanga and yuca are starchy roots. Cubans douse them with a sauce made of garlic and lime juice. The boniato is a Cuban sweet potato, white-fleshed and bland. The calabaza is a fine-textured Cuban squash.

You can find these vegetables in Miami grocery stores.

Lincoln Is Proud Of Growth Story

Growing with Circleville and Pickaway County since 1950, Lincoln Molded Plastics, Inc. has been and continues to be a vital factor in the industrial market place serving major industries of diversified interests and products throughout the Midwest and into Canada.

Hair Raising Wedding

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Mrs. William Rains returns to the scene of her wedding every day. She was married in the beauty shop where she works.

Business went on as usual in the other end of the shop, where dozens of women sat under hair dryers and witnessed the ceremony.

Lincoln, a custom injection molder of thermoplastics, is a wholly owned subsidiary of General American Transportation Corporation, with plants at Circleville and Oakland City, Ind., and Michigan City, Ind.

Lincoln's growth is well illustrated by the fact it started with 50 employees in 1950 and now have 250. With an annual payroll of over $1,000,000 Lincoln has a definite impact upon the community economy.

Employing over 70 per cent natives of Pickaway County, the firm is well enforced with a people dedicated to meet the challenge of our industry in the day in which we live.

Lincoln serves nearly 200 customers among whom are such familiar names as Philco, Westinghouse, Whirlpool, Frigidaire, General Electric, Norge, Oldsmobile, Chevrolet, Pontiac, Chrysler, Cadillac, Buick, and

Fisher Body. By serving all the major appliance and automotive manufacturers, the product of Lincoln and Pickaway County finds its way into thousands of homes and on the streets and highways across the United States and into foreign countries alike.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Strange Noises Lead To Trouble

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently moved into a new apartment. There, we shortly began hearing all sorts of weird noises which neither of us could identify. It sounded like a buzzing or a "beeping". It went off and on. Sometimes we didn't hear it for hours. Then it went on half the night. The noise seemed to be in the wall, but it didn't always come from the same direction. We tried to describe it to the manager, and he thought we were crazy.

My husband was out of town and I heard this noise again, so I called the manager and asked him to come up here and listen with me. He came, and we were just sitting on my bed listening when his wife suddenly barged in (She has a pass key.)

Now I wouldn't have her husband on a silver platter, much less a bed, but she confronted me as tho I should apologize. Did she have a right to barge into my apartment like that I assure you we were only listening.

MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: She did not. But now that you know what she thinks of her husband, the next time you invite him up to your apartment to "listen," invite her up to "look."

DEAR ABBY: A week ago my 10-year-old son found an American Express credit card. I telephoned the person whose name was on the card, and a lady answered the phone. She said it belonged to her son who goes to a nearby college.

Instead of offering me a small reward, she asked me to MAIL the card back to her. These people could easily stop by here and pick up the card as they live only a short distance from us. In fact, I asked her to do so but she insisted I mail it back to her. I refused.

Abby, isn't a reward due my son if so, how much Am wrong to refuse to mail the credit card back to her She has my name and address.

HONEST

DEAR HONEST: It would seem that a reward was in order, but since none was offered in advance, you can't "demand" one. Mail the card back to the owner. Honesty is its own reward.

DEAR ABBY: Many of our friends enjoy dinner out and a striptease show. My husband thinks there is something wrong with me because I refuse to go to places like that.

I just can't bring myself to sit with my husband and other people while some nude does a striptease dance. I don't care if other people enjoy it — that's their business, but if my husband wants to see that sort of thing he can go without me.

I am not ugly and I have a pretty good figure for a woman of my age, so I don't think I am jealous.

Please say you understand my feelings so I won't feel so alone.

SHY

DEAR SHY: I understand — and you are NOT alone.

No Cuban Vegetables

MIAMI (AP) — Malanga, boniato, yuca, calabaza . . .

Vegetables such as these, unknown to most Americans, are being grown in Florida by Cuban exiles who used to eat them at home. More than 1,000 acres of such crops are under cultivation near Miami.

Malanga and yuca are starchy roots. Cubans dress them with a sauce made of garlic and lime juice. The boniato is a Cuban sweet potato, white-fleshed and bland. The calabaza is a fine-textured Cuban squash.

You can find these vegetables in Miami grocery stores.

The Savings Bank Is Rated Veteran Institution Here

The Savings Bank of Circleville is another firm that planted its roots here quite a few years ago.

According to records, the founders met Oct. 3, 1911, to adopt articles of incorporation. Name of the corporation was The Circleville Savings & Banking Co.

The incorporators were Philip Herrstein, Henry C. Allen, Joseph R. Noecker, Frederick Barnes, W. L. Peters and H. M. Crites. Capital was set at $25,000.

Directors of the new establishment were elected on Mar. 1, 1912. The first to serve were H. C. Allen, J. C. Goeller, H. M. Crites, J. R. Noecker, F. E. Archer, Philip Herrstein, Frederick Barnes, G. W. Runkle, W. L. Peters, Charles Gerhard and J. J. Mast.

A few days later, the directors named their officers. Herrstein served as president, Allen as vice president, Noecker as secretary-treasurer and Gerhard as assistant secretary-treasurer.

On April 20, 1912, the superintendent of banks of Ohio authorized the local establishment to open for business.

A significant change came about in December of 1960 when the institution's official designation was shortened from the Circleville Savings and Banking Co. to The Savings Bank.

Numerous remodeling and improvement projects have taken place at the bank. One of the most prominent came in 1963 when the drive-in facility was opened at Court and Pinckney Sts.

Considered a full service bank, the financial institution is located at 118 N. Court St., with the drive-in service nearby. The firm employs 16 persons.

Serving on the present board of directors are: Marvin Steely, president; Harry J. Clifton, vice president and secretary; W. J. Garner, executive vice president; and members J. D. Mason, G. D. Young, N. W. Harden and D. E. McDonald.

A comparison of financial statements over the years indicates The Savings Bank is a growing establishment. In 1947 the figure was $2,065,345.24; in 1957 it was $3,626,340.66; at the end of 1966 it was $6,814,183.76.

Streisand as 'Dolly' Evokes Loud Protests

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Casting has been announced for a film which won't be seen for at least two years, and already the choice is surrounded by controversy.

Last week 20th Century-Fox disclosed that Broadway's "Funny Girl," Barbara Streisand, would play the role of Dolly Levi in the movie version of "Hello, Dolly." The announcement brought a storm of protest from those who believed Dolly should be played by the star who created the role, Carol Channing.

The anti-Streisand feeling was expressed by Richard L. Coe of the Washington Post, who called the casting "knuckleheaded" and declared "the mournful Nefertiti is clearly not the outgoing, zestful Irish woman whose vitality brightens Thornton Wilder's mature, life-loving Dolly Gallagher Levi."

The man bearing the brunt of protest is Ernest Lehman, who is writing and producing "Hello, Dolly" for Fox. He contends the pro-Channing forces are highly organized.

"Why else would I be getting letters of protest from San Francisco, Virginia, Atlanta, etc.—all couched in the same language?" he asks. "Nearly all of them say that I pulled a 'boo-boo.' Now how could letter writers in various parts of the country use the same terminology?"

While respecting the talents of Miss Channing, Lehman said he believed Miss Streisand to be the better choice for the movie.

Said he: "Barbara is a warm, appealing personality, and I believe she will be enormously sympathetic as a manipulator of the lives of other people. Audiences have a great instinct for the underdog, and I believe they will be rooting for her always. I believe her relationship to Horace Vandergelder will have the same appeal as Eliza Doolittle's to Professor Higgins in 'My Fair Lady.'

Lehman will not begin rehearsals for "Hello, Dolly" until January, 1968, and the film won't be seen until well over a year after that. In fact, the contract prohibits release of the movie until the close of the Broadway and two major road companies. Both are still going strong.

American Loan and Finance Established Here in 1947

The American Loan and Finance Co. was granted a Corporate Charter on Oct. 11, 1945.

The first office was opened at Hamilton in 1946. In 1947 the Circleville branch was established.

The first manager of the Circleville branch was Harry Barton. He served in that capacity until his death in 1951.

Robert Wilson, present manager, started with the company in 1948 at Washington Court House. He was transferred to Circleville in 1951.

Mrs. Betty Winks, cashier, is also a veteran, having served with American Loan and Finance since 1950. She and Mr.

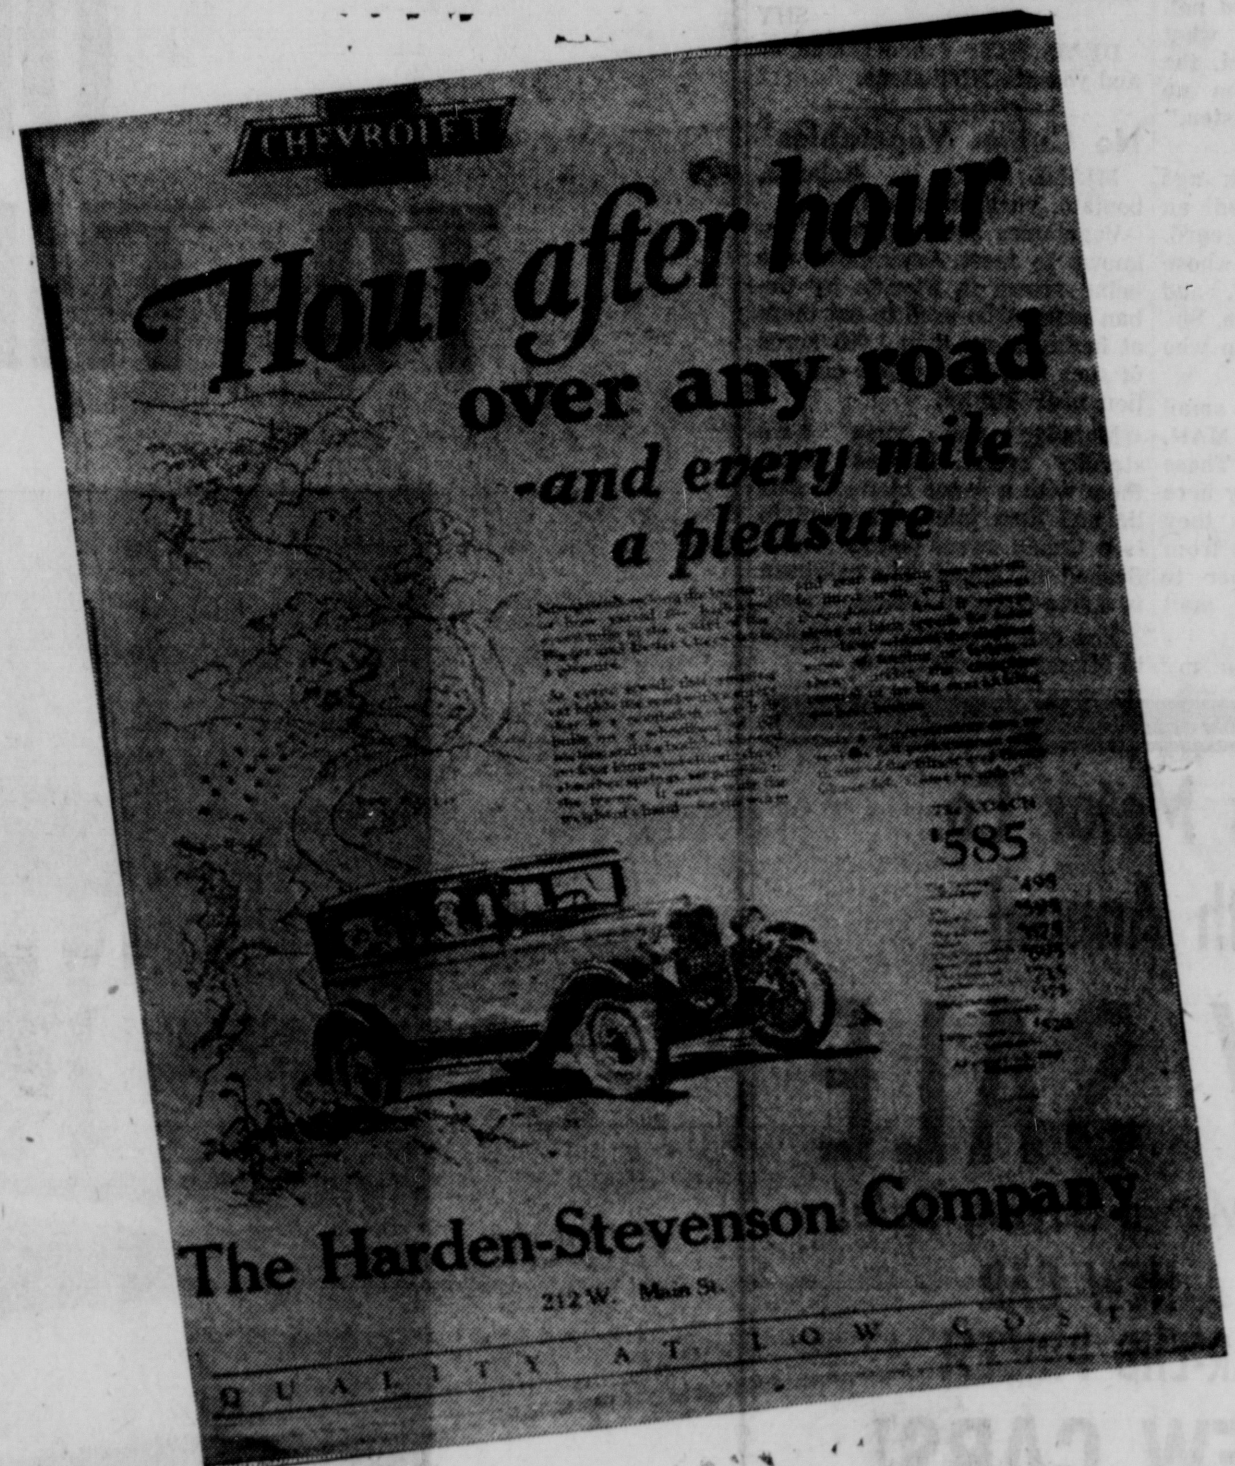

Wilson have the distinction of being with the company longer than any other cashier or manager.

At the end of December 1946, the firm had a gross outstanding of $87,000 compared with $11,156,000 in April of this year. The Circleville Branch had a gross outstanding of $56,000 in its first year compared with $477,500 today.

The employees of American Loan and Finance always strive to give friendly, fast and convenient service to the people of the community.

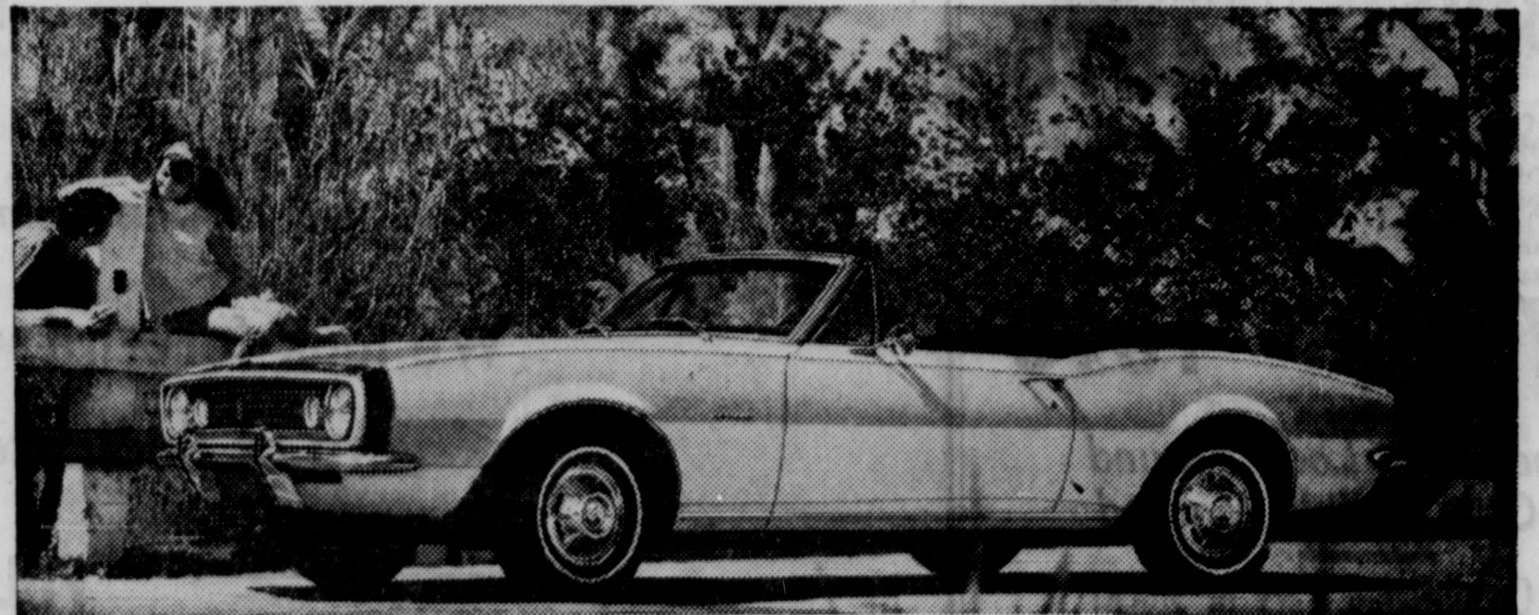

The Circleville office offers certificates of deposit as part of its service.

A MEMORY OF COURT AND MAIN — This scene of the old First National Bank Building brings back memories of how one side of Court and Main St. once appeared. The structure, along with its famed clock, has been replaced by a modern, circular building in keeping with the Round-town theme. First National was founded here in 1863 by Otis B. Ballard, Jr., Marcus Brown, Noah S. Gregg, James A. Hawkes, James E. Rice, Hanson Rock, Samuel Rogers and Samuel H. Ruggles. Serving as presidents over the years have been Marcus Brown, James A. Hawkes, L. H. Sweetman and George P. Foresman. Frank A. Gans is the current chief executive.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — A recent public opinion poll on the preference for president showed President Johnson even with Michigan's Republican Gov. George Romney although only a month ago in the same poll Johnson was trailing by 10 percentage points.

This indication of increased public confidence in him no doubt has roots in numerous reasons, but probably one of the most important is that Johnson is a changed man in personal appeal.

More self-confidence is a good explanation for that, along with the realization that he had long been overdoing the personal appeal bit with his rhetoric and gyrations.

He gave another example of the change at his news conference Thursday, play it in a low key, which is what he has been doing in almost every public appearance since the first of the year.

At his meeting with newsmen Thursday, he had nothing of outstanding importance to say, of the time he was abrupt.

There is a certain irony in Johnson's development in the presidency.

For most of his time there his heaviest burden has been the war in Vietnam, both with the responsibilities and the criticisms he has had to endure.

But he had the habit of sand-wiching it in between other problems. And, although there were many times he could have carried his case to the people with full-dress explanations at length and on television, he did little of that.

It was in other fields that he performed before the cameras and in such a way that he seemed hungry for approval, only to lose it with many people by his gestures, his grimacing, and his high-sounding prose.

It took inner strength to remain as quiet as he was about the war and bear the abuse while seldom slashing back. The Asian Communists may have realized this, as they watched Johnson intensify the war, before Americans did.

Meanwhile, because of the way he handled himself — perhaps mishandled is the better word — in other fields of government and the presidency, his public appeal went down, down, down in the polls.

Somewhere along the line Johnson apparently realized he would have to change both his style and his tactics. This realization may turn out to be one of the most fascinating chapters of Johnson's presidency when the full story of his White House years is written.

But change he did. It seems to have begun early last fall when he withdrew more into himself and further away from the political campaigns of 1966. He played a very small role in them.

Then for the rest of the year, after the elections, he lapsed into almost total silence. In that time it would be no surprise to learn he got coaching on how to look on television, and how to act.

The change first showed at his news conference last Dec. 31

At Le Bourget air field in Paris at 10:21 p.m. local time next day, Lindbergh completed the first nonstop solo flight of the Atlantic after 33½ hours.

"Well, I made it," he said to himself as 25,000 wildly exultant Frenchmen mobbed his little plane. The Lone Eagle had indeed made it — and broken a giant barrier to advance the age of flight. Ahead, unbeknownst at the time, lay the stars.

A plaque at Mineola, N.Y., now commemorates Lindbergh's take off from Roosevelt Field. Saturday a descriptive marker is to be added near the point where the Spirit of St. Louis became airborne, 1,000 feet from the long vanished telephone wires.

In another aspect of the anniversary, two physicians are hopeful of taking off from Kennedy Airport in a single-engine plane at 7:25 a.m. Saturday. Their destination, as was Lindbergh's four decades ago, is Le Bourget in Paris. Afterwards they plan to fly around the world.

The pair, Dr. John Rieger, 45, Los Gatos, Calif., and the owner of the plane, Dr. Francis Xavier Sommer, 54, Barbourville, Ky., expect to make the flight in 22 hours.

On the other side of the Atlantic, a copy of the Spirit of St. Louis is poised to take the air Sunday, fly around the Eiffel Tower and land at L'Bourget as Lindbergh did on that Sunday so long ago. The plane will be piloted by Frank Tallman, 48, a Hollywood stunt pilot, who built it from old blueprints. He had it shipped to France aboard a cargo aircraft.

Lindbergh is not expected to take any part in Saturday's anniversary events. He has become a virtual recluse from the public, and his obsession with Scoutmaster George J. Myers has announced assignments for Troop 52 in the 10-Point Safety Check scheduled Saturday.

The assignments are: 9 to 11, James Bingman, Phillip Kessler and Mike Fuller; 11 to 1, Dave Munson, Steve Throckmorton and Dick Liston; 1 to 3, Craig Allison, Wertie Teets and Tom Frericks; 3 to 5, Douglas Spangler, Mike Herron and Gregg Roll. Mike Fuller was appointed group leader for the first two shifts and Gregg Roll for the last two.

Scoutmaster Myers instructed all scouts to report in uniform and to follow adult instructions, particularly with regard to safety directions and staying out of the street.

Scouts from Troops 52, 155, 170 and 205 will participate in the check under the supervision of Kiwanians and Key Club members.

It Was 40 Years Ago Believe It Or Not!

NEW YORK (AP) — Just 40 years ago today Charles A. Lindbergh made a date with destiny. The year was 1927. U.S. Marines were in Nicaragua and China. The Ruth Snyder-Judd Gray murder case had broken. Talking pictures were coming in.

That Friday evening, May 19, Lindbergh was on his way to see the Broadway musical, "Rio Rita." He paused to check the weather, and learned that there was partial clearing over the gray, turbulent Atlantic Ocean. He ordered his plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, readied for take off the next morning.

Dawn appeared in a shroud of mist and drizzle at Long Island's Roosevelt Field as the slim, shy, 25-year-old flier climbed into his flimsy, single-engine aircraft. His nine days of waiting for flyable weather were at an end.

Water and mud spewed from the tires as Lindbergh opened the throttle. Three times the heavily laden plane settled back onto the runway before it sprung free, skimming 20 feet above a web of telephone lines.

The time was 7:52 a.m. May 20, 1927 — 40 years ago this Saturday. Ahead lay 3,610 miles of Atlantic vastness.

"Now I have to make it — there's no alternative," Lindbergh told himself as at 122 miles per hour he winged toward aviation immortality. With him, he carried five sandwiches in a brown paper bag, and a canteen of water.

At Le Bourget air field in Paris at 10:21 p.m. local time next day, Lindbergh completed the first nonstop solo flight of the Atlantic after 33½ hours.

"Well, I made it," he said to himself as 25,000 wildly exultant Frenchmen mobbed his little plane. The Lone Eagle had indeed made it — and broken a giant barrier to advance the age of flight. Ahead, unbeknownst at the time, lay the stars.

A plaque at Mineola, N.Y., now commemorates Lindbergh's take off from Roosevelt Field. Saturday a descriptive marker is to be added near the point where the Spirit of St. Louis became airborne, 1,000 feet from the long vanished telephone wires.

In another aspect of the anniversary, two physicians are hopeful of taking off from Kennedy Airport in a single-engine plane at 7:25 a.m. Saturday. Their destination, as was Lindbergh's four decades ago, is Le Bourget in Paris. Afterwards they plan to fly around the world.

The pair, Dr. John Rieger, 45, Los Gatos, Calif., and the owner of the plane, Dr. Francis Xavier Sommer, 54, Barbourville, Ky., expect to make the flight in 22 hours.

On the other side of the Atlantic, a copy of the Spirit of St. Louis is poised to take the air Sunday, fly around the Eiffel Tower and land at L'Bourget as Lindbergh did on that Sunday so long ago. The plane will be piloted by Frank Tallman, 48, a Hollywood stunt pilot, who built it from old blueprints. He had it shipped to France aboard a cargo aircraft.

Lindbergh is not expected to take any part in Saturday's anniversary events. He has become a virtual recluse from the public, and his obsession with

Scouts Assigned For Safety Check

Scoutmaster George J. Myers has announced assignments for Troop 52 in the 10-Point Safety Check scheduled Saturday.

The assignments are: 9 to 11, James Bingman, Phillip Kessler and Mike Fuller; 11 to 1, Dave Munson, Steve Throckmorton and Dick Liston; 1 to 3, Craig Allison, Wertie Teets and Tom Frericks; 3 to 5, Douglas Spangler, Mike Herron and Gregg Roll. Mike Fuller was appointed group leader for the first two shifts and Gregg Roll for the last two.

Scoutmaster Myers instructed all scouts to report in uniform and to follow adult instructions, particularly with regard to safety directions and staying out of the street.

Scouts from Troops 52, 155, 170 and 205 will participate in the check under the supervision of Kiwanians and Key Club members.

A MEMORY OF COURT AND MAIN — This scene of the old First National Bank Building brings back memories of how one side of Court and Main St. once appeared. The structure, along with its famed clock, has been replaced by a modern, circular building in keeping with the Roundtown theme. First National was founded here in 1863 by Otis B. Ballard, Jr., Marcus Brown, Noah S. Gregg, James A. Hawkes, James E. Rice, Hanson Rock, Samuel Rogers and Samuel H. Ruggles. Serving as presidents over the years have been Marcus Brown, James A. Hawkes, L. H. Sweetman and George P. Foresman. Frank A. Gans is the current chief executive.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — A recent public opinion poll on the preference for president showed President Johnson even with Michigan's Republican Gov. George Romney although only a month ago in the same poll Johnson was trailing by 10 percentage points.

This indication of increased public confidence in him no doubt has roots in numerous reasons, but probably one of the most important is that Johnson is a changed man in personal appeal.

More self-confidence is a good explanation for that, along with the realization that he had long been overdoing the personal appeal bit with his rhetoric and gyrations.

He gave another example of the change at his news conference Thursday, play it in a low key, which is what he has been doing in almost every public appearance since the first of the year.

At his meeting with newsmen Thursday, he had nothing of outstanding importance to say, of the time he was abrupt.

There is a certain irony in Johnson's development in the presidency.

For most of his time there his heaviest burden has been the war in Vietnam, both with the responsibilities and the criticisms he has had to endure.

But he had the habit of sandwiching it in between other problems. And, although there were many times he could have carried his case to the people with full-dress explanations at length and on television, he did little of that.

It was in other fields that he performed before the cameras and in such a way that he seemed hungry for approval, only to lose it with many people by his gestures, his grimacing, and his high-sounding prose.

It took inner strength to remain as quiet as he was about the war and bear the abuse while seldom slashing back. The Asian Communists may have realized this, as they watched Johnson intensify the war, before Americans did.

Meanwhile, because of the way he handled himself — perhaps mishandled is the better word — in other fields of government and the presidency, his public appeal went down, down, down in the polls.

Somewhere along the line Johnson apparently realized he would have to change both his style and his tactics. This realization may turn out to be one of the most fascinating chapters of Johnson's presidency when the full story of his White House years is written.

But change he did. It seems to have begun early last fall when he withdrew more into himself and further away from the political campaigns of 1966. He played a very small role in them.

Then for the rest of the year, after the elections, he lapsed into almost total silence. In that time it would be no surprise to learn he got coaching on how to look on television, and how to act.

The change first showed at his news conference last Dec. 31

It Was 40 Years Ago Believe It Or Not!

NEW YORK (AP) — Just 40 years ago today Charles A. Lindbergh made a date with destiny. The year was 1927. U.S. Marines were in Nicaragua and China. The Ruth Snyder-Judd Gray murder case had broken. Talking pictures were coming in.

That Friday evening, May 19, Lindbergh was on his way to see the Broadway musical, "Rio Rita." He paused to check the weather, and learned that there was partial clearing over the gray, turbulent Atlantic Ocean. He ordered his plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, readied for take off the next morning.

Dawn appeared in a shroud of mist and drizzle at Long Island's Roosevelt Field as the slim, shy, 25-year-old flier climbed into his flimsy, single-engine aircraft. His nine days of waiting for flyable weather were at an end.

Water and mud spewed from the tires as Lindbergh opened the throttle. Three times the heavily laden plane settled back onto the runway before it sprang free, skimming 20 feet above a web of telephone lines.

The time was 7:52 a.m. May 20, 1927 — 40 years ago this Saturday. Ahead lay 3,610 miles of Atlantic vastness.

"Now I have to make it — there's no alternative," Lindbergh told himself as at 122 miles per hour he winged toward aviation immortality. With him, he carried five sandwiches in a brown paper bag, and a canteen of water.

At Le Bourget air field in Paris he was at 10:21 p.m. local time next when he dead-panned his encounter with the press, playing it all straight, almost underplaying it.

He has been doing the same since, in one public appearance after another, and as the months passed his standing in the public opinion polls slowly went up.

It takes a lot more self-confidence to be quiet than vociferous. If that yardstick is applied to Johnson now it can be said that after 3½ years in the White House he is far more self-confident than when he first moved in.

day, Lindbergh completed the first nonstop solo flight of the Atlantic after 33½ hours.

"Well, I made it," he said to himself as 25,000 wildly exultant Frenchmen mobbed his little plane. The Lone Eagle had indeed made it — and broken a giant barrier to advance the age of flight. Ahead, unbeknownst at the time, lay the stars.

A plaque at Mineola, N.Y., now commemorates Lindbergh's take off from Roosevelt Field. Saturday a descriptive marker is to be added near the point where the Spirit of St. Louis became airborne, 1,000 feet from the long vanished telephone wires.

In another aspect of the anniversary, two physicians are hopeful of taking off from Kennedy Airport in a single-engine plane at 7:25 a.m. Saturday. Their destination, as was Lindbergh's four decades ago, is Le Bourget in Paris. Afterwards they plan to fly around the world.

The pair, Dr. John Rieger, 45, Los Gatos, Calif., and the owner of the plane, Dr. Francis Xavier Sommer, 54, Barbourville, Ky., expect to make the flight in 22 hours.

On the other side of the Atlantic, a copy of the Spirit of St. Louis is poised to take the air Sunday, fly around the Eiffel Tower and land at Le Bourget as Lindbergh did on that Sunday so long ago. The plane will be piloted by Frank Tallman, 48, a Hollywood stunt pilot, who built it from old blueprints. He had it shipped to France aboard a cargo aircraft.

Lindbergh is not expected to take any part in Saturday's anniversary events. He has become a virtual recluse from the public, and his obsession with privacy is such that he spurns interviews.

Now 65, Lindbergh lives quietly in Darien, Conn., with his wife, the former Anne Spencer Morrow. They celebrate their 38th wedding anniversary May 27. They are the parents of five living children, but their first-born, Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., was kidnapped and slain in 1932 at the age of 20 months.

Lindbergh is a director of Pan American World Airways.

His little monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis, is now in the Smithsonian Institution.

Lindbergh was flying the mail from St. Louis to Chicago in 1926 when aviation enthusiast Raymond Orteig offered a $25,000 prize for the first New York to Paris nonstop flight.

Gaining financial backing from St. Louis businessmen, Lindbergh found a firm, a San Diego outfit, Ryan Airlines, to build a plane to his specifications.

Lindbergh flew the Spirit of St. Louis east in a dramatic hop that brought him his first national attention. The selection of Roosevelt Field for take off was a matter of choice between three Long Island military airports.

In the late 1920s, Roosevelt Field spread uncrowded in the midsection of Long Island near Mineola.

In 1919, the British dirigible R34 had used the field as a U.S. base during the first aerial round trip over the Atlantic.

The field opened in 1911 as the Mineola Flying Field. Five years later, it became Hazelhurst Field, in memory of a lieutenant who was one of the first servicemen to die in an airplane accident. The name was changed again in 1918, by Army directive, to memorialize Lt. Quentin Roosevelt, son of President Theodore Roosevelt, and one of the first American pilots killed in World War I aerial combat.

The Herald Proud Of Long Heritage

The Circleville Herald, Pickaway County's only daily newspaper, enjoys a heritage of almost 150 years.

Pickaway's pioneer newspaper was the Olive Branch, established Aug. 9, 1817. The county was seven-years-old.

Forerunner of the present day newspaper was The Circleville Herald founded Sept. 21, 1870, by Winfield S. McCollister and Ivan Wolfley. Numerous other papers served the community prior to and following this date. In addition to the Olive Branch, they were:

Olive Brand and Pickaway Herald, 1826; Circleville Herald and Olive Branch, 1830; The Herald, 1832; The Circleville Union, 1862; The Circleville Herald and Union, 1870; The Circleville Union Herald, 1877; Union Herald, 1904.

Additional newspapers over the years were: Scioto Watchman, 1837; Circleville Watchman, 1838; Circleville Democrat, 1838; The Watchman, 1845; Democrat and Watchman, 1879; The Watchman, 1916.

In 1927, three newspapers operating here were purchased by A. A. Hoopingarner of Dover. The Circleville Herald was operating at 133 W. Main St., The Union Herald at 116 W. Main and The Watchman at 124 W. Main.

Hoopingarner's consolidated operation was moved to the Watchman Building, most modern of the three. In 1935 the newspaper moved to its present location at 210 N. Court St.

In 1935, The Herald's present owners, the Galvin Corporation, purchased the newspaper and the Circleville Publishing Co. was born.

A significant change came about in 1957-58 when an extensive remodeling program was undertaken. A completely new front office section, was constructed, along with expansion of shop facilities.

The Herald, in addition to its close affiliation to the community, has another family tie. It is a link in the chain of Galvin daily newspapers located in Wilmington, Washington C. H., Logan and Van Wert, plus the weekly newspaper in Hillsboro.

Wayne W. Galvin of Wilmington is president of the Circleville Publishing Co. Paul F. Rodenfels of Washington C. H. is publisher of The Herald as well as of the newspaper in his home city.

Three Handed Stiff Fines After Attack on Lawman

LANCASTER, O. — Three men appeared in Municipal Court here yesterday in connection with the beating of Fairfield County Deputy Frank Pairin. All received stiff penalties. The men were Billy R. Abner, 20, Route 4, Circleville; Charles Downs, 22, Route 2, Amanda; and Bruce Cupp, 18, Route 2, Lancaster.

Charges against the trio were intoxication, resisting arrest and assault and battery on a peace officer.

Abner was arrested at the scene. Downs and Cupp surrendered to Fairfield County Sheriff Jack Blazer Wednesday night. Abner entered a plea of guilty to all three charges. Downs and Cupp pleaded guilty to resisting arrest and assault and battery, but innocent to intoxication.

All received $250 fines and 30-day jail sentences on the resisting arrest charges and $100 and costs on the assault and battery charge. Hearing on the intoxication charges will be continued Monday.

Downs is on probation from Pickaway County for strong-armed robbery. Abner still is to face a charge of destruction of property. The trio was in a car near Stoutsville when Deputy Pairin attempted to arrest them. Officers said they attacked the deputy and fled.

Pairin radioed the Pickaway County Sheriff's office for help. Abner was nabbed after a chase. The other two escaped but turned themselves in later.

When asked for a reason for the attack, the trio had no comment.

Jet Engines Helping Meet Natural Gas Demand Here

Jet engines—similar to those that power giant airliners across the skies—are helping meet the ever-increasing demand for natural gas in Circleville and the more than 540 other Ohio communities served by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., and the Ohio Valley Gas Co.

Columbia Gulf Transmission company to Columbia Gas of Ohio and Ohio Valley Gas in the Columbia Gas System, has found jet engines can speed natural gas through long-distance underground pipelines as effectively as they move planes and passengers through the skies.

This past year, according to Charles R. Baker, Circleville manager for the gas company, Columbia Gulf invested $4 million installing and relocating five jet engines at compressor stations along its 1,698 miles of transmission pipeline.

This expansion program boosted the total horsepower in Columbia Gulf's 10 compressor stations to 289,000, enabling the company to move 1.2 billion cubic feet of natural gas each day from the Gulf States to Ohio and the remainder of the seven state area served by the Columbia Gas System, Baker added.

Baker pointed out that the jet engines Columbia Gulf has harnessed to move natural gas fast-

Clothing Shop Has Expanded Over Years

Dorothy E. Jonnes and Charles Boggs opened the Children's Shop at 151 W. Main St. in 1953.

When first opened, the business was a one-room establishment. It handled clothes in sizes up to 6x for girls and 7 for boys.

Through the 14 years of its existence, the business has grown room-by-room and size-by-size to its present standard of operation. The Deb Shop, added during the expansion program, now handles clothes up to size 15 junior, 16 missy in women's wear and size 16 in boys wear.

The Deb Shop specializes in gift-wrapping and mailing packages for its customers to provide an extra amount of convenience.

Only name brands and nationally advertised merchandise are carried by the shop.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A number of baboons found a bag of cement in a field near Rustenberg, 60 miles northwest of Johannesburg, said a Department of Nature Conservation newsletter.

Being the inquisitive creatures they are, they tore open the bag and ate the contents.

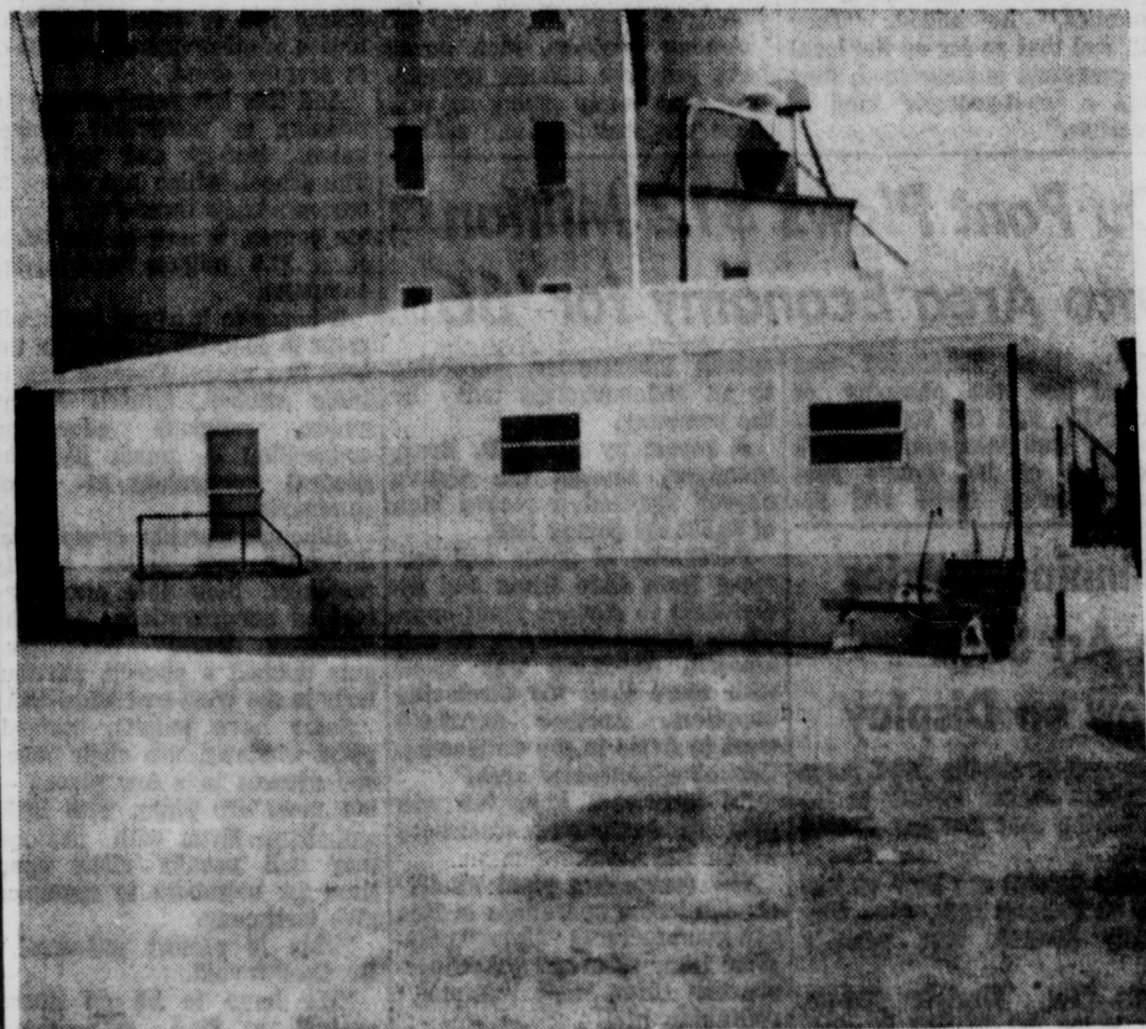

Department officials haven't seen them since, but are keeping their eyes open for any sign of petrified baboons.

Jet Engines Helping Meet Natural Gas Demand Here

Jet engines—similar to those that power giant airliners across the skies—are helping meet the ever-increasing demand for natural gas in Circleville and the more than 540 other Ohio communities served by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., and the Ohio Valley Gas Co.

Columbia Gulf Transmission company to Columbia Gas of Ohio and Ohio Valley Gas in the Columbia Gas System, has found jet engines can speed natural gas through long-distance underground pipelines as effectively as they move planes and passengers through the skies.

This past year, according to Charles R. Baker, Circleville manager for the gas company, Columbia Gulf invested $4 million installing and relocating five jet engines at compressor stations along its 1,698 miles of transmission pipeline.

This expansion program boosted the total horsepower in Columbia Gulf's 10 compressor stations to 289,000, enabling the company to move 1.2 billion cubic feet of natural gas each day from the Gulf States to Ohio and the remainder of the seven state area served by the Columbia Gas System, Baker added.

Baker pointed out that the jet engines Columbia Gulf has harnessed to move natural gas fast-

One Licensed Chicken To Go

PHOENIX (AP) — A restaurant specializing in fried chicken-to-go is next to the county auto license bureau, and a Nebraska motorist with a yen for chicken drove his car into the wrong line.

He watched in stunned silence as an inspector checked his car, removed his Nebraska license plates, handed him an inspection slip and told him to go inside.

As he entered he was handed Arizona license plates.

"But all I wanted was fried chicken," he said.

er and more efficiently are manufactured by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft and are basically the same power plants that are now used in super-sonic military and commercial planes.

At Columbia Gulf's compressor station, the tremendous thrust of the jet engine is captured and, put to work by replacing the engine's exhaust nozzle with a Cooper-Bessemer free turbine, he explained. Hot gases produced by the engine drive the turbine which, in turn, drives a centrifugal gas compressor.

Jets are not new to the Columbia Gulf transmission network. Smaller engines have been in operation for more than six years and in that time have piled up an impressive record of service.

However, the two new engines installed this past year are rated at 16,000 horsepower each and are the largest ever used on any project of this type, Baker said. Baker said.

While the jets use slightly more fuel to produce the same amount of horsepower, Columbia Gulf engineers have found they cost less than one-third as much as conventional piston-type compressor engines to purchase and install, occupy less than one-fourth of the space and require much less maintenance.

Columbia Gulf's ten compressor stations located along its transmission pipelines that stretch through Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia are fully automated and remotely operated from a Gas Control Center in Houston, holding manpower needs to a minimum.

All of this plays a large role in delivering natural gas to Circleville homes and industries in helping maintain residential gas rates that are among the lowest in the nation, Baker said.

Clothing Shop Has Expanded Over Years

Dorothy E. Jonnes and Charles Boggs opened the Children's Shop at 151 W. Main St. in 1953.

When first opened, the business was a one-room establishment. It handled clothes in sizes up to 6x for girls and 7 for boys.

Through the 14 years of its existence, the business has grown room-by-room and size-by-size to its present standard of operation. The Deb Shop, added during the expansion program, now handles clothes up to size 15 junior, 16 missy in women's wear and size 16 in boys wear.

The Deb Shop specializes in gift-wrapping and mailing packages for its customers to provide an extra amount of convenience.

Only name brands and nationally advertised merchandise are carried by the shop.

Quaker Services Also Are Changing In Form

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Regional Writer

Quaker meetings, traditionally dependent for their content on silent meditation and the spontaneous comments of anyone feeling moved to speak, are turning increasingly today to trained pastors for leadership.

And the unpredictable silences, out of which might emerge much discourse or hardly any, of variable worth, are giving way in many cases to planned periods of Bible readings, prayers, hymns and sometimes sermons.

"Some Quakers are moving in a direction of forms and ministry that are not much distinguished from some Baptist and Methodist churches," said Dr. Wilmer A. Cooper, dean of the Graduate School of Religion of Earlham College, Richmond, Ind.

But it's a controversial trend in some quarters.

"A good many Quakers rebel at it, objecting that we're becoming just like the rest of the churches," he added. "They still feel that so far as the local congregation is concerned, they want a 'do-it-yourself' kind of program."

Nevertheless, in a Christian movement which in its origins went all the way in rejecting clergy-dominated religion by completely abolishing the role, there is a growing recognition of the need of specially trained ministers.

And Earlham's graduate school, founded six years ago, is turning out men with divinity degrees to fill that need — the first Quaker institution in the 300-year history of the movement to do so.

About two-thirds of the 1,100 Quaker weekly meetings, or congregations, in this country now have either full-time or part-time leaders, who lead worship, do pastoral counseling, make calls, serve at funerals and weddings.

But they disapprove being called clergymen. "None of us like that," Dr. Cooper said in an interview. Generally they're also averse to any honor for religious titles, and to put it bluntly, "Don't call me reverend."

Among Quakers, such terms have sensitive historic connotations that imply giving up religious responsibility and rule to an ordained class.

In contrast, the key Quaker emphasis is that all believers here ministerial obligations as channels of God's truth through an "inner light" of the spirit — a charismatic factor increasingly emphasized by other churches.

As the 17th century Quaker founder, George Fox, put it: There are about 122,000 Friends in this country, commonly known as Quakers, and 200,000 of the worldwide. With their stress on personal responsibility, they're noted for their keen social concern and activism.

Although the movement officially supports pacifism, it does not require it, in line with an openness to individual convictions, and many Quakers are not pacifists. Statistics indicate only about half in wartime register as conscientious objectors.

Until Earlham's graduate school got started, Quaker congregations seeking trained leadership had to depend on seminaries of other denominations or to prepare them.

And this left scant means for pointing up particular Quaker values, history and approach. The school, which has about 30 students in its three-year graduate course, is now in the midst of a $1.3 million fund-raising campaign.

It hopes to increase its enrollment to 50-to-100 students in the next two years. Courses are in Bible studies, church history, ethics, religious education, counselling — much like the general curriculum at other seminaries.

Although worship groups traditionally are called weekly meetings, they now often are termed congregations. And the "meeting house" sometimes gets dubbed a church, particularly in the West and Midwest.

Some have pulpits, stained-glass windows, use choir robes and crosses in a few places — but most are plain, with little embellishment. Even with pastors, they still usually allow open time for members to speak or give testimony.

"This is almost universal," Dr. Cooper said.

"We have to be on guard against a kind of professionalism that would endanger our emphasis on lay responsibility and the idea that every man has immediate access to God."

The congregations putting the most accent on programmed worship sometimes are called "high-church Quakers", in contrast to "low-church" groups — borrowing from the common classification among Episcopalians.

Du Pont Plows $12 Million Into Area Economy for '66

More than $12,000,000 was plowed into the economy of Circleville and the surrounding trading area last year through operation of Du Pont's film manufacturing plant and research laboratories, according to an announcement today by the company.

A report by Alden D. Bray, manager, showed the plant's payroll reached a record high of $8,581,000 during 1966.

Purchases of goods and services from Ohio firms and individuals to support plant operations totaled $5,415,000. Of this amount, $2,559,000 was spent with more than 200 Circleville suppliers. Another $1,029,000 went to firms in the Chillicothe-Columbus-Lancaster area.

An additional $1,827,000 was paid to companies elsewhere within the state.

The company's plant at Circleville began operations in 1954 and manufactures "Mylar" polyester film, "Tedlar" FEP-fluoropolymer film, and "Kapton" polyimide film.

Several Circleville Art League members earned awards in the Chillicothe Art League Spring Show.

Their entries are now on display at Bennett Hall, Ohio University branch. The winners are:

Oils—Mrs. Virginia Kuhns, first place for "Silent Spectator." Mrs. Otis Runyon, second place for "Results of Erosion." Mrs. Charles Dougherty, third place for "High Portals."

Pastels—Mrs. Kuhns, third place for "Mina Graham's Lastest" and Miss Ruth Montelius, honorable mention for "Vickie."

The judge for the show was Robert G. Skinner.

NEW YORK (AP) — The right of the public to know through the medium of a free press and the right of a defendant to a fair trial by an unprejudiced jury were discussed in the light of some proposed new controls Thursday night. The debate was the premiere of ABC's "Summer Focus," a public affairs series.

The subject is currently controversial. Five well-qualified persons — two contributing via satellite from London — spoke against proposed rules of a committee of the American Bar Association which would sharply restrict information given to the press by law enforcement officers, attorneys and court officers from arrest through verdict in criminal cases.

Participants included New York Supreme Court Justice Bernard Meyer, who as a member of the committee drawing up the proposals naturally believed they would help insure a fair trial and make it easier to find qualified jurors. Arthur Hanson, legal counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers Association, argued against the restraints, suggesting instead that guidelines in individual cases could be reached by press, court and counsel.

Gerald Getty, counsel for Richard Speck, recently convicted of murder in the deaths of Chicago nurses last summer, wanted controls mainly over "the danger area — when a defendant is first arrested, when the public is alarmed about a crime. When information injurious to the defendant is given to the press."

Dame Rebecca West, veteran reporter of British trials, and Lord Patrick Devlin, former lord justice, spoke from London, both generally approving the strict British system of controlling the release of information via the press until after a verdict.

The hour would, perhaps, have been better had the debate been contained by two persons — Justice Meyer and Hanson — who would have had more time to amplify their viewpoints.

It was, however, a fine start on a worthy hot-weather venture. In coming weeks it could be one of the few green oases in the desert of reruns.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Saturday— "Piccadilly Palace," ABC, 9:30-10:30 p.m. EDT, premiere of a British-made variety show replacing "Hollywood Palace" for the summer.

Sunday—"The Ed Sullivan Show," CBS, 8-9 p.m., from Expo 67 in Montreal; "The Saint," NBC, 10-11, premiere of a summer series, British-made action-adventure.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, May 19th, the 139th day of 1967. There are 226 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1898, the English statesman, William Gladstone, died.

On this date

In 1795, the Baltimore philanthropist, Johns Hopkins, was born.

In 1802, Napoleon Bonaparte created the French Legion of Honor.

In 1867, a centennial exposition opened in Philadelphia.

In 1941, Italian troops surrendered to the British in the mountains of northern Ethiopia.

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt awarded the Medal of Honor to Gen. James H. Doolittle for leading the first air attack against Tokyo.

Ten years ago, Italian Premier Adone Zoli formed a new Christian Democrat government.

Five years ago, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said in Sofia he did not want to compete with President John F. Kennedy in being the first to press the button to start a nuclear war.

One year ago, a new battle raged in Da Nang between Vietnamese rebels and troops loyal to South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

New Program Announced by Navy Officials

A new program designed to attract construction workers has been announced by U. S. Navy.

The Navy's advanced pay construction work to enlist, for 30 months in a higher pay grade than was possible before this program is available to men who are now, and have for the last three years, earned their livelihood in construction work.

In general the program provides for earners or apprentices who have completed two-thirds of their training to enlist as a third class petty officer, which has a base rate pay of $168.60 per month. Journeymen or trained workmen may enlist as second class petty officer, which has a base rate pay of $204.30 per month. Those with three years experience may enlist as first class petty officer which has a base rate pay of $232.20 per month.

In contrast a man not enlisted under this program would be rated as seaman recruit rate pay of $80.50 per month.

Further information on this program may be obtained from the Office or by calling 653-9445 in Lancaster for an appointment. Hours at the Circleville office are Thursdays from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Legislature Report

By MYRL H. SHOEMAKER
State Representative
21st District

Members of the 107th General Assembly have received a message that they should speed up their work and accomplish the passage of major legislation by at least the end of August.

The August date would not necessarily mean an adjournment but, rather, a possible recess in order for the legislators to return for a day or so to make supplementary appropriations for projects that had originally counted on using funds from the ill-fated Ohio Bond Commission.

There are also rumors making the rounds that the Legislature will recess either for the month of July or August after the appropriation bill and school foundation measure have passed. They would then return and work on the funding bills that would take care of higher education and other matters of importance which need their attention after the November election, which could possibly mean a bond issue on the November ballot.

The general appropriation bill for the biennium beginning July 1, 1967, and ending June 30, 1969, was passed out of the House Finance Committee Wednesday evening by a vote of 13-6.

Democratic members of the Committee had moved that the bill be referred to a subcommittee with instructions to report back a substitute bill containing general appropriations for the one month beginning July 1, 1967, in an amount equal to 1-12 of the proposed 1967-1968 appropriation. This move would then have allowed the members of the Finance Committee to study the full reports and recommendations of the Ohio Tax Survey Commission, the Ohio Schools Survey Commission and the Little Hoover Commission regarding funds available as well as expenditures required prior to passing out of committee the general appropriation bill.

The motion was defeated and the bill was referred out of committee in its original form.

The so-called rodeo bill which has created a great deal of interest and controversy during its hearings before the committee passed the Ohio House Wednesday after considerable floor debate and discussion by its sponsors. Representative Hagan broke up the debate by stating that in order to find out how this would affect horses, he had contacted Mr. Ed in Hollywood and received his comments that the strap in question would smart a little.

The week of May 29 is Memorial Day weekend, and the legislators plan to take a two-day holiday the 29th and 30th. They will, however, make up for the day lost by working through June 2.

Legislators will return to Columbus May 31 for a session at 1:30 p. m. and additional sessions will be held Thursday, June 1 and June 2.

A measure (HB 760) was introduced in the House today which would generate almost an additional 350 million dollars annually for state and local governments. The proposal, submitted by Representative Albert Sealy (R Dayton), would levy a county income tax of 5 per cent on all businesses and a 1 per cent tax on individuals.

It would also increase the sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent and eliminate the tangible and intangible personal property taxes. Tax revenue from the 5 per cent corporation and business tax is estimated at approximately 340 million, the individual tax of 1 per cent at 200 million, the sales tax increase at 130 million, the reduction in the intangible personal property tax at 40 million and the reduction of the tangible personal property tax at 289 million.

The bill is a completely new approach to the taxation problem now facing the Administration.

Bills of interest introduced this week:

House Bill 756: Delays for two years, until 1970, the first payment of the accrued liability under the police and firemen's pension fund.

House Bill 762: Sets up a commission for the study of and the regulation of the insurance industry in Ohio.

House Bill 766: An omnibus school finance bill, which will increase state support for public elementary and secondary school education by an estimated 200 million over the next two years.

Ohio Legislature

Lawmakers To Consider New Tax Possibilities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio lawmakers will consider possible new taxes next week now that the administration has acknowledged a need for at least $220 million in additional funds for the 1967-69 biennium.

Specific proposals are not expected from the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes but individual legislators undoubtedly will come forward with ideas of their own.

One ranking Republican said he was considering bills to extend the sales tax to services and deduct from 30 cents to 11 cents the point at which the 3 per cent tax on purchases is applied.

A bill to lower the sales tax minimum to 11 cents already has been introduced by Rep. John A. Galbraith (R-76 Maumee, Lucas). It lay dormant in the House Reference Committee from March 16 when it was introduced until May 2 when it was assigned to the House Taxation Committee.

In terms of revenue, extension of the sales tax to cover services such as haircuts, permanent, dental and medical care, and legal counsel, according to State Tax Commissioner Gail Porterfield "Depends entirely on how far you want to go. If you applied it to everything, you might wind up with all the money in the world."

Porterfield said it would be impossible to project estimated revenue without a list of specific services on which the tax would be imposed. He also would need to know, he said, at what rate it would be imposed. "Are you talking about 1 per cent, 3 per cent or 4 per cent?" he asked.

Another possible source mentioned by lawmakers would be increasing the sales tax to 4 per cent without extending it to services. Two years ago, the education lobby proposed such an increase in an ill-fated bill. At the time it was estimated the increase would yield $110-$120 million a year.

Spokesmen for the Rhodes administration said they were awaiting reports from the Ohio School Review Committee and the State Tax Study Commission. But it already has been announced that these groups will only outline possible sources of revenue and make no recommendation for a specific tax.

This would mean the initiative for a tax increase will have to come from the legislature — with Rhodes, who campaigned on a "no new or increased taxes" pledge, "getting off the hook," minority Democrats said.

In floor sessions Thursday the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to give the authority of county commissioners over annexation and incorporation proceedings and revising methods of carrying them out.

Representatives approved and sent to the Senate measures requiring the state auditor to examine state offices and agencies at least once every two years and clarifying the authority of the auditor to void certain warrants and transfer funds.

Bills introduced in the House would require proficiency tests as a prerequisite to obtain a hunting or trapping license, set the state's minimum wage at $1.40 an hour Jan. 1, 1968 and raise it to $1.60 a year later, and require a minimum student population for school districts of 3,500 after July 1, 1970.

Two Clevelanders offered new plans to redistrict the legislature.

Rep. R. R. Hollington Jr. (R-56 Sahler Heights, Cuyahoga) proposed a 117-member House and a 39-member Senate and an Apportionment Board that would include members of the legislature as well as the five state elected officials.

Rep. James R. Celebrezze (D-50 Cleveland) would retain the present 99-member House and 33-member Senate but would make extensive revisions in the Apportionment Board.

He proposed a board that would consist of the House speaker, Senate majority and minority leaders or persons they designate, one member appointed by the governor from each of the major political parties, and four from each party selected by the secretary of state from lists of at least 20 names provided by the parties, state central committee.

The governor's two highest paid cabinet members were among the first sworn in for new terms Thursday following legislative action to increase their pay. The governor postponed reappointment of department heads at the start of his second term in January so they would be eligible for the increases at the start of their new terms.

Mental Hygiene and Corrections Director Martin A. Janis and Highway Director P. E. Masheter, whose salaries went from $22,500 to $27,539 a year, took their oaths from John M. McElroy, the governor's executive assistant.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Geological Survey researchers were melted, much of the country's coastal regions and many of its major cities would be inundated.

Survey experts estimate the world's icecaps and glaciers contain about 7.2 million cubic miles, or about 1.1 trillion gallons, of water that would raise the sea level between 200 and 250 feet.

James T. Lee, a survey cartographer, said Thursday a 250-foot rise would inundate about 267,000 square miles of Atlantic and Gulf Coast states, including all of Delaware, Florida and Louisiana.

"Completely inundated would be such major cities as Houston, Corpus Christi and Galveston, Tex.; New Orleans, La.; Miami and Tampa, Fla.; Mobile, Ala.; Norfolk and Richmond, Va., and Jersey City, N. J.," Lee said.

Although the Western coastline would not change as significantly as the East Coast, Lee said the 250-foot rise would create a huge sea covering California's Central Valley with an outlet through San Francisco to the Pacific Ocean.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Lunar Orbiter 4 spacecraft has resumed sending to earth high-quality pictures of the moon's surface.

The picture transmission had been interrupted when the spacecraft began sending fogged film.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday the difficulties were overcome by transmitting radio signals that partially closed the spacecraft's thermal door between exposures and tilted the spacecraft to shield the camera's two lenses from direct sunlight.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif., prepared to awaken the Surveyor 3 spacecraft after two-week lunar night in temperatures as low as 225 degrees below zero.

Legislature Report

By MYRL H. SHOEMAKER
State Representative
21st District

Members of the 107th General Assembly have received a message that they should speed up their work and accomplish the passage of major legislation by at least the end of August.

The August date would not necessarily mean an adjournment but, rather, a possible recess in order for the legislators to return for a day or so to make supplementary appropriations for projects that had originally counted on using funds from the ill-fated Ohio Bond Commission.

There are also rumors making the rounds that the Legislature will recess either for the month of July or August after the appropriation bill and school foundation measure have passed. They would then return and work on the funding bills that would take care of higher education and other matters of importance which need their attention after the November election, which could possibly mean a bond issue on the November ballot.

The general appropriation bill for the biennium beginning July 1, 1967, and ending June 30, 1969, was passed out of the House Finance Committee Wednesday evening by a vote of 13-6.

Democratic members of the Committee had moved that the bill be referred to a subcommittee with instructions to report back a substitute bill containing general appropriations for the one month beginning July 1, 1967, in an amount equal to 1-12 of the proposed 1967-1968 appropriation. This move would then have allowed the members of the Finance Committee to study the full reports and recommendations of the Ohio Tax Study Commission, the Ohio Schools Survey Commission and the Little Hoover Commission regarding funds available as well as expenditures required prior to passing out of committee the general appropriation bill.

The motion was defeated and the bill was referred out of committee in its original form.

The so-called rodeo bill which has created a great deal of interest and controversy during its hearings before the committee passed the Ohio House Wednesday after considerable floor debate and discussion by its sponsors. Representative Hagan broke up the debate by stating that in order to find out how this would affect horses, he had contacted Mr. Ed in Hollywood and received his comments that the strap in question would smart a little.

The week of May 29 is Memorial Day weekend, and the legislators plan to take a two-day holiday the 29th and 30th. They will, however, make up for the day lost by working through June 2.

Legislators will return to Columbus May 31 for a session at 1:30 p. m. and additional sessions will be held Thursday, June 1 and June 2.

A measure (HB 760) was introduced in the House today which would generate almost an additional 350 million dollars annually for state and local governments. The proposal, submitted by Representative Albert Sealy (R Dayton), would levy a county income tax of 5 per cent on all businesses and a 1 per cent tax on individuals.

It would also increase the sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent and eliminate the tangible and intangible personal property taxes. Tax revenue from the 5 per cent corporation and business tax is estimated at approximately 340 million, the individual tax of 1 per cent at 200 million, the sales tax increase at 130 million, the reduction in the intangible personal property tax at 40 million and the reduction of the tangible personal property tax at 289 million.

Another possible source mentioned by lawmakers would be increasing the sales tax to 4 per cent without extending it to services. Two years ago, the education lobby proposed such an increase in an ill-fated bill. At the time it was estimated the increase would yield $110-$120 million a year.

Spokesmen for the Rhodes administration said they were awaiting reports from the Ohio School Review Committee and the State Tax Study Commission. But it already has been announced that these groups will only outline possible sources of revenue and make no recommendation for a specific tax.

This would mean the initiative for a tax increase will have to come from the legislature — with Rhodes, who campaigned on a "no new or increased taxes" pledge, "getting off the hook," minority Democrats said.

CHS Red and Black Staff Of 1966-67 Bids Farewell

By JOYCE VALENTINE

Ten seniors will leave the journalism class with the upcoming graduation. This past year they have had many headaches and worked long hours to help put together the Red and Black page to better inform the public of the school's many activities.

There is a lot of work in printing even one small page of a paper. Assignments are given and the planning begins. New

CHS Concert Band Concludes Season

By GEORGE MARSHALL

The Circleville High School Concert Band will conclude the season with a concert in the Ted Lewis Park on Sunday at 2 p. m. The public will be invited. The program will differ a great deal from the one on May 12. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring this concert.

The band will be marching on Memorial Day and will be participating in the Commencement ceremonies on June 4. The band wishes to thank the community for the fine support it has received this year and hopes the support will continue in the future.

The CHS Choir will conclude the 1966-67 school year by singing for Baccalaureate, afternoon of June 4, and Commencement, the evening of June 4.

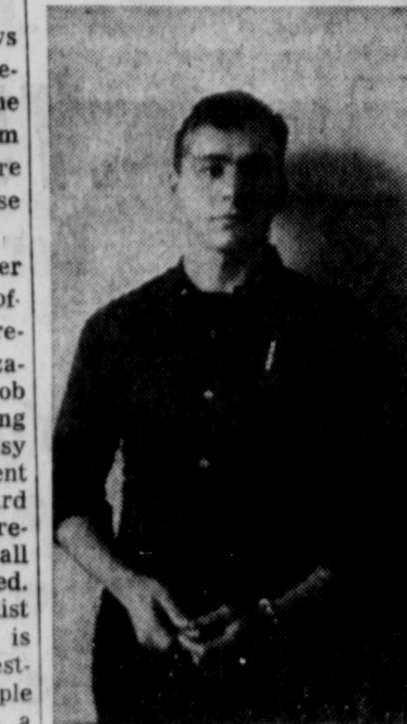

angles are sought, interviews are made, and writing and re-writing is done constantly. The public likes variety and boredom may arise easily; this is where the problem begins — "please our readers."

The work doesn't stop after the writing. Such tasks as proof-reading, copyreading, more re-writing, typing and organization keeps journalists on the job to the many students not taking journalism, it looks like an easy credit, a spur of the moment inspiration; but all of the hard work and time involved is returned many times over by all the benefits that can be gained. Not only does the journalist hear the news first, he also is confronted with many interesting vocations, hobbies, people and facts. It is almost like a combined course of English, history and science. A sense of responsibility is also developed through this course for many reasons: a deadline is to be met every week, the public must be pleased and the students must learn to work together.

In this last year many hundreds of articles have been written covering a vast number of subjects: hobbies, clubs, outstanding students and teacher, historical events, interviews, and many others.

The journalism class of 1966-67, thanks all of the readers for their support and encouragement and now bids a good farewell to all until next year.

Joe Winner and Mary Anne Yates have won top honors as Valedictorian and Salutatorian of the CHS class of 1967. This announcement was made last week by Mr. Paul Sarchet, principal.

Joe, who has carried a 3.99 point average, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Winner of 150 Watt St. While keeping a high scholastic average in the classical course he has participated in such extracurricular activities as Key Club, band, basketball, baseball, cross country, annual staff, NHS and EMS. Next fall Joe plans to enter Purdue University to study engineering.

For this reason, one must work hard in junior high school to be ready for later years. I've been fortunate in having some good instructors—teachers who were interested in each student's progress."

Named as Salutatorian, and carrying a 3.97 point average, is Mary Anne Yates, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Yates of 345 Lewis Rd. Mary Anne is also enrolled in the classical course as well as a participant in the Science Club, Drama Club, annual staff, Triple Trio, choir, NHS, EMS, and intramurals. She plans to enter Rochester University next fall to study chemistry.

As her Commencement address, Mary Anne will discuss the 1967 Senior class motto, "There is no knowledge that is not power." When asked what she feels is a formula for scholastic success, Mary Anne replied, "The most important thing is to develop a desire to learn. If you want to learn you can and will learn. You can't learn alone and help comes from good teachers and especially from parents who encourage you."

Although Larry Payne won the broad jump with a jump of 21-feet 7-inches, he was spurred by teammate Brad Marshall. Brad held the record of 21-foot 3-inches for almost two minutes before Payne shattered it and erased all other marks.

Eric Downing upset favored Greenfield miler, Babington, and grabbed the mile title and a school record of 4:44.

Steve Dade kept his title by showing great form and speed as he outdistanced Washington Court House's ace hurdler, Workman, who many felt was invincible.

Larry Payne picked up his second title by winning the 440-yard dash in a well contested race. During the event, Larry was carrying a victory all the way when suddenly on the final turn Summers of Miami Trace interfered with Payne's stride and caused Larry to fall back to second. When they had cleared, Larry was given first and Summers was disqualified.

The half-mile relay team clipped Wilmington's famed relay corps and ran away with first in a fine time of 1:38.3.

Though these first places were a big help, Circleville's formula for it's overwhelming victory was again, as last year, depth. The Tiger squad was able to place two competitors in eight of 13 events.

Second places for the Tigers went to Tom Fletcher, in the shot-put; Ron Bryant, in the discus; Bruce Tigner, in the high jump; Tim Stonerock, in the 100 yard dash; Gary McCain in the half-mile, and Brad Marshall, in the broad jump.

Picking up third places for the squad were Tim Stonerock in the shot put, and 220-yard dash, Bruce Tigner in the pole vault and 120-yard high hurdles; Darrell Brown, in the two-mile run; Steve Dade, in the 180 yard low hurdles, and the mile relay team of Larry Payne, Mark Krieger, Tom Fletcher and Gary McCain.

Contributing fourth places were Rod Sines, in the pole vault; Mike Martindill, in the mile run; and Terry Martin in the 180-yard low hurdles.

Coming up with fifth places were Mel Smith, in the two mile and Brad Marshall, in the 440-yard dash.

Graduation Draws Near For CHS Class of '67

By ANNE JOYCE

The day of graduation is approaching for the class of '67—the first class to graduate from the new high school.

It has been a great year for most of us. We have had a new and modern school with many advantages and good teachers to instruct us. It was quite a contrast to the old school. The first day we entered the new building, with the smell of paint and building material fresh in the air with the bright and cheery classrooms, our spirits rose and enthusiasm filled the air.

Whether the school be old or new the day of graduation will be one to remember. We may all think we will be glad to be our own, but when school starts next fall, I'm sure we'll wish we could join the our other classmates in all the school activities again.

In years to come we will remember our school days in grade school with many fond memories. We shall be glad to have been part of the Circleville High School. The class of '67.

May the Trails Be Smooth for Seniors of CHS

By FRITZ JACOBS CITY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

The superintendent's office wishes to take this opportunity to congratulate the graduates of the Class of 1967 and to offer best wishes for future success and happiness. We are all proud of the many accomplishments of this class and also for individual accomplishments. We hope that you may always successfully meet the challenges of the future with determination. We further hope that your high school experiences have been enjoyable and profitable.

I also wish to commend the teaching and administrative staff for their dedicated performance and attitude. This has been a most enjoyable year where cooperation and second effort by the staff have necessarily over-shadowed our financial limitations. We trust that this limitation will be lifted in the near future and that we can continue to move forward in proportion to our desire and dedication to duty.

CHS DECA Club Active during 1966-67 Term

By WANDA FYFFE

This year the DECA club has made an outstanding effort to make the students and people of the Circleville community proud. DECA students have had entries in almost every contest going on. Dan Warner represented Circleville in the Regional Circleville had the largest representation.

To represent us at Westerville in the district contest were: Bev Boltenhouse, job interview; Jim Corn, speech; Rusty Fausnaugh, job interview; Mike Fyffe, sales demonstration; Roger Griffey, math; Larry Downing, window display; Melissa Willoughby sweetheart; Richard Ferrel, advertising; Cindy Good, parliamentary; and Tom Tootle, business vocabulary.

After winning at Westerville, Melissa Willoughby, Larry Downing, Roger Griffey, and Jim Corn traveled to Columbus, Ohio, to compete in state division. Melissa won first at Columbus and she then traveled to Chicago to represent Ohio in the national contest.

This year the club has sold calendars, Christmas decorations, candy, brief cases, magnetic memo holders and have also held bake sales. Through these efforts the club has been able to finance trips to all conference meetings.

Graduation Draws Near For CHS Class of '67

By ANNE JOYCE

The day of graduation is approaching for the class of '67—the first class to graduate from the new high school.

It has been a great year for most of us. We have had a new and modern school with many advantages and good teachers to instruct us. It was quite a contrast to the old school. The first day we entered the new building, with the smell of paint and building material fresh in the air with the bright and cheery classrooms, our spirits rose and enthusiasm filled the air.

Whether the school be old or new the day of graduation will be one to remember. We may all think we will be glad to be our own, but when school starts next fall, I'm sure we'll wish we could join the our other classmates in all the school activities again.

In years to come we will remember our school days in grade school with many fond memories. We shall be glad to have been part of the Circleville High School. The class of '67.

May the Trails Be Smooth for Seniors of CHS

By FRITZ JACOBS CITY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

The superintendent's office wishes to take this opportunity to congratulate the graduates of the Class of 1967 and to offer best wishes for future success and happiness. We are all proud of the many accomplishments of this class and also for individual accomplishments. We hope that you may always successfully meet the challenges of the future with determination. We further hope that your high school experiences have been enjoyable and profitable.

I also wish to commend the teaching and administrative staff for their dedicated performance and attitude. This has been a most enjoyable year where cooperation and second effort by the staff have necessarily over-shadowed our financial limitations. We trust that this limitation will be lifted in the near future and that we can continue to move forward in proportion to our desire and dedication to duty.

CHS DECA Club Active during 1966-67 Term

By WANDA FYFFE

This year the DECA club has made an outstanding effort to make the students and people of the Circleville community proud. DECA students have had entries in almost every contest going on. Dan Warner represented Circleville in the Regional Circleville had the largest representation.

To represent us at Westerville in the district contest were: Bev Boltenhouse, job interview; Jim Corn, speech; Rusty Fausnaugh, job interview; Mike Fyffe, sales demonstration; Roger Griffey, math; Larry Downing, window display; Melissa Willoughby, sweetheart; Richard Ferrel, advertising; Cindy Good, parliamentary; and Tom Tootle, business vocabulary.

After winning at Westerville, Melissa Willoughby, Larry Downing, Roger Griffey, and Jim Corn traveled to Columbus, Ohio, to compete in state division. Melissa won first at Columbus and she then traveled to Chicago to represent Ohio in the national contest.

This year the club has sold calendars, Christmas decorations, candy, brief cases, magnetic memo holders and have also held bake sales. Through these efforts the club has been able to finance trips to all conference meetings.

CHS Red and Black Staff Of 1966-67 Bids Farewell

By JOYCE VALENTINE

Ten seniors will leave the journalism class with the upcoming graduation. This past year they have had many headaches and worked long hours to help put together the Red and Black page to better inform the public of the school's many activities.

There is a lot of work in printing even one small page of a paper. Assignments are given and the planning begins. New angles are sought, interviews are made, and writing and re-writing is done constantly. The public likes variety and boredom may arise easily; this is where the problem begins — "please our readers."

The work doesn't stop after the writing. Such tasks as proof-reading, copyreading, more re-writing, typing and organization keeps journalists on the job to the many students not taking journalism, it looks like an easy credit, a spur of the moment inspiration; but all of the hard work and time involved is returned many times over by all the benefits that can be gained. Not only does the journalist hear the news first, he also is confronted with many interesting vocations, hobbies, people and facts. It is almost like a combined course of English, history and science. A sense of responsibility is also developed through this course for many reasons: a deadline is to be met every week, the public must be pleased and the students must learn to work together.

In this last year many hundreds of articles have been written covering a vast number of subjects: hobbies, clubs, outstanding students and teacher, historical events, interviews, and many others.

The journalism class of 1966-67, thanks all of the readers for their support and encouragement and now bids a good farewell to all until next year.

CHS Concert Band Concludes Season

By GEORGE MARSHALL

The Circleville High School Concert Band will conclude the season with a concert in the Ted Lewis Park on Sunday at 2 p. m. The public will be invited. The program will differ a great deal from the one on May 12. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring this concert.

The band will be marching on Memorial Day and will be participating in the Commencement ceremonies on June 4. The band wishes to thank the community for the fine support it has received this year and hopes the support will continue in the future.

The CHS Choir will conclude the 1966-67 school year by singing for Baccalaureate, afternoon of June 4, and Commencement, the evening of June 4.

Farmers and Sportsmen Hold 1st .22 Caliber Rifle Match

The first .22 caliber open match of the season held by the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Club was won by Jerry Parish.

Finishing second was Terry Kifer. James Hawthorne was third.

During the business session held following the match, plans were finalized for the annual Children's Day Fishing contest scheduled 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. June 5.

First, second and third prizes will be awarded for the largest fish, the smallest fish and the largest string of fish.

IN CASE of rain, the contest will be held June 18.

It was announced during the meeting that the first .30 caliber rifle match of the season will be held at Camp Sherman range, Chillicothe, beginning 8 a. m. July 9.

On May 28, a South Central Ohio League .22 caliber match will be held at the Pickaway County Range located at the fairgrounds.

Relays will be fired at 1 p. m. and at 3 p. m.

A National Rifle Assn. registered match, anyone wishing to fire is invited to attend it was announced by Dick Redman, club secretary.

The next meeting of the club will be held 6 p. m. June 15. The business session will be preceded by a .45 caliber rifle match at the local range.

THE RANGE at the Fairgrounds is maintained by the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn. for .22 caliber and pistol competition.

Patrick Paces Wittenberg Golf Squad

SPRINGFIELD — A former Circleville High School athlete paced the Wittenberg University golf team in scoring this spring as the Tigers posted a 5-3-1 record and finished second in the best-ball Denison Invitational.

Dick Patrick, a sophomore linksman who held down the fourth spot on the team, scored 28.5 out of a possible 36 points as he averaged 81.4 shots in nine matches.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Patrick of 315 Wood Lane had the honor of being the co-holder of the lowest score posted by a Tiger golfer this season when he shot a two-over-par 73 against Marietta.

Auto Race Trials To Be Completed During Weekend

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Ten-mile time trials to determine 33 starters in the 51st 500-mile Memorial Day auto race will be completed Saturday and Sunday, with Roger McCluskey virtually conceded fast time for the weekend.

The Tucson, Ariz., veteran, king of the half-mile highbanked tracks, threw a rod last weekend when 25 other drivers put cars into the lineup at least temporarily. His Eagle-Ford had been running among the half-dozen fastest in practice.

McCluskey had been over 166 this week with another engine and nobody else has been in that category.

Almost nonexistent possibilities of any new qualifying records probably will hold this weekend's crowds well below last Saturday's estimated attendance of more than 200,000. Sunday's program was rained out.

Colavito, Wagner Slated To Share Same Outfield

BOSTON (AP) — Cleveland Indians Manager Joe Adcock announced Thursday night that Rocky Colavito and Leon Wagner will share the same outfield for the first time this season tonight against Boston.

But he maintains that neither the heavy hitting of his two part-timers nor Colavito's written protests had anything to do with the decision.

"We're going into a hitter's ball park, it's just that simple," said Adcock.

Because of Fenway Park's inviting left field wall, there was little doubt about Daddy Wags and Colavito playing the four-game series here with the Red Sox.

Last season in Fenway, Colavito batted .394 (13 for 33), Wagner .303 (10 for 33) and Chuck Hinton, who will play center field in the new lineup, .200 (3 for 15).

Adcock made the announcement as the Tribe handed its Class AA Eastern League farm club, Pawtucket, R.I., a 6-2 defeat Thursday night.

A two-run homer by Fred Whitfield and a clutch double by Gus Gil led the big Indians to their victory.

Colavito, Wagner and Hinton were surprised when informed of their assignments against the Red Sox.

"I'll believe it when I see it,"

Wags ventured. "But if it's true, then that's fine. Just fine."

With a wink in Wagner's direction and in a voice loud enough for Wags to hear, Hinton said, "Don't you worry about me being able to play in centerfield."

"As long as I'm in the lineup, I'm satisfied. I don't care where the man plays me, even catcher. I'm happy."

Colavito said he didn't consider this a special challenge to prove the club is better with the emphasis on offense.

"Every time I go to bat, it's a challenge and I won't be trying any harder than before—because I've been trying as hard as I possibly can," Colavito said.

Spring Roundup Delayed at PCC

The Men's Spring Roundup at the Pickaway Country Club, originally scheduled Saturday, has been postponed until June 3 it was announced today by PCC Pro Terry Dilts.

Because of the rain which has kept the course wet and soggy, the groundskeeper has been unable to mow, Dilts said in explaining the delay.

Veteran Treasurer Handles Prize Fund for Horse Show

The man who handles the money for the Kiwanis Charity Horse Show is Robert Wilson who has served as the show treasurer since its inception.

For the 1967 show Wilson will be writing 190 checks for exhibitor's prize money. Of the 76 classes in this year's enlarged show 32 are non-money classes where trophies and ribbons only are awarded.

Others carry prize money of $3 for some sixth places to $30 which is the top prize money in each of three championship stake classes. More than 60 local businesses and individuals are sponsoring classes in the May 27-28 show. Exhibitors will pay entry fees of $2 for non-money classes to $15 in some stake classes.

Show officials are unwilling to count their chickens (or horses) before they're hatched, but even the least optimistic committee members are hopeful that there will be nearly 500 entries or more than 350 horses on hand during the two days of the show next weekend. One nearby stable expects to bring twelve.

Cassius Clay's Trial Scheduled For June 19

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Cassius Clay is scheduled to stand trial June 19 on a charge of refusing to be inducted into the Army.

U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham set the date Thursday which is two weeks later than the original June 5 date but six weeks earlier than the Aug. 1 date the former world heavyweight champion's lawyers had sought.

In denying the requested Aug. 1 date, Judge Ingraham said Clay's defense had been given adequate notice to prepare for trial since the indictment was returned May 8 and because the issues in the case are not complex enough to warrant a continuance.

Clay was in jail Thursday for about an hour in Miami on a traffic charge.

Clay was arrested as he drove his 1967 Cadillac along a Miami street with his chauffeur at his side.

He was kept in the booking section for an hour until he paid $75 bond on charges of failing to have a driver's license and not keeping a promise to appear in court.

Spring Sports Banquet Slated

The Circleville High School spring sports banquet will be held 6:30 p. m. Monday at the 4-H and Grange Building.

A carryin fete, it will honor members of the track, baseball and golf squads. The principal speaker will be Bob Episkamp, Ohio State University track coach.

The most valuable player awards will be presented in the three sports. The banquet and the awards are sponsored by the Circleville Booster club.

Circleville Cops FU Invitational

Circleville won the 9-team Fairfield Union Invitational Track Meet Thursday, scoring 65 points as the Red and Black cindermen captured five firsts.

The second place team in the meet was Hamilton Township, far behind the Tigers with 39 points. Other teams were: Liberty Union, 37; Fairfield Union, 29; West Muskingum, 24; Groveport, 22; Carroll, 12½; Logan Elm, 7½; Logan, 4.

Bruce Tigner was presented a trophy for winning the most points in field events at the meet. Tigner won the high jump at 5 feet 10 inches and was fourth in the pole vault. In addition, Tigner was third in the 120-yard high hurdles for the Red and Black.

Tom Fletcher registered his longest toss of the year in the shot put, throwing the 12-pound ball 51 feet 6½ inches. His winning throw was 3 inches short of a Circleville School record.

STEVE DADE running against the wind, took the 120-yard high hurdles in 16.8 and was second in the 180-yard low hurdles.

Darryl Brown won the two mile run, posting a time of 10:38 in the event.

The Circleville 880-yard relay team of Mark Krieger, Tom Fletcher, Jim Samuel and Tim Stonerock placed first in a time of 1:37.4.

In addition to running on the relay team, Stonerock placed second in the 100 yard dash and third in the 220 yard dash.

Rod Sines was third in the pole vault, Eric Downing was third in the mile run and the Tiger Mile relay team also placed third.

Registering one of his better tosses of the year in the discus with a 130-foot plus effort, Ron Bryant was fourth in the event. Mel Smith was fourth in the mile run and Terry Martin was fourth in the low hurdles.

The victory at the Invitational climaxed a successful season for Circleville that saw them win the South Central Ohio League Crown.

Houston Defeats SF Giants, 6-2

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Out of the dark recesses of the San Francisco Giants' dugout came that refrain so familiar to the ears of an umpire. "Meathead!"

Up went Shag Crawford's thumb, out of the game went Ollie Brown and on the field rushed Herman Franks.

It all happened in the second inning of what was to become a 6-2 Houston victory over the Giants Thursday night.

The Astros' Jimmy Wynn had hit a disputed home run in the first inning which the Giants claimed was foul. As San Francisco prepared to bat in the second, the needling of Crawford continued. Suddenly, Brown got the thumb.

Franks charged after Crawford to protest the ejection and pretty soon, Brown had company in the clubhouse.

"All that was said was 'meathead,'" Franks stormed after the game. "How can you throw a man out of the ball game unless you see him? One voice out of 25. How can he tell who yelled 'meathead' out of all those?"

Franks and Crawford bumped. The umpire pushed Herman away, and squared off to defend himself.

"I didn't bump him that hard," said Franks. "We just rubbed chests."

Crawford didn't exactly agree.

"Herman told me I got the wrong man and I'm certain I didn't," said Crawford. "We bumped and I pushed him away. He came down with both hands on my shoulder after I pushed him back."

Franks wasn't the only manager having thumb trouble Thursday. Cincinnati's Dave Bristol and Atlanta's Billy Hitchcock also were tossed out in the only other National League games played. The Reds bowed to Philadelphia 7-1 and the Braves lost to Pittsburgh 5-3.

In the only American League game, Washington dropped Baltimore 2-0 and Oriole Manager Hank Bauer stuck around for the whole game.

Crawford, who called Wynn's homer fair, was certain that he had tossed the right man when he ejected Brown.

"He was looking right at me," the umpire said. "He called me a meathead."

Franks was just as adamant about the homer and Brown.

"The ball was foul," he fumed. "Why pick on Brown? He didn't say a thing. I know who said it but I'm not going to say who it was."

Jim Bunning allowed the Reds three hits and a run in the first inning but nothing after that. He struck out 11 and drove in a run with a sixth inning single that set up Bristol's ejection.

Johnny Callison was on third base and Bobby Wine on first when Bunning missed an attempted squeeze. Callison was trapped in a rundown but made it back to third as Wine reached second.

The Reds argued that Callison had run out of the baseline, and catcher Johnny Edwards was ejected after Bunning singled. When the umpire refused to allow Jim Coker, Edwards' replacement, to warm up, Bristol protested the game and also was tossed out.

Hitchcock and Joe Torre left in the eighth inning of the Braves-Pirates game for arguing over the call of a pitch. Roy Face was the hero for the Pirates, snuffing out a late Atlanta rally and pitching two innings of scoreless relief.

Donn Clendenen and Bill Mazeroski homered for the Pirates, and Gene Oliver connected for the Braves.

Pete Richert first fired a three-hitter at the Orioles, who had scored 44 runs in their last five games. Brooks Robinson had two of Baltimore's hits against the Senators' left-hander. Washington's runs came on a sacrifice fly and an error.

Weather Bureau To Install New Service in Ohio

WASHINGTON (AP)—A state-wide weather teletypewriter service will be installed in Ohio this spring by the Weather Bureau in an effort to provide faster warnings of tornadoes.

It is one of the first major steps taken to establish the National Disaster Warning (NADWARN) System.

Rep. Jackson E. Betts and other members of Congress from Ohio have been pressing the Weather Bureau to install better warning systems ever since the 1965 Palm Sunday tornadoes which ripped through Ohio.

The ESSA (Environmental Science Services Administration) weather wire is scheduled for completion by June 7. It will link the Weather Bureau offices at Akron, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Mansfield, Toledo and Youngstown.

The office at Cleveland will serve as the control center for the Ohio circuit, transmitting natural hazard warnings and broadscale weather information prepared at Cleveland, or collected from national and regional weather circuits.

Other bureau offices on the circuit will add local warnings, local weather material, and specialized forecast information.

Robert M. White, head of the Weather Bureau stated:

1. Installation of backup emergency power and radio equipment is scheduled after preliminary components of the new NADWARN program have been put into operation in Ohio.

2. The RAWARC (Radar Warning Circuit) has been ordered for Mansfield and Youngstown and will be installed on or about June 5. This is an internal warning circuit permitting quick passage of information between local stations. RAWARC is part of the NADWARN system.

Betts said there is still much to be done beyond the minimum standards for equipment in Weather Bureau offices and he will continue to press for improved facilities so Ohio will be among the best protected states.

P. H. Kutschenreuter, an official of the Weather Bureau, said that funds for extension of the weather radar network and other work were appropriated last October.

He said some delay in implementation of the ESSA weather wire has been brought about by the communications companies need to order more teletypewriter equipment from manufacturers to meet the demands.

He said the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will install the basic circuit expected by June 7 and improved facilities so Ohio will be available to mass news disseminator throughout Ohio after that date.

He said this circuit will enable the Weather Bureau to keep all subscribers continuously advised of weather conditions.

Woman Has Lost 3 Sons to War

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Birdie Allen has now lost three sons in her country's wars.

Mrs. Allen, who moved here three years ago from Hazard, Ky., was notified this week that Staff Sgt. Samuel R. Allen, 32, of the 82nd Airborne Division had been killed by small arms fire on a combat operation in South Vietnam.

Two of Mrs. Allen's older sons James and Charles, were killed in Europe in World War II. She and her late husband, J.W. Allen, had six sons.

Gravel Firm 40 Years Old

The Sturm & Dillard Co., a familiar name in sand and gravel, has been a part of the local business scene since 1927.

George A. Fissell is president and plant superintendent at the sprawling Sturm & Dillard works on Route 3. He has directed operations there for many years.

The "gravel plant" as it is commonly known employs a unique process in its process of mining and gravel for multiple construction purposes. The products derived are shipped to local and distant points.

Raw material is dug to a depth of 55 feet below water with a dredge pump and huge bucket. After it is dried, the aggregate is hauled to the plant for an initial manufacturing process.

Huge six-ton buckets carry the material to the top of the plant's 125-foot high tower. Then comes a screening and crushing process.

The screening process allows 11 types of material to be made at the same time. Modern equipment allows a production rate of 250 tons per hour.

The manufactured material falls into separate bins, some being loaded in railroad cars. The remainder is placed in dump cars and hauled to stock piles by a diesel electric locomotive.

The stock piles serve as a source of supply for material loaded onto trucks for distribution to many points.

Company transportation includes one tri-axle truck of approximately 20-ton capacity, seven tandem trucks and two two-ton dump vehicles.

Sturm & Dillard employs 35 men and has an annual payroll of approximately $175,000. Production amounts to 250,000 tons yearly.

The company furnished material for the West Virginia and Kentucky Turnpikes. A large quantity of products are shipped by the C & O Railroad.

Another important function is the ability to produce 4,000 concrete blocks per day. The company, of course, provides its own sand and gravel for this purpose. Additional building supplies also are handled.

The extensive yard layout includes six miles of railroad track.

Circleville Plant Becomes Integral Part of GE Company's Progress Story

General Electric's Circleville Lamp plant is part of a company that ranks third in employment among U. S. manufacturers and fourth in sales.

GE has 300,000 employees. Sales revenue amounts to more than $7 billion annually.

The story of General Electric's growth to this magnitude is one of continuous achievement. The Circleville plant is a segment of this story.

The company's progress is based on two factors. First, GE manufactures a wide variety of products to meet the needs of both the public and industry, and has dedicated itself to satisfying these needs with quality products.

The second factor is evidenced in General Electric being a company that cares about people — employees and customers — and as a result has innovated many ideas to increase enjoyment of a modern, dynamic society. A reputation for reliability and progressiveness has been earned along the way.

The General Electric Co. was formed in 1892 by the merger of two companies—the Edison General Electric Co. and the Thomson-Houston Co.

At first, the company concentrated on three fields — power, lighting and electric railways. From this beginning it has diversified into products ranging from home appliances and lamps to jet engines, space technology and highly sophisticated computers.

Under a policy of decentralization, General Electric is divided into a number of operating divisions and departments, each with its own product responsibility, its own markets and its own natural autonomy.

Circleville Lamp plant is part of General Electric's Large Lamp Department. This department, in turn, is one of six product departments of the company's Lamp Division with headquarters at Nela Park in Cleveland.

The facility here came about in 1948, and has operated ever since under the guidance and leadership of E. G. Grigg, plant manager. Many in the plant still recall that historic day when the first fluorescent lamp rolled off the line.

Built to manufacture small diameter slimline lamps, the local installation now produces many different lamp types in a variety of colors. Manufactured are Slimline, High Output, Power Groove, Circline, Mercury Vapor, and Quartz Heat lamps.

Very few of the lamp types being manufactured now even existed when the plant began operations. But as technology forges ahead, so does the plant and its contributions to the Circleville economy.

In 1958, the plant underwent a $2.5 million expansion program to add more office, warehouse and manufacturing space.

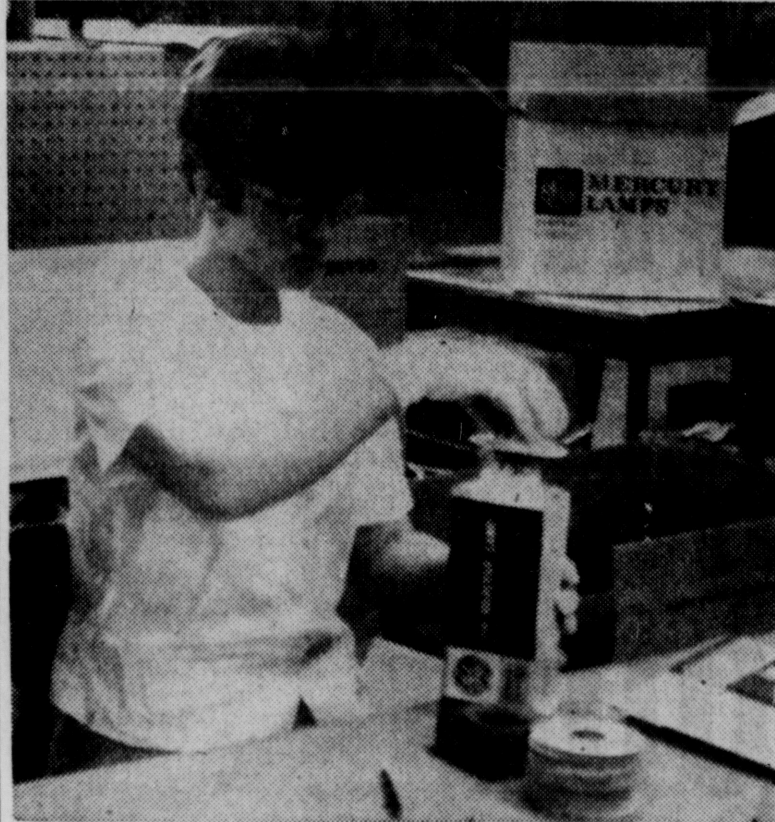

This year finds the plant again expanding—to the tune of a $2 million program to again add warehousing and production facilities.

As Grigg has pointed out on several occasions, "We at General Electric have a high degree of confidence in the Circleville area and its future. We owe much of our success to the high caliber people who live and work here. The plants proud to have Circleville as its home, and looks forward to continuing growth as a partner for progress with Circleville."

INSPECTION — Montford Kirkwood, quality standards inspection engineer, assists Mrs. Violet Smalley and Mrs. Lillian Wing in a final fluorescent lamp check before shipment.

Casanovas Shaved By Cairo Coppers

CAIRO (AP — Sidewalk "Casanovas" of Egypt may stare at women, and get by with it. But if they accompany the gazing by eyebrow movements, or if they writhes, they will be considered as moral offenders. They will get a "Yul Brynner" style head shave.

In a sweeping campaign designed to purge Cairo "physically and morally," Saad Zayed, the Cairo governor, ordered police to arrest all misbehaving elements and shave their heads clean.

The governor was presumably disappointed at the results. The first two so-called offenders arrested were reported to have liked the clean shave.

May I Use Your Pen?

MORGANTOWN, Ky. (AP)—A customer signed a charge slip at Pete Smith's service station last summer, then carried off his ballpoint pen.

It was returned recently with this note:

"This pen has been to Hawaii, Japan, Taiwan, the Philippines, Vietnam, Thailand, Malaysia, Australia, New Zealand and Tahiti. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge used it. It has been aboard the U.S. Carrier Coral Sea off Haiphong, and the prime minister of Australia signed his autograph with it. I think it is ready to go back to Kentucky."

The note was signed by Jenkin

Lloyd Jones, editor of The Tulsa, Okla., Tribune.

OUR STORY

55 Years

Fifty-five years of progress is evident at the Circleville Lumber Co., located at 150 Edison Avenue, Circleville.

The firm was founded in 1912 by T. O. Gilliland and was started in the location it now occupies.

Since its founding the company has grown to include 10 employees and scores of new services.

Among the newest of these services are a complete credit and budget account department.

Circleville Lumber Co. has experienced 55 years of continuous service in lumber, builders hardware, paint and all building materials. They also have a complete millwork division, offer delivery service and maintain a complete estimating and planning department.

The company has experienced continual growth over the past 55 years and expects to effectively expand its services each year.

Circleville Plant Becomes Integral Part of GE Company's Progress Story

General Electric's Circleville Lamp plant is part of a company that ranks third in employment among U. S. manufacturers and fourth in sales.

GE has 300,000 employees. Sales revenue amounts to more than $7 billion annually.

The story of General Electric's growth to this magnitude is one of continuous achievement. The Circleville plant is a segment of this story.

The company's progress is based on two factors. First, GE manufactures a wide variety of products to meet the needs of both the public and industry, and has dedicated itself to satisfying these needs with quality products.

The second factor is evidenced in General Electric being a company that cares about people — employees and customers — and as a result has innovated many ideas to increase enjoyment of a modern, dynamic society. A reputation for reliability and progressiveness has been earned along the way.

The General Electric Co. was formed in 1892 by the merger of two companies—the Edison General Electric Co. and the Thomson-Houston Co.

At first, the company concentrated on three fields — power, lighting and electric railways. From this beginning it has diversified into products ranging from home appliances and lamps to jet engines, space technology and highly sophisticated computers.

Under a policy of decentralization, General Electric is divided into a number of operating divisions and departments, each with its own product responsibility, its own markets and its own natural autonomy.

Circleville Lamp plant is part of General Electric's Large Lamp Department. This department, in turn, is one of six product departments of the company's Lamp Division with headquarters at Nela Park in Cleveland.

The facility here came about in 1948, and has operated ever since under the guidance and leadership of E. G. Grigg, plant manager. Many in the plant still recall that historic day when the first fluorescent lamp rolled off the line.

Built to manufacture small diameter slimline lamps, the local installation now produces many different lamp types in a variety of colors. Manufactured are Slimline, High Output, Power Groove, Circline, Mercury Vapor, and Quartz Heat lamps.

Very few of the lamp types being manufactured now even existed when the plant began operations. But as technology forges ahead, so does the plant and its contributions to the Circleville economy.

In 1958, the plant underwent a $2.5 million expansion program to add more office, warehouse and manufacturing space.

This year finds the plant again expanding—to the tune of a $2 million program to again add warehousing and production facilities.

As Grigg has pointed out on several occasions, "We at General Electric have a high degree of confidence in the Circleville area and its future. We owe much of our success to the high caliber people who live and work here. The plants proud to have Circleville as its home, and looks forward to continuing growth as a partner for progress with Circleville."

INSPECTION — Montford Kirkwood, quality standards inspection engineer, assists Mrs. Violet Smalley and Mrs. Lillian Wing in a final fluorescent lamp check before shipment.

QUARTZ LAMP DEPARTMENT — Barbara Moats, Dora Speakman and Teresea Shelpman complete a testing, cleaning and packing operation in the quartz heat lamp department. These lamps are used as a heat source rather than for light purposes. Facilities for this phase of production were completed here in 1965, along with the mercury lamp division.

Casanovas Shaved By Cairo Coppers

CAIRO (AP) — Sidewalk "Casanovas" of Egypt may stare at women, and get by with it. But if they accompany the gazing by eyebrow movements, or if they writhe, they will be considered as moral offenders. They will get a "Yul Brynner" style head shave.

In a sweeping campaign designed to purge Cairo "physically and morally," Saad Zayed, the Cairo governor, ordered police to arrest all misbehaving elements and shave their heads clean.

The governor was presumably disappointed at the results. The first two so-called offenders arrested were reported to have liked the clean shave.

May I Use Your Pen?

MORGANTOWN, Ky. (AP)—A customer signed a charge slip at Pete Smith's service station last summer, then carried off his ballpoint pen.

It was returned recently with this note:

"This pen has been to Hawaii, Japan, Taiwan, the Philippines, Vietnam, Thailand, Malaysia, Australia, New Zealand and Tahiti. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge used it. It has been aboard the U.S. Carrier Coral Sea off Haiphong, and the prime minister of Australia signed his autograph with it. I think it is ready to go back to Kentucky."

Drowning Is Popular In India

NEW DELHI (AP) — Drowning is the favorite form of suicide in India, according to a report by the Central Bureau of Investigation.

A survey by the agency of 29,724 suicides reported in 1964 showed that 8,843 persons died by jumping into wells, ponds or rivers, while 6,754 hanged themselves and 2,900 took poison. Other methods were not disclosed.

Coincidentally, a report released earlier by the same agency revealed that drownings also were responsible for the most accidental deaths in India in 1964.

The largest number of suicides — 12,724 — was reported in the 18-30 age group, followed by 10,900 cases above 30 and 6,100 below 18.

The analysis showed that no motive could be found for about half the suicides. However, 6,344 persons were reported to have committed suicide because of chronic diseases. Quarrels with parents caused 2,554 suicides and domestic arguments accounted for 1,822, with women making up 1,159 of this total.

Babied Vines Are To Yield Better Booze

MONTEE, Ill. (AP) — It will by 1969 before a full crop of grapes can be harvested here, but the two men operating the vineyard expect it will produce the finest champagne in the United States.

Bern Ramey and Joe Allen have been preparing the soil since 1963 with first plantings in 1964. Last year some 25,000 to 30,000 clusters of grapes were pinched off to strengthen the vines.

The vine will be made in two old Illinois Central stations which were moved from southern Illinois. The vineyard runs along the main line of the railroad.

28 were electric companies, 20 street railway companies, five electric and heating companies, three electric and railway companies and one an ice and coal firm.

The original predecessor of the present company, first in a long line of successions, was the Columbus Street Railroad Company, incorporated June 10, 1858. But because of existing economic conditions, it remained inactive for more than four years before it obtained a franchise from the city to operate.

The first horse drawn streetcar appeared in Columbus in 1863, and the first supply of commercial electric energy in Columbus in 1883.

At Circleville the first electricity was produced by a direct current plant established in 1884 by a group of Cincinnati men who purchased rights from Thomas A. Edison for use of his electric production and distribution system and formed the Circleville Edison Illuminating Co. which continued here until about 1892.

Two 50 kilowatt generators were installed near the present Circleville office under direction of J. Ward Leonard, an associate of Thomas Edison. Leonard later formed the Ward Electric Co., of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., a company which is still in existence. This company furnished residential and commercial lighting and the first incandescent street lighting in the United States — lamps were 16 and 32 candlepower.

The Circleville Gas Light Co., obtained a street lighting contract about 1890 with the result that the Edison Illuminating Co. was sold in bankruptcy to the Circleville Gas Light Co. The name was changed at that time to Circleville Light and Power Co. which operated a generating plant on W. Mound St. on the site of the present substation.

The two 50 kilowatt generators were moved to the Mound Street location, and were used until 1918 for direct current generation. Alternating current generation began in 1910 with the installation of a 250 kilowatt generator.

In 1917 Camp Sherman needed electric power. Walnut Generating Station was just being completed by Columbus Railway Power and Light Co. so the Ohio Utilities Co. agreed to build a 33,000 volt line from Walnut Station to the Ross County Army installation and purchase power from Columbus Railway Power and Light Co.

A contract had been obtained at this time from the U. S. Government to supply Camp Sherman with approximately 2,000 kilowatts of power. Southman Corporation of New York through the influence of P. W. Brooks Co., the Bond holders of Ohio Utilities, obtained the contract to engineer and build this transmission line, which was never very satisfactory after it was put in operation in 1917.

Actually the contract was never fulfilled and local crews completed the circuit to Camp Sherman Station.

In 1918 a 2,400 volt distribution system was built in Circleville and power was supplied from this Walnut — Camp Sherman Line. A substation was installed at the site of the present station on W. Mound St. The station consisted of three — 250 KVA transformers located inside one of the existing buildings now used as a control house.

To illustrate magnitude of the increase in power usage since that time, C & SOE now has two 18,000 KVA transformers at the substation to serve the need of Circleville, in addition to 19,500 KVA at the Scioto Trail substation two miles south of the city which serves Du Pont, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Owens-Illinois.

Eventually the entire operation of electric producers in the southern counties of Ohio came under one title: The Southern Ohio Electric Co. In 1929, the company purchased the properties of the Ohio Utilities firm which had been busy over the years consolidating other companies in widely scattered communities. Among these were locations in Circleville, Delaware, Gallipolis, Hillsboro and Chillicothe.

On this date, there remained two principal operating companies: Columbus Railway Power and Light Co. and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

On May 13, 1937, these two companies, along with the smaller Adams County Power and Light Co., were formally merged into a single corporation — Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Today, C&SOE operation is in all or part of 25 Ohio counties. It serves approximately 331,000 customers in a 6,200 square mile area of Central and Southern Ohio. It maintains division offices, storerooms and service departments in Circleville, Delaware, Chillicothe, Hillsboro, Athens, Nelsonville, Middleport, Jackson, Oak Hill, McArthur, Peebles, Seaman and Waverly. Home office activities are conducted out of Columbus.

In 1965 property taxes amounted to $5,124,495 of which 74 per cent is allocated to schools in the 48 local taxing districts of the C&SOE service area. The company continues to be the largest or second largest taxpayer in Pickaway, Adams, Athens, Coshocton, Delaware, Franklin and Highland Counties.

The rate of population growth in the company's service area has exceeded that of the state and nation over the past two decades. Estimates indicate this trend will continue in the future.

Over the past five years kilowatt hour sales to commercial type customers increased about 35 per cent and sales to industrial type customers increased about 61 per cent. Efforts of the company's Area Development Department have been an important factor in the continuing business expansion.

Colomet, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of the C&SOE was formed in 1962 to acquire and hold property principally for possible future industrial sites. Colomet's net investment in these holdings was $1,359,738 at the end of 1966 including 435 acres of land in the Circleville area.

The company's investment in this plant has grown at a rate of 5.6 per cent, compounded annually, over the period 1956 through 1966. Construction expenditures have averaged just over $18.5 million annually, ranging from a high in 1957 of $31.5 million to a low of $9.6 million in 1959. In 1966 they amounted to $25.1 million, including $3.4 million representing the company's share of the production and transmission facilities to be commonly owned with The Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. and The Dayton Power and Light Co.

During this period net generating capability increased from 524,000 kilowatts to 911,000 kilowatts. In 1966 the company purchased three peaking units which will have a net capability of 47,000 kilowatts. During 1967 two more will be added, with an estimated capability of 28,000 kilowatts, bringing to 75,000 kilowatts this new self-starting power supply.

Generating capability is expected to be increased 55,000 kilowatts by the completion of the commonly owned unit at Cincinnati's Beckjord plant, scheduled for completion in June 1968. This unit will have a net capability of 440,000, of which the Company's portion is to be one-eighth.

In January the company joined with 22 other interconnected electric utilities in an agreement known as the East Central Area Reliability Coordination Agreement. This is designed to further augment the service of these companies' bulk power supply by reviewing, coordinating and evaluating major programs of power plants and transmission lines.

This, in brief, is the heritage of Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Promotions Slim for Fat Troops

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Australia's Army, jealous of its superbly fit troops in Vietnam, has started a weight-reducing campaign.

When a soldier next reports sick or for an annual medical test, his weight will be recorded and a note made on the records of those considered overweight.

The Army newspaper "Australian Army," in its latest issue, warns: "A soldier's employment and promotion prospects could be hampered by excess weight."

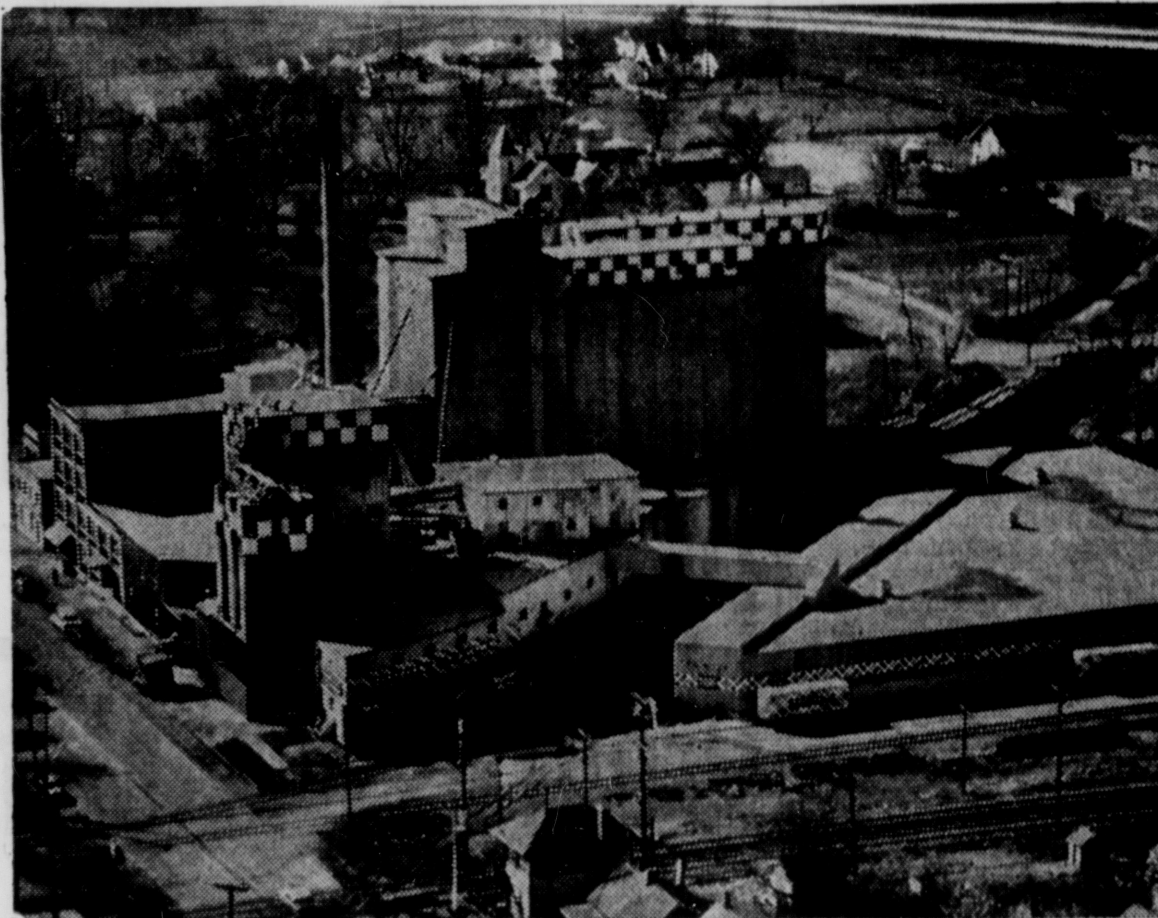

Fat soldiers are told that they will be "treated" and will be required to report weekly and then fortnightly for checks by doctors.

The Army newspaper points out that every 10-ounce glass of beer adds 200 calories—and 3500 calories form one pound of body weight.

The newspaper adds: "The Army is concerned that many young soldiers are punishing their fitness as well as their waistlines by eating too much, drinking too much and not worrying about exercise."

Quality rations play a big part in helping livestock and poultry farmers today. Purina nutritionists keep this in mind every moment as they search for ways to lower feed costs per unit of production on a Least Cost Performance Basis. Progress in this field is necessary if the American farmer is to keep up with a growing population on a profitable basis to him.

Early Days at Circleville Lumber

Lumber Company Proud of Long Years of Service

The Circleville Lumber Co. at 150 Edison Ave. has been a part of the local business community since 1912.

Original incorporator of the firm was T. O. Gilliland. He resides at 145 Pinckney St.

Formed as an Ohio corporation, the company was actively managed by Gilliland from 1912 to 1959.

Charles Fullen was another long-time employee. Widely known in the Circleville area, he served with the company from 1916 to 1960.

Weaver Store Has Operated For 25 Years

Weaver Furniture Store had a very small beginning in a garage at the rear of 480 E. Ohio St. back in 1933.

After several different locations, Ernest Weaver moved into his present location at 159 and 161 W. Main St. He has been in this same location under the same name for 25 years.

In the beginning, used furniture and appliances were his principal business. As the years went by, new lines were introduced. At the present time, the stock is mainly new, although trade-ins are welcome on new furniture.

Over the years, a friendly relationship between the owner and his customers has existed. Several generations of area families have had their homes furnished by the firm.

Smelly Bug Renamed; Maoris Happy

AUCKLAND (AP) — New Zealand's Maoris are a fiercely proud people who for many years have smarted because the smelliest bug in the two islands was called the Maori bug. They are happy now because it has been renamed the "stinking black cockroach."

The change is revealed in a proposed standard list of bug names being compiled by the New Zealand Entomological Society.

The bug's name dates from the early days of the country's settlement, when the pioneers did not worry about the Maoris' feelings on the subject.

Now, according to the Entomological Society secretary Alan D. Lowe, the change is necessary "because it is rather an offensive title."

Other interestingly named species on the society's list include rat-tailed maggot, pharaoh's ant, red-legged ham beetle, drugstore beetle and, as if it were a psychiatric case, the confused flour beetle.

Mason Furniture Enterprise Here Known as Three-Generation Business

"Quality Furniture Since 1900" has been the maxim for Mason Furniture at 121-125 N. Court St.

This three-generation business was founded by D. Edward Mason and his brother, Charles. The origin came when they formed a partnership at the beginning of the century under the name of "Mason Brothers."

In 1929 Karl Mason, Edward Mason's son, joined his father and his uncle. After Charles Mason's death, his interest was purchased by the surviving partner, along with Mr. and Mrs. Karl Mason and Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Patrick. Mrs. Patrick is the former Harriett Mason.

Edward Mason remained comparatively active in the business until his death in 1959. His son and son-in-law then continued the partnership.

In January of 1962 Mr. and Mrs. Patrick purchased Karl Mason's half-interest in the physical structure and business enterprise.

The grandson of the founder, James Edward Patrick, has been working with his father since leaving the armed services in August 1965. Prior to his entering the business on a full-time basis, he had spent the summers during his school year learning various background essentials. Over the years Mason Furniture has made numerous improvements. In 1930 a major remodeling project resulted in doubling the amount of floor space. At this time a complete new window front also was installed.

In the early fifties the dining room in The American Hotel, where The Pickaway Arms had its beginnings in Circleville, was taken over to provide a show-room for a much-increased carpet and rug stock. Many name brands are available.

In 1956, the Crist building on the north side was rented and on the first floor an attractive carpeted room, simulating a large living room, was added. This left the second floor and basement available for storage areas.

In all, there are about 14,000 square feet of display space in the entire store, plus 10,000 square feet of warehouse area.

Customers can find countless name brands of furniture for every room in the home as well as lamps and accessories. Hundreds of upholstery fabric samples in decorator colors are available.

Mason Furniture proudly continues to serve its many friends in Central Ohio and especially

Purina's Circleville Venture Began in 1933

Circleville and Ralston Purina launched a long and friendly association in 1933 when the company purchased its present facilities on S. Court St.

Many advancements have taken place since that time. The Purina operation here today amounts to a modern chow plant that employs more than 70 people and manufactures more than 270 products.

The Ralston Purina Co. was founded in St. Louis, Mo., by William H. Danforth in 1894. His first product, Purina's Horse and Mule Feed, consisted of oats and ground corn combined with molasses, mixed with a shovel, sacked in a burlap bag and sold along the Mississippi River.

Within a quarter of a century this small one-man operation expanded into five large chow plants located in key marketing centers. At the present time, Purina has more than 65 chow plants, four cereal plants and nine soybean installations located in the United States and Canada. This growth has made Purina, by a considerable margin, the world's largest manufacturer of formula feeds.

Since feed comes before food, every man, woman and child in America is indirectly a potential user of approximately 1,600 pounds of Purina Chows each year. With this in mind, food has become the business of the company.

In 1920, Purina purchased a small farm at Gray Summit, Mo. to be used in experimenting in feed technology. Today that farm has developed into what is considered one of the finest animal testing and research centers in the county.

Each year thousands of visitors tour the 900-acre farm. Many 4-H Clubs and farm organizations hold annual meetings there.

Newest member of the Purina family, the International Division, has developed facilities on four continents. The basic product that is exported is Purina "know-how" to aid in the development of a higher standard of living by increasing the production of meat, milk and eggs.

With the acquisition of the Circleville plant, many prominent men connected with Purina have passed through this location.

The plant manager back in 1933 was Ray Rowland. Since that time this man has grown with the Purina family to his present position as chairman of the board.

His successor at Circleville was Eldred Cayce who later became executive vice president in charge of purchasing, a member of the board of directors and who only recently retired. During that time, Don Walker was the assistant plant manager. Today, he has Cayce's former responsibilities in St. Louis as vice president of purchasing.

Next in line of prominent managers was Hal Dean. Today this man guides the total operation as president of Ralston Purina.

For the past 11 years Larry Varble has been plant manager.

Under the leadership of men such as these, the local Ralston Purina plant seeks to continue its enthusiastic role in the economic prosperity of Circleville, and to the farmers in the areas of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia serviced by the plant.

Purina's familiar red and white checkerboard trademark is probably the best known in the American agricultural market. It also is a highly respected trademark in urban supermarkets and grocery stores.

When the founder was a youth in a Southeast Missouri town, he noticed that each time a certain family came to town the girls were clothed in home-made dresses of red and white checkered gingham, and the boys in shirts from the same bolt of cloth. This vividly and publicly identified each member of the family.

William H. Danforth reasoned that similar identification would work with equal effectiveness in packaging each Ralston Purina product. The checkerboard trademark was born.

Not only is the checkerboard the trademark of Purina, but it has become the symbol of both a fourfold agricultural program and a fourfold way of life to Purina employees. Recognizing that feed alone will not mean the most profit to the producer of livestock and poultry, the company has over the years sold a program built around the checkerboard.

The four sides of the checkerboard program for feeders throughout the country is good breeding, sound management, careful sanitation and good feeding. A letdown in any one of these four sides of the checker will result in less profit than the user of Purina Chows should normally expect.

The four-square program for living that was so strongly advocated by Mr. Danforth was the subject of his book called "I Dare You." This fourfold philosophy which plays an important part in the lives of each Purina employee is:

Stand Tall-(Physical vigor and good health); Think Tall-(Keen, alert minds); Smile Tall-(Sincere and friendly personality); Live Tall-(Character, honesty, religion).

Mr. Danforth was a strong believer in young people. There is a statue of a young farm boy the girl in Washington, D. C. that was presented by the Purina founder. It has, in addition to the four-square program of living, a challenge to all young people to "aspire nobly, adventure daringly and serve humbly".

During the past five years, through advertising in many of the national farm publications, "The man in the checkerboard tie" has become the symbol of knowledge of profitable feeding and management programs in rural America.

MIAMI SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — When a city crew arrived to cut down a dead tree here, they found that woodpeckers were raising a family in a hole in one of the branches.

So before they removed the tree, they cut off the branch as gently as possible and tied it securely in a healthy tree nearby. The parent woodpeckers and baby birds were perfectly satisfied in the new location.

Pickaway Grain Has Grown Since Start in Year 1923

The Pickaway Grain Co. was organized May 12, 1923.

The corporation purchased the old Smith Brothers Elevator, now the main elevator and offices, on June 6 of that year. Brothers E. E. and James I. Smith were the owners.

The original Pickaway Grain officers were: L. I. Morris, president; George C. Gerhardt, vice president; M. G. Steely, secretary-treasurer; and R. D. Head and John C. Stevenson, directors.

They sold approximately 200 shares of stock at $100 per share to obtain the necessary funds to start the business.

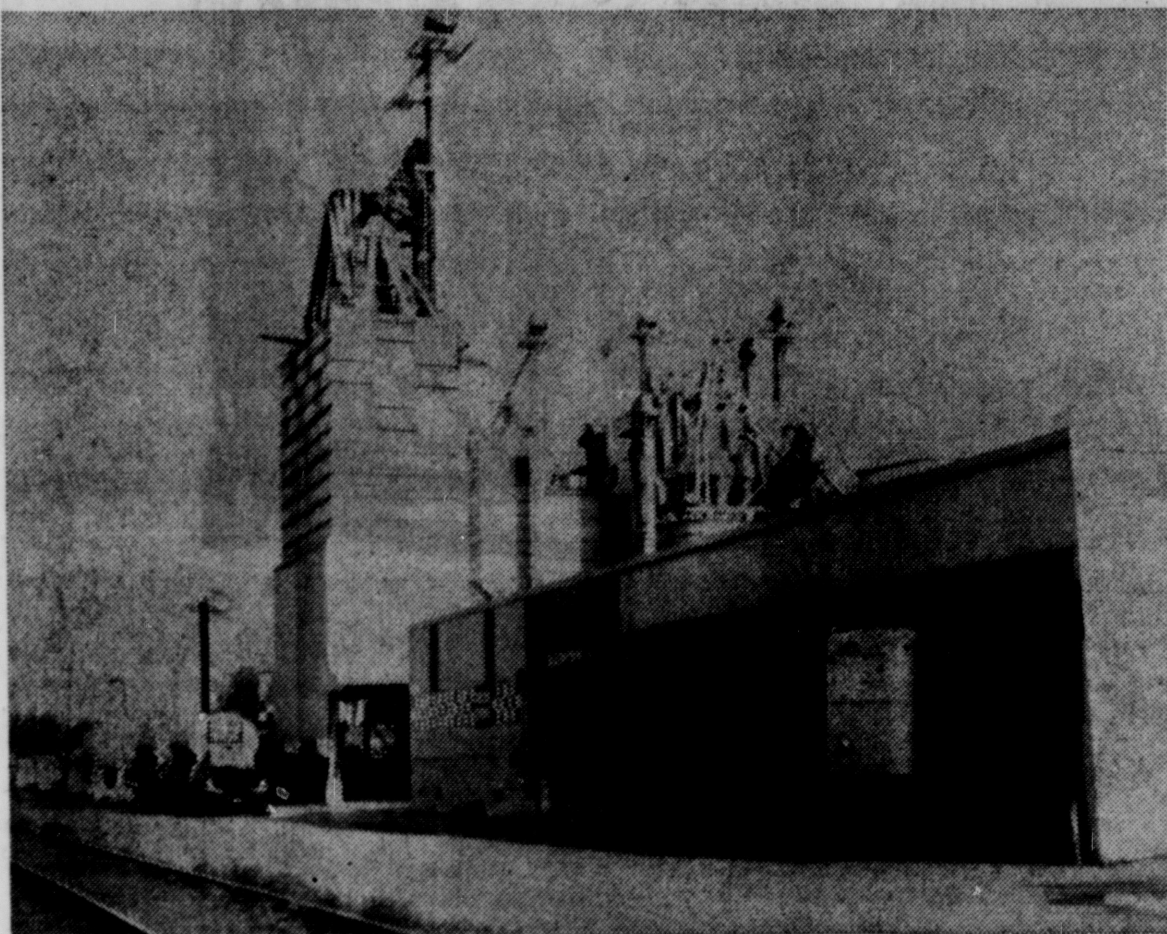

From the original venture, the corporation has expanded to include operations at Circleville, Yellowbud and Elmwood.

The Elmwood elevator was purchased from John Boggs in 1946. In 1949 the Yellowbud mill was purchased from the Immell Brothers. Richard Bowers is present manager of the entire operation.

Many additions and improvements have been completed at the mills, including construction of huge concrete storage silos in 1946 and 1964.

This summer the following projects are being completed: a new showroom connected to the 50 ft. scale to speed up weighing and eliminate having to go through the narrow driveway that has been in use; the addition of three new concrete bins offering 162,000 bushels more storage; doubling the size of the dryer installed in 1964, increasing the drying capacity to 72,000 bushels per day.

Tough "Mylar" was called on to go into space in the Pigeon satellite launched last year.

In a single-use typewriter ribbon, "Mylar" eliminates breakage and permits more feet of ribbon on every reel.

. . . and in more than a thousand other uses . . . "MYLAR" Polyester Film from Circleville is improving existing products . . . and meeting new challenges!

Since Du Pont's Circleville plant made the first commercial poundage of "Mylar" in 1954, the history of this unique product and the parallel record of plant expansions and improvements in manufacturing techniques has been a constant race to fill ever increasing needs.

And while we've highlighted here the dramatic growth in applications for "Mylar" (we now manufacture more than 50 types), the Circleville plant has grown in other ways too. We now produce two other new and unusual film products — "Teflon" FEP fluorocarbon film and "Kapton" polyimide film.

Each of these new products exhibits distinctive properties that are creating demands for them in such modern needs as the production of printed circuits for electrical and electronic devices, and the insulation of such products as aerospace wiring where exceptional heat resistance is a requisite.

We started making "Mylar" with a crew of about 225 people. By last year, more than 1,100 employees were busy here. And we'll need even more help to fill world-wide demands for "Mylar" and "Teflon" and "Kapton" films.

Our plant technical laboratory has just completed an expansion program. The Circleville Research and Development Laboratory is now building additional facilities. And we're embarked on the third major manufacturing expansion in the plant's 13-year history. When the project is completed, mid-1968, we'll be able to produce more "Mylar" — and there'll be more new jobs to be filled.

So, there's every indication that we've got a lot of growing yet to do — and it's a pleasure to be doing it in Circleville!

The Elmwood elevator was purchased from John Boggs in 1946. In 1949 the Yellowbud mill was purchased from the Immell Brothers. Richard Bowers is present manager of the entire operation.

Many additions and improvements have been completed at the mills, including construction of huge concrete storage silos in 1946 and 1964.

This summer the following projects are being completed: a new showroom connected to the 50 ft. scale to speed up weighing and eliminate having to go through the narrow driveway that has been in use; the addition of three new concrete bins offering 162,000 bushels more storage; doubling the size of the dryer installed in 1964, increasing the drying capacity to 72,000 bushels per day.

"PROGRESS"

We would like to take this opportunity to salute the people of Circleville on their continued growth and progress.

We are proud to have been part of the continued growth of Circleville, with our newly remodeled shop to serve you better.

Circleville

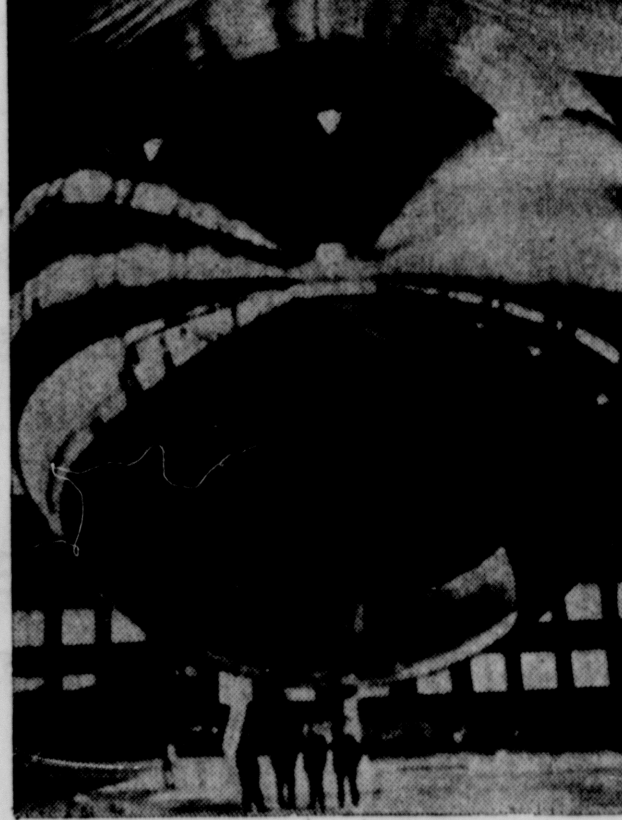

from Hot Dogs . . . to Missiles . . . to Satellites . . . to Typewriters . . .

Heat-sealable types of "Mylar" package a variety of meats, poultry and other products.

Heat-sealable, heat-shrinkable, and with tensile strength close to steel, "Mylar" encases cables essential in launching Titan II missile.

Tough "Mylar" was called on to go into space in the Paganos satellite launched last year.

In a single-use typewriter ribbon, "Mylar" eliminates breakage and permits more feet of ribbon on every reel.

. . . and in more than a thousand other uses . . . "MYLAR" Polyester Film from Circleville is improving existing products . . . and meeting new challenges!

Since Du Pont's Circleville plant made the first commercial poundage of "Mylar" in 1954, the history of this unique product and the parallel record of plant expansions and improvements in manufacturing techniques has been a constant race to fill ever increasing needs.

And while we've highlighted here the dramatic growth in applications for "Mylar" (we now manufacture more than 50 types), the Circleville plant has grown in other ways too. We now produce two other new and unusual film products — "Teflon" FEP fluorocarbon film and "Kapton" polyimide film.

Each of these new products exhibits distinctive properties that are creating demands for them in such modern needs as the production of printed circuits for electrical and electronic devices, and the insulation of such products as aerospace wiring where exceptional heat resistance is a requisite.

We started making "Mylar" with a crew of about 225 people. By last year, more than 1,100 employees were busy here. And we'll need even more help to fill world-wide demands for "Mylar" and "Teflon" and "Kapton" films.

Our plant technical laboratory has just completed an expansion program. The Circleville Research and Development Laboratory is now building additional facilities. And we're embarked on the third major manufacturing expansion in the plant's 13-year history. When the project is completed, mid-1968, we'll be able to produce more "Mylar" — and there'll be more new jobs to be filled.

So, there's every indication that we've got a lot of growing yet to do — and it's a pleasure to be doing it in Circleville!

Ammer Lumber Co. was founded in 1947 and construction was started in 1948. Shortage of material in those post-war years delayed the opening until May 1949.

The firm was founded by John Ammer, owner and operator. A native of Circleville, he is a tion, as well as an attractive atmosphere for visiting customers. There also is a roomy parking lot next to the building. Ammer Lumber Co. plans extensions and improvements in the future so that it may better keep up with changes in home building and industrial needs.

Ammer said all orders get prompt attention.

Information and advice is available and delivery is offered throughout Pickaway County as well as adjoining areas.

Heroic Acts Earn Honors For Youths

LISBON (AP) — Two young girls from Portuguese villages and a boy from Mozambique have been announced as winners of the Vale Flor Foundation prizes for youthful courage.

The Vale Flor prizes were founded in 1950 by the Marchioness of that name, in memory of her son and daughter who died. They consist of 20,000 escudos ($666) to be awarded to the boy or girl who during the past year has shown the greatest courage.

This year, for the first time, there were three winners. The first, 12-year-old Maria Fernand Araujo of Entre-os-Rios in north Portugal, rushed into her blazing home and saved her 4-year-old brother. Twelve-year-old Luria Afonso of Sardeiras, in the eastern part of the country, also saved a baby brother from a burning house.

In Mozambique, 7-year-old Joaquin was guarding his boss's 3-year-old baby when two fierce dogs attacked it. He covered the baby with his own body and was severely bitten.

Twenty-four other brave youngsters' names are sent in by various citizens to compete for this year's prizes.

Parking Meters' Time Is Up

PORTALES, N. M. (AP) — This eastern New Mexico city has decided to do away with parking meters.

The City Council took the action after a trial period in which the meters were covered and a two-hour parking limit set in the downtown area.

Police Chief Lloyd Moore said the two-hour system presented fewer problems than the use of meters.

Mayor James Kiker said revenue from the meters, estimated at $10,000 annually, provided little profit for the city because of labor and repair costs.

In 1949 when the company opened, formica had just appeared on the market. New machinery and methods of handling had to be devised for this material.

Ammer developed the ways and means and was able to provide formica sink tops to area customers as well as those in other counties.

Today Ammer sells formica to the "do-it-yourself" enthusiast.

In July, 1960, adjoining land was acquired and a new warehouse was erected on the north end of the original building. This addition more than doubled the floor space of the plant.

This marks the 18th year of the company's existence. It sells not only lumber and building supplies but also manufactures and repairs anything made of wood. Modern wood-working equipment and know-how makes this possible, no matter how large or small the order may be.

The plant is not made of wood storage sheds, but rather of one large building which is constructed of masonry and steel.

Quality Courts Modern Facility

The Quality Courts Motel, south of Circleville on Route 23, was completed in June of 1966. The establishment features all modern facilities, including electric heating and air-conditioning for the comfort and convenience of its guests. The motel is a 54-unit structure with 28 single rooms, 24 double rooms and two suites.

Meeting rooms are available for both large and small groups. In addition to a full-sized swimming pool, Quality Courts features the adjoining L-K Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge where live entertainment is presented every Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Icenhour are managers of the motel. They are former residents of Bellaire.

The Icenhours are the parents of seven children. Two of their sons are serving in the U. S. Army in Virginia. Quality Courts is owned by the Pickaway Motel Corp. Gail Wacker of Lancaster is president.

Robert Sindelair of Cleveland is the restaurant manager. He plans to move to Circleville with his wife and two children in the near future.

Floral Hills Memory Gardens, five miles north of Circleville on Route 23, became a part of the community scene Oct. 12, 1958.

Floral Hills, the only garden type cemetery in this area, was founded by Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Gump. It originated on 18 acres of raw farm land purchased from Fred Cook.

Marked by continual growth since its founding, Floral Hills today has three Adult Gardens and Babyland. Extensive work has been done on the roads and will continue.

The design block wall, facing Route 23, was erected in 1964.

Trees, shrubbery and general landscaping are worked on constantly. Time is considered the factor for final growth and completion.

Thousands of flowers are planted each spring for beauty and color during the summer.

The first Garden, Garden of Christ, has the figure of Christ as its feature. This is lighted at night and is clearly visible from Route 23.

The second Garden, Garden of the Last Supper, contains the feature memorial of Christ and His Disciples in warm, natural color.

The Masonic Garden has recently been laid out in the form of the Temple of King Solomon. The center feature of the Altar will be completed this summer.

Rodent Killed By Wild Chair

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Stenographer Rhoda Peterson was working at her desk when she gave her chair a shove and coasted toward a filing cabinet.

En-route she heard a loud squeak — and found she had run over a mouse.

Miss Peterson abandoned the office until a janitor assured her the accident victim was killed instantly.

Babyland, The Garden of Angels, has "Our Littlest Angel" as the feature.

More than 600 families in the Pickaway County area own lots in Floral Hills Memory Gardens.

The Board of Trustees for the Endowment Care Trust Fund, having decided that the funds had reached sufficient size for professional management, recently appointed the Trust Department of The Huntington National Bank, Columbus, as successor Trustee. From now on they will manage all endowment care funds.

The local office is located at 229A N. Court St. It has been managed by the secretary, Miss Mildred Wolfe, since September 1962.

Comments and suggestions are always welcome. The sincere desire is to prove Floral Hills always worthy of confidence.

Cat Is Involved In Rabies Case

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — The first 1967 case of rabies in Adams County was revealed when Glenn W. Mixer, 34, was clawed by a cat on the right leg.

Frank E. Rosendale, deputy rabies inspector, said in 1966 there were six cases, five involving skunks and one a fox.

In 1965 there were 25 cases, 21 involving skunks, three cattle and a fox.

"I imagine that the cat which attacked Mr. Mixer had been bitten by a rabid skunk," Rosendale said. "But there is no way of knowing for sure."

Mother Teresa Gets Six Vans

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Mother Teresa, whom the sick and helpless in Eastern India call "our own mother," has recently received six vans from Caritas Internationalis for her work.

Handing over the vans at a ceremony in Calcutta U.S. Consul General William Hitchcock said Catholics all over the world contributed to help purchase the vans.

The vehicles were imported free of duties under a U. S. India agreement. They will be used by Mother Teresa in six of the 20 homes she runs in India for the destitute and the sick, especially lepers.

Caddy Miller Made Early Start Here

Established by John Miller, a fur buyer and hatter, the Caddy Miller store has been in the same location at 125 W. Main St. since 1838.

Miller bought the raw furs from area trappers, processed it and formed it into hats for the local trade.

John Miller's son, William (Caddy) Miller took over the business and operated it as a hat shop and men's wear store until his death in 1927. Alvin E. Fissell, who had started working in the store at the age of 12, took over the reins.

Mr. Fissell passed away in 1957 after 72 years in the business.

Ownership of the store was then handed down to Miller Fissell, son of Alvin E. Fissell. He owns and manages the store today.

Aaron Lumpe, salesman, is also an "old timer" in the business, having been associated with the store since 1937.

Quality brands and famous names in men's clothing and furnishings have followed in the tradition of the quality hand-made fur hats made by the original owner almost 130 years ago.

Brehmer Operation Started In Circleville Years Ago

Brehmer Greenhouses on N. Court St. is another local firm with a rich historical background.

The local establishment was founded in 1887 by John J. Brehmer. Their business has remained in the family since that time.

Brehmer Greenhouses specialize in plants, cut flowers and nursery trees and shrubs. Robert Brehmer Sr., a veteran in the growing profession, is considered a real authority by those in gardening circles.

During the early years of operation (the horse and buggy days), a high percentage of sales was made by way of a covered wagon which traversed a 15-mile radius from Circleville. The animal propelled vehicle was a popular sight in Spring.

Loaded with plants, the wagon called at rural homes. Salesman rang a hand bell to attract the housewives who hurried to select plants for their flower beds.

In those days, the firm took merchandise to customers. Now the common procedure is for patrons to visit the greenhouses in person or place their orders by phone.

In years past, during the week before Memorial Day, advertisements were published in the Adelphi Border News and other county newspapers announcing the Flower Wagon would be at local cemeteries where blooming plants could be purchased for grave decorations.

Nature's fertilizer was the only plant food available in those days. Pastures were visited and manure was placed into large wooden casks.

Underphoned Home?

ROME (AP) — One Italian out of 10 has a telephone. A survey showed there are in the country 4,389,000 subscribers with 5,790,000 telephones in operation.

The casks were kept partly full of water. The resulting liquid constituted the only available plant food.

Hickory wood was considered the best fuel for heating the greenhouses. Heat was transmitted through brick flues.

Similar to a chimney, the flues were laid through the greenhouse with a slight rise all the way. They ended in an upright stack at the end of the greenhouse, creating a good draft.

Package Pictures Promote Product

CHICAGO (AP) — The housewife can look forward to better packages that will be eye appealing with colorful exteriors, pictorial photographs and more accurate descriptions of contents.

Designer Karl Fink, president of the Package Designers Council, said the recent use of photography on packages is to create a "mood" approach to the eye appeal of a "silent salesman" designed into a package.

"Greater stress," said packaging consultant Richard E. Paige, "will be laid upon making sure the prospective purchaser understands precisely what the box contains."

Established by John Miller, a fur buyer and hatter, the Caddy Miller store has been in the same location at 125 W. Main St. since 1838.

Miller bought the raw furs from area trappers, processed it and formed it into hats for the local trade.

John Miller's son, William (Caddy) Miller took over the business and operated it as a hat shop and men's wear store until his death in 1927. Alvin E. Fissell, who had started working in the store at the age of 12, took over the reins.

Mr. Fissell passed away in 1957 after 72 years in the business.

Ownership of the store was then handed down to Miller Fissell, son of Alvin E. Fissell. He owns and manages the store today.

Aaron Lumpe, salesman, is also an "old timer" in the business, having been associated with the store since 1937.

Quality brands and famous names in men's clothing and furnishings have followed in the tradition of the quality handmade fur hats made by the original owner almost 130 years ago.

Brehmer Operation Started
In Circleville Years Ago

Brehmer Greenhouses on N. Court St. is another local firm with a rich historical background.

The local establishment was founded in 1887 by John J. Brehmer. Their business has remained in the family since that time.

Brehmer Greenhouses specialize in plants, cut flowers and nursery trees and shrubs. Robert Brehmer Sr., a veteran in the growing profession, is considered a real authority by those in gardening circles.

During the early years of operation (the horse and buggy days), a high percentage of sales was made by way of a covered wagon which traversed a 15-mile radius from Circleville. The animal propelled vehicle was a popular sight in Spring.

Loaded with plants, the wagon called at rural homes. Salesmen rang a hand bell to attract the housewives who hurried to get plants for their flower beds.

In those days, the firm took merchandise to customers. Now the common procedure is for patrons to visit the greenhouses in person or place their orders by phone.

In years past, during the week before Memorial Day, advertisements were published in the Adelphi Border News and other county newspapers announcing the Flower Wagon would be at local cemeteries where blooming plants could be purchased for grave decorations.

Nature's fertilizer was the only plant food available in those days. Pastures were visited and manure was placed into large wooden casks.

Underphoned Home?

ROME (AP) — One Italian out of 10 has a telephone. A survey showed there are in the country 4,389,000 subscribers with 5,790,000 telephones in operation.

The casks were kept partly full of water. The resulting liquid constituted the only available plant food.

Hickory wood was considered the best fuel for heating the greenhouses. Heat was transmitted through brick flues.

Similar to a chimney, the flues were laid through the greenhouse with a slight rise all the way. They ended in an upright stack at the end of the greenhouse, creating a good draft.

Package Pictures
Promote Product

CHICAGO (AP) — The housewife can look forward to better packages that will be eye-appealing with colorful exteriors, pictorial photographs and more accurate descriptions of contents.

Designer Karl Fink, president of the Package Designers Council, said the recent use of photography on packages is to create a "mood" approach to the eye appeal of a "silent salesman" designed into a package.

"Greater stress," said packaging consultant Richard E. Paige, "will be laid upon making sure the prospective purchaser understands precisely what the box contains."

Du Pont's Expansion Here Part of Fascinating Story

Fascinating — how one thing leads to another.

Like how a scientist, drawing a fiber out of a test tube in a laboratory in Delaware way back in the '30s, the years of the big bands and the Depression could be the forerunner of a plant in Circleville where more than 1,100 local people are employed, and where the payroll alone last year topped $8,500,000.

This is the story of a product — "Mylar" polyester film — and the local operations built on that product — the Du Pont Circleville plant. The local facility keeps on expanding in size and people and output, as this unusual material continues to find new uses in products that enrich our lives and environment.

The scientist of the '30s was Dr. Wallace H. Carothers, who was heading a research team studying the linking of molecules to form long-chain polymers.

The first of these polymers Dr. Carothers worked with was of a chemical class known as polyesters. But he was dissatisfied with the experiment and turned to the polymerization of other types of chemical structures, eventually discovering nylon.

Now let's flash ahead to the World War II year of 1944 and to another Du Pont laboratory, this time in Buffalo, N. Y. Another researcher, Dr. Emmette F. Izard, had taken up the study of polyesters and developed a new compound within this chemical family — polyethylene terephthalate, which had none of the deficiencies of the polyesters of Carothers' time.

Dr. Izard's discovery opened opportunity doors that had long been closed. Today many modern products based on polyesters are playing a role in our daily lives. The two we know best, of course, are "Dacron" polyester fiber, the mainstay of our wash-and-wear wardrobes, and "Mylar" polyester film — an important factor in the life of this community.

These research developments touched the life of Circleville very lightly, if at all, back there in the '30s and '40s. As a matter of fact, it was the last day of August of 1951 when the name "Du Pont" first became of immediate local importance.

On that day, The "Herald" announced that E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. had taken options on 435 acres, about two miles south of the city, on U. S. Highway 23 and the Scioto River. Involved were 160 acres of the Miriam Adkins farm and 275 acres of Pickaway Farms.

But the purpose behind the impending purchase was still obscure, because Du Pont spokesmen declared that "plans have not been sufficiently developed to announce either the type or size of operations that may be located there."

The following January, Du Pont made another announcement, which was carried by publications throughout the world but which, again, stirred hardly a ripple on the Circleville communications pond. This time they said the company had developed an entirely new film with unusual strength, heat resistance and insulating qualities.

The announcement went on to say this new film would be trade-marked "Mylar" polyester film and that it was being produced experimentally on a small-scale operation in a research laboratory in Buffalo.

Then, in November of 1952, we finally realized the connection between these two Du Pont announcements. The company told us it would start construction early in 1953 of a $10,000,000 plant to manufacture "Mylar" polyester film on that farmland south of Circleville. Furthermore, they told us that the Circleville site had been selected from nearly 100 prospective locations that had been investigated.

Sports Goods Sales Increase

CHICAGO (AP) — Americans are sports happy and getting happier.

Richard E. Snyder, economist for the National Sporting Goods Association, said 1966 marked the first time sporting goods consumer sales topped the $3 billion plateau.

It passed the $1 billion mark in 1947 and reached the $2 billion level in 1960.

Five categories of sporting goods are expected to show sales in excess of $200 million this year. They are pleasure boats and equipment, firearms and supplies, golf equipment, bicycles and fishing supplies.

Fishing supplies moved into the select list for the first time. Billiard and pool tables and supplies edged above the $100 million mark for the first time.

The bulldozers moved into the cornfields, and construction crews followed the 'dozers. We all watched the buildings and towers and intricate network of piping take form.

In July, 1954, the world's first commercial poundage of "Mylar" was produced here. About 225 people were employed at the plant — and there was still little local realization of what this product and this plant might eventually mean to the area. The intervening 13 years have given us both that answer and a promise of things to come — written in the headlines!

To detail every milestone for "Mylar" would use up the editorial space in this edition, so here are just a few highlights as they were headlined on business pages of the nation and the world presses:

"Insulation of 'Mylar' Reduces Moisture Loss;" "Mylar Bonded to Aluminum for Improved Moisture-Vapor Barriers;" "Mylar Multiplies Life of Magnetic Tapes;" "New Type of 'Mylar' for Packaging Uses;" "Metallic Yarns of 'Mylar' Bring Lasting Sparkle to Fabrics;" "New Thin Gauge 'Mylar' Has Double Strength;" "New Heat-Shrinkable 'Mylar' for Meats and Poultry;" "Mylar is Key to TV's Video Tape Development."

As word of these developments with the film broke, there was almost sure to be an echoing announcement affecting the Circleville plant. Again, changes were too numerous to mention. But here's a chronological sampling:

June, 1956 — new equipment to be installed to coat "Mylar" for specific industrial and packaging uses.

October, 1956 — an expansion is planned to increase production from the Circleville plant by 50 per cent.

July, 1957 — establishment of a technical section at Circleville to develop new processes and technical improvements involving "Mylar."

August, 1959 — new laboratory and office facilities to be built in Circleville.

September, 1962 — a new plant on the Circleville site to produce "Teflon" FEP-fluorocarbon film.

November, 1962 — an experimental unit to be built for development of a new film with extensive high-temperature applications (the film we now know as "Kapton" polyimide film, and which is in production here).

January, 1964 — construction of a major addition to the Circleville Research and Development Laboratory announced.

Meantime, even this feverish expansion program couldn't produce enough "Mylar" to fill the world's demands. Over the recent years, plants have been completed and are producing the film in Florence, S. C., and in Luxembourg.

But if Circleville citizens think the Du Pont growth has stopped, they have only to take a drive past the plant today. In late November of last year Du Pont announced another major expansion in the production of "Mylar" here was needed. Construction work is under way on new facilities and modernization of the existing equipment.

When the work has been completed and the new facilities are ready for start-up next year, it will mean more "Mylar" for this product's expanding markets and more jobs for local people.

Logan Offers Large Display Of Monuments

The Logan Monument Co. was founded in Logan in 1933 by George C. Shaw.

Shaw still heads the company today. Offices and display lots are located in Circleville, Pomeroy, Logan and Vinton.

The Circleville office at 100 Seyfert Ave. opposite Forest Cemetery was opened in 1947. John T. Larimer has been manager since 1952.

Several hundred traditional and modern memorials are on display there. They are continually changed and enlarged.

Logan Monument Co. offers the largest selection of memorials in Southern Ohio. The firm can furnish granite or marble from any foreign or domestic quarry.

Tradition House Is Product Of 36 Years of Experience

The Tradition House Furniture Store, 114 W. Main St., is a product of 36 years of experience by Chester A. Blue in the furniture business.

The Circleville Furniture Co., later renamed The Blue Furniture Co., was the beginning of Blue's successful career in the business.

Prior to owning the furniture store, he operated the first individually owned supermarket in Circleville. It was located in the building now occupied by Stonerock Appliances.

In 1931 The Blue Furniture Co. was located in the Bales building on E. Main St. From this site the company moved to W. Main St. where the J. C. Penney Store now operates.

In 1949 the company again moved. The corner of Main and Scioto streets was the new location and the firm remained there for 15 years.

The entire stock of the Blue Furniture Co. was sold to the Tradition House in 1964. This year Blue sold his interest in the Tradition House and the company is now operated as a partnership by David A. and Martha Blue, his son and daughter.

Looking back over his long career, Blue says he is proud the furniture firm was able to serve three generations of Pickaway County customers.

The Tradition House will carry on the policies which allowed the Blue Furniture Co. to remain a familiar scene in Circleville for 36 years.

Elsea Operation Featured By Two Business Divisions

Elsea Incorporated, 1265 N. Court St., is a closed corporation composed of two divisions.

One of the divisions is known as Circleville Mobile Homes. The other is Power Equipment Center.

The business was founded in 1950 by Robert S. Elsea. It started at the present location.

The Mobile Home park had original space for seven units. The present size is 70 units.

Each year since its beginning, the firm has undertaken a program of expansion and growth. In 1960 the company introduced a retail line of marine products. The lawn and garden equipment field was added in 1963.

Today the company offers almost any and all parts, accessories, attachments and services connected with power equipment, including chain saws, generators, welders and the like. Complete facilities for mobile home sales and services are included.

The company stresses service for the products it sells.

The owners also feel they have a desirable mode of living to offer as far as housing is concerned, especially to elderly fixed income groups and young couples just starting out. They consider their modern mobile home park with roomy lots, streets and recreational facilities an asset to any community.

Present officers of the corporation are Robert S. Elsea, president; Thomas R. Elsea, vice president; and Asa J. Elsea, secretary-treasurer. The latter two are sons of the top executive.

Full time employees number eight, including a service manager, sales manager, bookkeeper-secretary, construction superintendent, parts manager and general laborers.

Officers and all members of the company are encouraged to give as much time as possible to the community in a variety of ways. The firm's continued expansion and growth exemplifies the strong belief and faith in the community, the business and the future.

Second National Bank Originated in 1863

Circleville's Second National Bank has been a fixture in this community since 1863.

The financial institution became a reality after President Abraham Lincoln signed the National Currency Act which established a system of federally chartered banks. Second National was granted Charter No. 172 on Dec. 26, 1863.

The first shareholders' meeting of the new organization was held on Oct. 17, 1863, at which time a board of directors was elected. The same day Noah S. Gregg was elected the bank's first president.

The Articles of Association provided for the issuance of $75,000 capital stock. On Nov. 1, 1864, the amount was increased to $100,000. A few years later it was advanced to $125,000.

On Feb. 7, 1864, The Exchange Bank of Circleville, a private co-partnership, voted to discontinue operations and sold its assets to the recently organized Second National. The Exchange Bank had been organized on Aug. 1, 1855.

The first location of The Second National Bank was several doors west of its former location at 133-135 W. Main St. The West Main St. building was constructed in 1848 by the Marfield family and housed the privately owned Marfield Bank until it discontinued operations.

The Second National Bank of Circleville leased the Marfield Bank building and later purchased it in the early 1890's.

In 1963 it was the decision of the board of directors to erect a modern, adequate building, at 136 E. Main St. for the convenience of the banking public of this trade area. The new location provided space for all the bank's needs, including drive-in facilities and customer parking. The bank moved its operations there on April 4, 1964.

Samuel H. Ruggles was elected the bank's second president in 1882 and served until his death in 1904. He was succeeded by his son, Samuel Turney Ruggles, who served until his death in 1932.

O. S. Howard was named president in 1932 and served until his retirement in 1941, at which time he was succeeded by George G. Adkins who retired in 1943.

At the Jan. 1944 meeting of the board, Durward D. Dowden was elected to the presidency, the position he presently holds. He joined the bank in 1923 and served in numerous official capacities prior to his promotion to the top executive post.

Prominent names associated with the early development and growth of the bank were Dr. Marcus Brown, Samuel Rogers, Otis Ballard Jr., J. A. Hawks, E. E. Winship, G. A. Schleyer, C. G. Abernathy, William Foreman, S. H. Evans, J. M. Bell and A. C. Wilkes.

The present board of directors are Dr. John N. Bowers, Frank L. Bowling, Alden D. Bray, Harold S. Defenbaugh, D. D. Dowden, Donald E. Goodchild, Ben H. Gordon, J. P. Noecker and J. Beryl Stevenson.

Since 1863 The Second National Bank of Circleville has afforded this community uninterrupted service. Present day officials say they are proud to have contributed to the growth and progress of the community over this span of years. They pledge their support to the future growth and development of this progressive area.

Carl Hawks Sound Center Opened in '64

Carl Hawks Sound Center at 114 N. Court St. was founded in 1964 by Carl and Jean Hawks.

Their original location was 559 E. Mound St. They have carried a complete line of products since their founding.

Adding to their Magnavox products they handle a complete line of public address systems and intercom systems.

The firm offers all types of public address systems for sale and also for rent. Rounding out their sound system department is a complete music department.

In this music department is an assortment of instruments including guitars, drums and others. Along with the music department they also offer guitar lessons.

Maintaining a department to service their own products rounds out the line of facilities offered by the Sound Center.

Home Is Where The Heart Is

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — A herd of about 30 antelope has been causing damage to fields and orchards in this area.

The New Mexico Department of Game and Fish decided to use a helicopter to frighten the antelope into pens so they could be transported to a new range farther east.

The fleet-footed antelope largely ignored the helicopter and still are on the range. The reason: their present range is close to Farmington Airport and they are used to low-flying aircraft, game officials said.

Radios May Be Helpful For Studying

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Don't make your kids turn off the radio when they're studying. It may improve their grades.

Two sixth graders, Patrick Spellman and Robert Dinius asked six teachers to give their classes a list of 20 fairly difficult spelling words.

Students studied the words 15 minutes in complete silence in three classrooms, and made 307 mistakes.

In the other three classes where radios, record players and television sets were going full blast, the students made only 282 errors.

The 11-year-old researchers reported their findings at a science fair at the University of Arizona.

Economy Savings and Loan Established Here in 1950

The Economy Savings and Loan Co. has been a member of the Circleville business family since Feb. 10, 1950.

Origin of the company itself goes back to 1892 when the firm was founded by Col. D. H. Pond in Cleveland. The first office was located in the Blackstone Building there.

The local office first opened at 121 E. Main St. under the management of Charles Richards. He held this position until April 20, 1951, when Harold Kirby was assigned as manager.

Kirby was transferred in October of 1951 and Tom Thorne served as manager until Sept. 1, 1956 when he was assigned to another post with the company. He was succeeded by P. R. Baird who held the position until Aug. 1, 1959.

Following Baird's transfer, Charles R. Allton, then assistant manager, was promoted to the helm. He holds this position today.

In December of 1963, the Circleville office was moved to its new location at 117 W. Main St. The Home Office is located at 100 E. Broad St., Columbus.

Economy is a savings and loan company chartered under the building and loan laws of Ohio. It has operated continually for 75 years. The firm has never failed to pay (even through all the depression) both interest and principal. And the company has always paid its depositors on demand without regard to due date.

The founder, Col. Pond, is considered a true pioneer of the industry. He was an active motivating force for the improvement and advancement of the small loan industry fostering legislation for the mutual protection of the borrower and lender.

Much of the present small loan legislation now in effect was pioneered by Economy in cooperation with the Russell Sage Foundation.

Col. Pond was universally recognized as a pioneer with vision and leadership. These qualities led him to materially assist in the formation of the Ohio Assn. of Small Loan Companies, of which he served as president for several years.

He spent freely of his time and energy in the promotion of association work and served many terms as a member of the executive committee of the Ohio Assn. He was a familiar figure at all assemblies—local, state and national—of those men concerned with the welfare and operation of this business.

Col. Pond was an active civic leader in his community, lending support and helping hand to all worthy projects — especially the Red Cross, with which organization he had been closely associated on the executive committee since 1916. He also served as trustee of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Home.

The title was not an implied one, but was earned the hard way. Starting as a private in the 7th Cavalry, he worked his way up through the ranks, becoming a captain in the Spanish-American War. He continued his interest in military affairs throughout his life, retiring from military service in 1934 as a colonel in the Quartermaster Corps, U. S. Army Reserves.

In 1937 Colonel Pond wished to be relieved of the rigor of actively directing the Economy Savings and Loan Co. and started looking about for an organization to carry on the work he had started. His choice was the Capital Finance Corporation to whom he sold the entire ownership of Economy.

Col. Pond retired as Economy's president and became chairman of the Economy Board of Directors in addition to assuming a seat on Capital's Board.

At the juncture of Capital's purchase of the Economy offices, there were then three branch Economy units, all operating in Cleveland with a total loans receivable figure of $682,263.95.

Since 1937, under Capital's experienced management, Economy has grown to over 100 branch offices spread across the entire state of Ohio, and involving a total loan receivable of $99 million.

In 1937, Economy investors had bolstered the company with $872,050.83 in savings accounts and certificates of deposit. Today the figure is more than $82 million.

Elsea Operation Featured By Two Business Divisions

Elsea Incorporated, 1265 N. Court St., is a closed corporation composed of two divisions. One of the divisions is known as Circleville Mobile Homes. The other is Power Equipment Center.

The business was founded in 1950 by Robert S. Elsea. It started at the present location.

The Mobile Home park had original space for seven units. The present size is 70 units.

Each year since its beginning, the firm has undertaken a program of expansion and growth. In 1960 the company introduced a retail line of marine products. The lawn and garden equipment field was added in 1963.

Today the company offers almost any and all parts, accessories, attachments and services connected with power equipment, including chain saws, generators, welders and the like. Complete facilities for mobile home sales and services are included.

The company stresses service for the products it sells. The owners also feel they have a desirable mode of living to offer as far as housing is concerned, especially to elderly fixed income groups and young couples just starting out. They consider their modern mobile home park with roomy lots, streets and recreational facilities an asset to any community.

Present officers of the corporation are Robert S. Elsea, president; Thomas R. Elsea, vice president; and Asa J. Elsea, secretary-treasurer. The latter two are sons of the top executive.

Full time employees number eight, including a service manager, sales manager, bookkeeper-secretary, construction superintendent, parts manager and general laborers.

Officers and all members of the company are encouraged to give as much time as possible to the community in a variety of ways. The firm's continued expansion and growth exemplifies the strong belief and faith in the community, the business and the future.

Second National Bank Originated in 1863

Circleville's Second National Bank has been a fixture in this community since 1863.

The financial institution became a reality after President Abraham Lincoln signed the National Currency Act which established a system of federally chartered banks. Second National was granted Charter No. 172 on Dec. 26, 1863.

The first shareholders' meeting of the new organization was held on Oct. 17, 1863, at which time a board of directors was elected. The same day Noah S. Gregg was elected the bank's first president.

The Articles of Association provided for the issuance of $75,000 capital stock. On Nov. 1, 1864, the amount was increased to $100,000. A few years later it was advanced to $125,000.

On Feb. 7, 1864, The Exchange Bank of Circleville, a private co-partnership, voted to discontinue operations and sold its assets to the recently organized Second National. The Exchange Bank had been organized on Aug. 1, 1855.

The first location of The Second National Bank was several doors west of its former location at 133-135 W. Main St. The West Main St. building was constructed in 1848 by the Marfield family and housed the privately owned Marfield Bank until it discontinued operations.

The Second National Bank of Circleville leased the Marfield Bank building and later purchased it in the early 1880's.

In 1963 it was the decision of the board of directors to erect a modern, adequate building, at 136 E. Main St. for the convenience of the banking public of this trade area. The new location provided space for all the bank's needs, including drive-in facilities and customer parking. The bank moved its operations there on April 4, 1964.

Samuel H. Ruggles was elected the bank's second president in 1882 and served until his death in 1904. He was succeeded by his son, Samuel Turney Ruggles, who served until his death in 1932.

O. S. Howard was named president in 1932 and served until his retirement in 1941, at which time he was succeeded by George G. Adkins who retired in 1943.

At the Jan. 1944 meeting of the board, Durward D. Dowden was elected to the presidency, the position he presently holds. He joined the bank in 1923 and served in numerous official capacities prior to his promotion to the top executive post.

Prominent names associated with the early development and growth of the bank were Dr. Marcus Brown, Samuel Rogers, Otis Ballard Jr., J. A. Hawks, E. E. Winship, G. A. Schleyer, C. G. Abernathy, William Foreman, S. H. Evans, J. M. Bell and A. C. Wilkes.

The present board of directors are Dr. John N. Howrs, Frank L. Bowling, Alden D. Bray, Harold S. Defenbaugh, D. D. Dawden, Donald E. Goodchild, Ben H. Gordon, J. P. Noecker and J. Beryl Stevenson.

Since 1863 The Second National Bank of Circleville has afforded this community uninterrupted service. Present day officials say they are proud to have contributed to the growth and progress of the community over this span of years. They pledge their support to the future growth and development of this progressive area.

Carl Hawks Sound Center Opened in '64

Carl Hawks Sound Center at 114 N. Court St. was founded in 1964 by Carl and Jean Hawks.

Their original location was 559 E. Mound St. They have carried a complete line of products since their founding.

Adding to their Magnavox products they handle a complete line of public address systems and intercom systems.

The firm offers all types of public address systems for sale and also for rent. Rounding out their sound system department is a complete music department.

In this music department is an assortment of instruments including guitars, drums and others. Along with the music department they also offer guitar lessons.

Maintaining a department to service their own products rounds out the line of facilities offered by the Sound Center.

Farm Service Store Started Here in 1948

The Red Rose Farm Service on E. Main St. came to being here in 1948.

The firm was established by John W. Eshelman & Sons, manufacturers of Red Rose Feeds. T. L. Huston of Stoutsville operated the store until June of 1960.

Since 1960, management of the firm has been under John W. Eshelman & Sons.

Dwight Wilson, an employee of the Eshelman firm for many years, served as manager of the operation from 1960 to 1965. The present manager is Walton W. Spangler.

Red Rose Farm Service has modern grinding and mixing equipment, grain bank storage, bulk feed handling facilities and farm supplies to serve Pickaway County farmers.

Beckett Firm In Business Many Years

The Beckett Implement Co., 119 E. Main St., was originally located in Ashville.

Stanley Beckett sold automobiles and tractors through the Beckett Motor Sales from 1918 until 1937 when he moved the business to Circleville.

He continued to sell autos until 1942 when he changed the name of the firm to the Beckett Implement Co. and went into the farm machinery business.

In 1946 Bryon and Nolo Glick joined their step-father in the business. When Mr. Beckett retired in 1956, the partners assumed full ownership of the company.

Today the Beckett Implement Co. handles a full line of Oliver, New Idea and Gehl farm equipment.

Giant Salami Said Close To Record

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Corrado Viola had one burning ambition—to make the world's biggest salami.

And when he turned out a monster sausage five feet long and weighing nearly 100 pounds, he thought he'd probably succeeded.

Viola, 37, a chef in an Italian restaurant in Johannesburg, spent two days making his salami. He had to use a plastic skin because he couldn't find an orthodox casing big enough.

Viola proudly hung it from the ceiling of the restaurant, adorned with red, green and white ribbon of the Italian national colors.

Maitre d'hotel Piero said: "Only in Bologna in Italy do they make such big salamis. And if ours is not the biggest one ever made, it is so close to it that it doesn't matter."

Thieves who broke into the restaurant were apparently daunted by its size. They left Viola's masterpiece alone and stole a smaller, 20-pound version.

Dirt-Ingesting Floor Predicted In Future Home

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Floors of future homes will have a tremendous—but healthy—appetite for dirt.

So say students of Philadelphia College of Art, participating in a study sponsored by Armco Steel Corporation.

Ingestive, self-cleaning floors will obsolete today's manual devices. Tiny cells activated by easy pressure, such as walking, will suck in the dirt and transfer it to ducts under the floor, where forced air will carry it off.

Thieves Took Wire

BULANDSHAHR, India (AP) —Indian farmers are not only being hampered by drought, insects and rodents but they are also plagued by thieves.

About 100 government and private wells ceased irrigation operations in this area recently when thieves cut one mile of electric power cable and made off with the wire—a high demand item on the Indian market.

Columbia Gas Operation Marked By Continued Growth in This Area

The year 1966—celebrated as the 150th anniversary of the gas industry in America—also marked a period of continued growth for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., in the Circleville area.

Charles R. Baker, Circleville manager for the gas company, said during 1966 Columbia Gas of Ohio invested almost $84,000 in the area served by its Circleville office. The money was used to build almost 2½ miles of new pipelines to extend natural gas service to 250 new customers and to expand and improve service to existing customers.

These and other improvements helped make it possible for Columbia Gas of Ohio to deliver more than 4.2 billion cubic feet of natural gas to its 6,930 customers in Circleville, Mt. Sterling, Ashville, Amanda, Stoutsville, South Bloomfield and the surrounding areas that are served by the Circleville office. About 95 per cent of these customers use natural gas for home heating, Baker pointed out.

Over-all, $29½ million was invested in new construction by Columbia Gas of Ohio and 26 sister company, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., during the year, Baker said.

Ohio Fuel supplies natural gas to Columbia Gas of Ohio and 26 other gas companies in Ohio. Both firms are part of the Columbia Gas system, Inc.

More than 608 miles of new pipelines were laid as part of the two companies' continuing program to provide the best possible service to more than 869,800 Columbia Gas of Ohio customers in 61 Ohio counties at residential rates that are among the lowest in the nation, Baker said.

"One important reason for these low residential gas rates is Ohio Fuel's underground storage program," Baker pointed out.

Ohio Fuel has 14 underground storage fields strategically located throughout the state. These facilities, with a total of more than 1,900 storage wells, were developed at a cost of more than $91 million. On the coldest winter days about 55 per cent of the gas used by Columbia of Ohio's customers comes from underground storage, Baker said.

In 1966 Ohio Fuel spent almost $3 million to further expand and improve underground storage and compressor station facilities. Sixty new wells were drilled into the storage fields and new compressor engines were installed at Crawford Compressor Station, Fairfield County, and Weaver Station, Richland County.

In addition, two major pipeline projects were completed in northern Lawrence County and southeastern Richland County in 1966 at a cost of almost $1½ million to increase deliveries of gas to and from underground storage.

New records were set in 1966 by Columbia Gas of Ohio in industrial applications of natural gas and in residential and large-tonnage air conditioning installations, Baker said.

As natural gas continued to gain in popularity as the favorite fuel for cooling as well as heating more than 1,170 residential air conditioning units were installed in Columbia Gas of Ohio territory in 1966—twice as many as were added in 1965.

Industrial sales increased 13.6 billion cubic feet, or 11.4 per cent, in 1966, representing an unusually high growth, Baker said.

Gas sales to public and commercial establishments increased almost 9 per cent, primarily because of the widely accepted use of gas for space heating in new schools, churches and county and state owned buildings. Gas heating was installed in 107 new schools or school additions in Columbia Gas of Ohio territory during the year, Baker pointed out.

The use of natural gas as prime mover fuel—where a natural gas engine or turbine is used for shaft horsepower applications—is growing at an exciting pace, Baker said. More than 30,000 horsepower of his type was added by firms in Columbia Gas of Ohio territory in 1966. Several Ohio industries also are generating electricity on-site using gas engine generator units which have proven to be highly reliable and economical, Baker said. Heat is recovered from these units for space heating, air conditioning and processing work.

Gas air conditioning installations for large buildings increased 70 per cent over 1965, with noticeable preference in modern, multi-million dollar factories such as General Mills, Lancaster, and McBee Systems, Inc., division of Litton Industries, Inc., Athens, Baker said. Hospitals also are finding gas absorption air conditioning to be extremely economical, and typical installations of this type took place in 1966 at Hocking County Hospital, Logan; St. Ann's Hospital, Columbus; Bethesda Hospital, Zanesville; Mansfield General Hospital, Mansfield, and Pomerene Hospital, Millersburg.

Continued accelerated growth is being forecast in all phases of the gas industry in the years ahead, Baker said. A recent American Gas Assn. survey indicates that about 9.8 million new customers will be added throughout the nation in the next decade. The nationwide pipeline network will increase 309,000 miles and the gas industry will spend $21.3 billion for new plants and equipment to serve new customers in new areas and to increase service to existing customers.

"Ohio will have an important share of this over-all growth," Baker predicted, "and as demands for energy increase, Columbia Gas of Ohio and Ohio Fuel will continue to expand and improve facilities and operating methods as needed to serve the people of Ohio."

Industrial sales increased 13.6 billion cubic feet, or 11.4 per cent, in 1966, representing an unusually high growth, Baker said.

Gas sales to public and commercial establishments increased almost 9 per cent, primarily because of the widely accepted use of gas for space heating in new schools, churches and county and state owned buildings. Gas heating was installed in 107 new schools or school additions in Columbia Gas of Ohio territory during the year, Baker pointed out.

The use of natural gas as prime mover fuel — where a natural gas engine or turbine is used for shaft horsepower applications — is growing at an exciting pace, Baker said. More than 30,000 horsepower of his type was added by firms in Columbia Gas of Ohio territory in 1966. Several Ohio industries also are generating electricity on-site using gas engine generator units which have proven to be highly reliable and economical, Baker said. Heat is recovered from these units for space heating, air conditioning and processing work.

Gas air conditioning installations for large buildings increased 70 per cent over 1965, with noticeable preference in modern, multi-million dollar factories such as General Mills, Lancaster, and McBee Systems, Inc., division of Litton Industries, Inc., Athens, Baker said. Hospitals also are finding gas absorption air conditioning to be extremely economical, and typical installations of this type took place in 1966 at Hocking County Hospital, Logan; St. Ann's Hospital, Columbus; Bethesda Hospital, Zanesville; Mansfield General Hospital, Mansfield, and Pomerene Hospital, Millersburg.

Continued accelerated growth is being forecast in all phases of the gas industry in the years ahead, Baker said. A recent American Gas Assn. survey indicates that about 9.8 million new customers will be added throughout the nation in the next decade. The nationwide pipeline network will increase 309,000 miles and the gas industry will spend $21.3 billion for new plants and equipment to serve new customers in new areas and to increase service to existing customers.

"Ohio will have an important share of this over-all growth," Baker predicted, "and as demands for energy increase, Columbia Gas of Ohio and Ohio Fuel will continue to expand and improve facilities and operating methods as needed to serve the people of Ohio."

Modern natural gas—for home heating, cooking, clothes drying, hot water, and for countless industrial uses—is now jet propelled!

Massive jet engines, similar to those used on today's supersonic aircraft, push natural gas through huge underground pipelines from the Southwest to Ohio.

This is a new concept in gas transmission ...and it works.

New ideas—like harnessing the jet—help your gas company assure a ready supply of natural gas here in Ohio, and help hold the line on costs while improving service.

New ideas like this keep jet-age natural gas your best bargain in modern energy for home, office and industry.
